

NEWBERRY VOTE IS HELD DISGRACEFUL BY PAT HARRISON

Seating More Shameful Than His Election, Says Democratic Leader; Two Senators Switched

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 11.—(U. P.)—That Senator Truman H. Newberry owes his seat in the senate to "certain powerful influences" and that his "white-washing" by the senate was "a greater disgrace than the Michigan elections," was charged here tonight in an interview by Senator Pat Harrison, Missouri, Democratic leader.

Senator Harrison, who was here to address Omaha Democrats, refused to affirm stories attributed to him in the Omaha News that he charged that money featured in the "trading of votes." "At least two senators who were strong in their opposition to Newberry, switched their votes at the last minute," Harrison declared.

"These senators were strong for the Willis amendment, which concerns the expenditure of large sums of money in political campaigns and stated that such expenditures were contrary to public policy and to the dignity and ethics of the senate."

"Certain Newberry followers agreed to vote for the Willis amendment, and in return certain members who planned on voting against Newberry voted for the Michigan amendment." "Any remarks I made regarding being bought off," he said, "were brought to bear on the Willis amendment deal."

"This is why Newberry was seated. I will have more to say, if the occasion arises."

CANDIDATES HESITATE ABOUT COMING OUT

congress to the Third district at least, come out into the open and declare themselves.

OLCOTT SETS TIGHT George I. Baker, mayor of Portland, is seen, so some friends relate, to shy his chair into the ring within the next few days.

C. E. Gates of Medford, according to the news from that city, is waiting to hear from "certain influences" before he makes up his mind definitely to come in or to stay out.

George Keady, commissioner of the Port of Portland, is thinking it over.

I. L. Patterson, joint senator from Benton and Polk, has been in Portland checking up, and has come back home again to Eugene, and to wait for the word he hopes will come to him that will be decisive.

Governor Olcott, currently supposed to have his mind made up to go again, is sitting silent as the Sphinx, waiting for the phenomenal moment to launch his candidacy.

OTHERS ARE THINKING Representative C. M. McArthur has hurried his boat, announced his intention to make his congressional race over once more, and has gone back to Washington, there to stay until May 1, or thereabouts.

Maurice Crosseneker is still thinking and pondering.

Franklin F. Kovel expects to have decided by the middle of the week whether he will be a congressional candidate, and Walter Lyons is still in the potential ring.

This about sums up the situation so far as possible candidates for governor and congressmen in the Third district are concerned, within the Republican ranks, that is. But it does not tell the whole story of what is happening them back, or urging them forward.

PATERSON CLOSURE Political gossip has it, and insists upon it, that the new and unvetted influence in state politics is much in the middle of the gubernatorial and congressional candidates, or of those who are potential aspirants for high office. The leaders of the Federated Patriotic Societies, newly organized, are looking for gubernatorial candidate upon whom the slightly odd tentacles of the federation may fasten as their own.

Olcott, it is said, does not please them, or has not pleased them by things he has done or is supposed to have intended to do. They are not friendly to him.

Baker, too, is at present at least, outside the warmth of the circle.

Kelly is a little closer to the heart of things, but Senator Patterson is closest to the heart for mantle of endorsement.

NEARTHEUNDER BAN Should this drapery fall about him it would bring him a definite and cohesive strength he up to this time has not possessed, and tend to bring him solidly and definitely into the fight.

Turning in the congressional fight in the Third district, which promises to be a warm and interesting battle, McArthur, from the current whispers of the day, also is under the ban of the new and militant influence. Keady is said to have been taken under advisement by this group, and the next few days will determine whether the verdict has been favorable or otherwise according as he comes into the battle or stays out.

And the same situation exists as to the legislative situation and the election of county commissioners in Multnomah county. The near future will bring the candidates out for governor, for the house, for the senate and for the county commission.

It is going to be no pink tea affair, so the prophets say, but a combat and a battle royal fought along new lines in such part, and for blood.

Ryan Says His Wife Sought Death When He Refused Divorce

Each, Jan. 11.—(U. P.)—The defense of Thomas S. Ryan, American newspaper man, charged with attempting to murder his wife, who lies critically ill at the American hospital from hemorrhage of mercury poisoning, if he is brought to trial, will be that she attempted suicide because he refused to agree to a divorce.

Ryan's story, which he told an examining magistrate at a preliminary examination here, was to the effect that he pleaded with his wife, a former California girl and prize-winning musician, for a reconciliation. This she refused, saying, according to Ryan:

"I want a divorce. Unless you consent, I'll commit suicide."

Ryan said that he jokingly answered: "All right; I've got some chloroform of mercury in my suitcase."

When he looked around, his wife had taken the poison.

Yakima, Jan. 11.—Washington wood-growers closed a two-day session here today with the announcement that the success of their plans for securing funds from the new finance corporation was practically assured.

Bankers of the city appeared before the convention and gave their endorsement of the plan, saying that no wood-grower's local credit would be impaired because he chose to borrow from the government.

Invitations was extended to the National Wood Growers' convention to meet in Spokane next year and if it is accepted, the Washington wood-growers will hold their annual convention at the same time.

POLICE FIND NO CLUE TO JENNINGS

Former Outlaw, Now Vaudeville Actor, Sought for Alleged Assault on Harry Kerr, Actor.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 11.—(U. P.)—Police tonight were without a clue as to the whereabouts of Al Jennings, former outlaw and train robber and now a vaudeville actor and swindler, sought on a charge of assaulting Harry Kerr, an actor.

Kerr swore Jennings threatened to kill him when Kerr entered the wife's room in a hotel here and found Jennings in her company.

Mrs. Kerr said her dealings with Jennings were perfectly legitimate. She declared after she met him in Kansas City he promised her a job in a new movie which he planned to stage soon.

"We were on our way to the east, where Mr. Jennings was to conclude his present engagement, and then planned to go to California, where we would seek another picture when the trouble started," Mrs. Kerr stated.

"She said she would not appear to aid in the prosecution of Jennings on Miami charges, which Kerr said he would ask against the former train robber."

"Jennings offered me $50 a week and expense if I would go to California and forget about the matter," Kerr said.
