Mrs. M. Sheppard, Oregon Pioneer, Is Dead at Age of 72

Mrs. Martha Washington Sheppard, who died Friday, was born in Palmyra, Mo., February 23, 1850. She was but three months old when her parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Richardson Allen, left Independence, Mo., for Oregon. They arrived in Oregon City October 20 of the same year and soon after settled in Canemah, where Dr. Allen practiced his profession until his death, June 9, 1851.

Martha Allen was married to George Alfred Sheppard May 18, 1866, at the home of her parents in Oregon City. Three children were born to them—Jennie Grace, afterwards Mrs. Ralph L. Clarke of Spokane; Lynn, who died in Walla Walla, and Martha Elizabeth, now Mrs. William Barlow Tull, who alone survives her. Mr. Sheppard died in Seattle in 1904. Later she married William Barlow.

At the time of her death she was living with her daughter, Mrs. Tull, at 420 East Twenty-second street north, Portland, Or.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by two grandchildren, Captain George Sheppard Clarke of Georgia, and Mrs. Dorothy Clarke Perkins of San Francisco; also two half brothers, William S. Tull of Barlow, and Cassius U. Barlow of Piedmont, Cal., and one half sister, Mrs. Mary Barlow Wilkins of this city. Her own sister, Mrs. Marion Wallace

Cars piled on curb along Mississippi avenue hill this morning, typical of disaster to vehicles all over city, where slippery pavements made brakes of no avail. In upper picture, driver tied machine to a telephone pole to hold it on the street after a backward downhill skid.

MRS. JOHNSON ILL DAY SHE RAN OVER BOY SHE ASSERTS

Nan Johnson was ill. Although she attempted to "step on the brake" before she ran into a streetcar at Mississippi avenue and Shaver street October and killed 8-year-old Donald Foster, Nan Johnson was unable to make her machine stop, according to her testimony when she was called to the witness stand in Circuit Judge Stapleton's court today. She had been seized with sudden illness, she said. Mrs. Johnson is being tried on a charge of manslaughter. The car she was driving hit the streetcar fender, then bounced to the curbing and crashed into a real estate office, knocking down four persons on the way, one of whom was Donald Foster.

Mrs. Johnson wept a trifle on the stand while being examined by her attorney, Arthur Moulton, and also when Joseph L. Hammerly, deputy district attorney, cross-examined her.

On the day of the accident, she said, she borrowed the automobile and went to see a friend, Mrs. C. Pearson, who lived in Montana street. On her way back she went south on Mississippi avenue. She saw the streetcar crossing Mississippi and Shaver, but could not make the brakes work.

Mrs. Johnson got out of the car and went into the real estate office. A man whom she did not know said, "You'd better stay here." When asked if she mentioned anything about "beating it," she said she could not remember. She gave her occupation as "just one thing after another," mostly waiting on tables.

Highway Viaducts Will Not Be Given Permanent Repair

The viaducts on either side of Multnomah Falls on the Columbia river highway are weaker than present highway traffic demands and it would not pay to repair them permanently following damage done by the December blizzards, according to a report made to the county commissioners today by the state highway commission engineers.

The commissioners accepted the engineers' plan of temporarily repairing the viaducts by means of timber bents, which will be considerably cheaper than replacing the concrete columns that gave way under the load of snow and

The engineers stated that the floor slabs cracked in many places and that examination showed them too light to stand the strain of continuous and heavy traffic for many years. The viaducts were very near to complete collapse after the storm, the engineers stated.
