System of Power Company Gripped By Some Mishap

The entire light and power system of the Portland Railway Light & Power company was disturbed about 11 o'clock this morning when some trouble of undetermined nature developed on the high tension 60,000 volt line running from Casadero to Portland.

Elevators, street cars and the lighting system supplied with power by the P. R. L. & P. were out for about 15 minutes, while some of the east side districts were paralyzed for a longer period. Officials of the company expressed the opinion that either a limb from a tree fell over the line or an insulator on one of the towers broke down. Linemen were hunting for the trouble.
