

STEFFENS WILL SPEAK AT LABOR TEMPLE TONIGHT

Revolutions, economic and political, are quite as natural phenomena as spring weather or spring hats and a whole lot more interesting subjects for study and investigation, according to Lincoln Steffens, traveler, writer and lecturer, who is scheduled to speak at 8 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of the new Labor Temple at Fourth and Jefferson streets. The lecture will be given under auspices of the central labor council and the subject will be "Revolution and What It Has Done to Our Theory."

Steffens is national secretary of the American Federated Committee for Russian relief, an organization which has shipped about $500,000 worth of seed grain and provisions to the Soviet Russian government to be dispensed by the Russian Red Cross during the past six months. He is also interested in the Mexican situation and will leave here this week for the Mexican capital.

There are three important and distinct types of revolution which have among the larger nations of the earth. Steffens stated. The Russian revolution is an example of armed resistance against an old established social order; the program of non-resistance outlined by Gandhi, the Buddhist prophet, for the revolution now under way in India is the greatest movement of its kind in history, and the enormous organization of capital and labor established in Germany by Hugo Sinnes is a novel type of aggressive bloodless revolution for the purpose of establishing a purely capitalistic state.

The situation in Asia is complicated by a rapidly strengthening underlying Messianic rumor, according to Steffens, and the character of world problems for the next generation depends very largely upon the type of spiritual leader who will take advantage of this deep-seated expectancy of a coming Messiah. Millions of people in India, China and Manchuria are awaiting the appearing of the new savior of the world, and Gandhi, head of the revolt in India, is being accepted as a divine leader by a large following.

Steffens was scheduled to speak at the Auditorium a year ago, but was forbidden the use of the building by Mayor Baker. Steffens secured a court order restraining officials from interfering with the lecturer and the speech was delivered at Columbia hall.

Three Copper Mines In Montana Reopen; 2600 Men Employed

Butte, Mont., Jan. 16.—(L. N. S.)—Butte's "dinner bucket brigade," the symbol of prosperity for the greatest copper mining camp in the world, will "fall in" this morning on a dozen paths to the various mines on Butte hill, heralding Montana's return to normalcy. At 3 o'clock whistles blew for the first time since April, 1921, when the copper mines and smelters were shut down because of lack of demand for the output. More than 2600 men went back to work on full time at the Anaconda, Butte & Superior and W. A. Clark mines.

FIRE DESTROYS NYE BEACH 'NAT'

Newport, Or., Jan. 16.—The Nye Beach natatorium, owned by E. M. Baker, was destroyed by fire this morning. The fire was discovered by A. L. Thomas, who lives close by and who turned in the alarm. The firemen responded quickly, but a considerable wind from the west fanned the flames to a terrific heat that destroyed a bath house, movie show building and a shooting gallery. Baker, owner of the building, moved out of his living quarters in the third story during the recent heavy storms here. The building and contents were insured for $10,000. It is estimated that rebuilding will cost more than the amount of insurance carried. The natatorium was the best drawing card for Newport as a summer resort.

New York City Is Drinking Bugs or Is Raising Thirst

(By United News) New York, Jan. 16.—Synura bugs in the New York water supply still make it optional whether one shall drink water as a chaser for whiskey, or whiskey as a chaser for the strong-tasting water. Dr. Frank E. Hale, bacteriologist of the department of water supply, has ascertained by analysis of samples taken as far away as 100 miles from New York that the bugs are still in strong force.

Killing the bugs merely emphasizes the strange taste, as they posthumously give off an oil which is called harmless, but which certainly has an aggressive way with sensitive palates. Some authorities have decided that the synura tastes like cucumbers, others say it is like codliver oil.

Japanese Factory Will Turn Out 600 Airplanes Yearly

(By Universal Service) Washington, Jan. 16.—Coincident with the armament conference's decision not to limit airplanes comes a consular report from Japan that a factory to produce 600 a year will be completed this year near Nagoya. Major S. M. Hickam, chief of information of the army air service estimates that the United States has at present 537 military airplanes. Oodily, Japan's official estimate is the same, but Japan is making public no estimates of the number of planes it has under construction or in process of purchase. Following the limitation of capital ships Japan is turning her savings into airplanes with which experts declare the nearest war will be largely fought. For the cost of one capital ship 3000 airplanes can be built.
