

STANFIELD SAYS HE IS NOT GOING TO RESIGN SEAT

Oregon Senator Offers Explanation for his Absence From Upper House; Will Serve Term.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—Senator R. N. Stanfield denies that he intends to resign his seat in the United States senate, and insists that he intends to serve out the remainder of the term for which he was elected. His attention having been called to an article in the Journal of Thursday last, Senator Stanfield issued the following formal statement:

"Relative to a local article appearing in the Oregon Journal of the twelfth instant, I desire to make the following statement: I have absolutely no intention to resign from the United States senate. I was elected by the people a year ago and I intend to give them the best service that is in me during the remainder of my term.

"It is true I did oppose what I thought to be ruinous packer legislation, which in my judgment and the expressed judgment of congress, for that matter—would injure both the livestock producer and the consumer, but I did support reasonable regulatory legislation that passed the house and which was supported by my colleague, Senator McNary, in the committee on agriculture and on the floor of the senate.

"I have been away from the senate at times, principally on account of an effort I made to obtain monetary aid and credit for the farmers and the livestock men of the West. It is absurd to suggest that I am a resident of Weiser. Livestock companies in which I am interested have an office in that city on account of the interests we have in Eastern Oregon and in Idaho.

"In company with other senators I attempted to induce the war finance corporation to loan money to the farmers and livestock growers and to certain institutions representing these industries at Portland. Many of these loans have been made, others have not been made for the reason that the adjuster for the war finance corporation has not yet made his report."

STANFIELD LOSES PRESTIGE THROUGH FREQUENT ABSENCE

The article printed in the Journal, to which Senator Stanfield refers in his foregoing statement, was founded upon the current rumor, widely prevalent, that the senator was being subjected to "insistent pressure" desirous of his resignation. It is to be noted that the senator, in his statement, does not refer to any suggestion which might have been made to him that he resign, but confines himself simply to the statement that he intends to serve out his elective term.

The current rumor, which reached Portland last week, was that Stanfield had been asked to resign; that this request had been made by his former friends and close supporters; that he had taken the matter very seriously under advisement for a couple of days, and had finally determined to stay by his guns and serve out the remainder of his term.

KNOWN AS PACKER'S FRIEND

The bald fact seems to be that the junior senator has not embedded himself very firmly into the affections of official Washington. He has flown in the face of many of the established ethics of the United States, to the offense of its traditional dignity. He has been absent from the sessions of the upper house for most of the time since his election, and his colleagues, particularly those on similar committee assignments, have complained of his long continued vacation periods.

He has shown a singular light regard for the duties supposed to hang heavy upon the senatorial shoulder. He has become known as a firm friend and advocate of the packing interests of the country.

ASKED TO RESIGN

All of these circumstances, taken together, have not tended to boom the stock of the junior senator. On the other hand, when applications were made before the War Finance corporation for loans for the relief of the cattle, sheep and agricultural interests of Oregon, the various entanglements of Senator Stanfield stood in the way of their success. Finally, according to current report, those who are vitally interested in the refinancing of the Northwest livestock and agricultural interests, put it squarely up to Stanfield to resign in order that the shadow of his connection with these loans might be removed so that the War Finance corporation could see its way clear to grant them.

It was this situation, according to report, which started the story of his impending resignation. His statement, denying that he will resign, closes the first out chapter of the story.

Let Foreign Guest Join Family Circle, Then Talk, Advice

"We have a good many 'guests' in this country and they talk a good deal, but no attention should be paid to them. If they want to sit in on the family discussions let them become members of the family."

Dr. J. Franklin Babb of Boston, so declared, in addressing the Oregon Civic League Saturday, in making a plea for a better Americanism.

"While riding on a train recently a man in front of me declared that he wished he was back in Russia, and I would not refrain from leaning forward and saying that I, too, wished he was back there."

Dr. Babb urged modernism and modernism in all things, including dancing, moving pictures and the theatre, and he also advised everyone to have a hobby and to ride it hard.

"Do something that other people will criticize you for doing, or there will be no fun in doing it," admonished the speaker.

Bozo Milosevic, lecturer for the newly organized Pan-human church of Jugoslavians, was introduced by Dr. George Reber, and presented his work.

The president, A. C. Newell, announced that at the meeting next Saturday there will be a debate on dancing in the public schools in which Dr. Clarence True Wilson will oppose such dances.

COUNCIL TURNS DOWN LICENSE FOR CANNERY IN PORTLAND

DEMAND OREGON GOODS, SLOGAN IN STATE DRIVE

"If Women Would Ask for Home Products, We Would Have No Unemployment" Says Leader.

"If all of the women in Oregon would demand Oregon made products we would have no unemployment problem today," said Mrs. Alexander Thompson, president of the Portland Federation of Women's organizations at the meeting of that organization Saturday afternoon at the Portland hotel. Mrs. Norman Christie, executive secretary of the Young Women's Christian association, spoke of the unemployment situation with special reference to women, stating that they have on their books 400 women who are out of employment, many of whom are in actual need. Franklin T. Griffith, president of the Community Chest, explained that the Chest needs are greater than ever this year on account of the lack of employment.

The federation is sponsoring Oregon products week, January 22 to 28 inclusive, with a view to educating the people of the city to the fact that practically everything used in the home is grown or manufactured in Oregon and that the patronage of home products is one of the most effective ways of solving the unemployment problem. In commenting on the present situation Mrs. Thompson urged upon every woman to spread the gospel of the use of Oregon products. The feature of Oregon products week in which the federation is specially interested is the dinner at the Chamber of Commerce

Tuesday evening. There will be a fine program, including short addresses by Governor Olcott, B. F. Irvine, Mrs. M. B. Callahan and A. J. Bala, interspersed with music by Oregon composers. The dinner is open to the public and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. D. M. Watson, Main 3578.

Mrs. G. L. Huland, chairman of the legislative committee of the federation, offered a resolution urging the curtailment of the manufacture and sale of narcotics, a resolution urging the enforcement of the curfew law and a resolution pledging support of the bill before congress granting women independent citizenship. Mrs. G. J. Frankel, chairman of public welfare, reported a proposed plan of the public welfare bureau for the establishment of a city-wide committee for the making of garments for the sick and needy. Mrs. H. M. Morvelius, chairman of Americanization, reported that many club women are working on the survey among the foreign born population. Mrs. A. A. Cook spoke on behalf of the new Oregon song. A resolution of appreciation of the services rendered the public by School Director Shull, who directed the recent school investigation, was adopted.
