

PAULHAMUS MAY TRY TO GET SEAT FROM POINDEXTER

Puyallup Man Declines to Make Definite Announcement; C. C. Dill of Spokane After Toga.

Seattle, Jan. 28.—W. H. Paulhamus of Puyallup and Sumner is the latest name to be mentioned as a possible opponent to Senator Poindexter in the coming election. Paulhamus himself would neither affirm or deny his candidacy. "I may run, or I may not," was the way he put it and refused to make a statement regarding what would affect his decision. Reports from the southwest part of the state favor Paulhamus and seem to point toward a majority for him there in case he runs.

In the meantime, C. C. Dill of Spokane, former member of congress, is going ahead with his candidacy and is making speeches over the southwest part of the state. He recently made a talk in Colfax in which he attacked the poll tax and used figures regarding the state Republican administration's automobiles which were gathered by the then Republican Post-Intelligencer.

POLL TAX UNPOPULAR
That the poll tax is unpopular is well known and the Democrats seem to intend to make the most of it as political capital.

The "shadow" condition of politics at this early stage of the fall elections is well illustrated by a possible series of trades that is going on here in Seattle. There has been much talk of another federal district judge. Talk is all it is. There is a bill before congress creating a number of district judges, but it does not carry a new judge for this district.

MAY CREATE JUDGESHIP
In view of all of this executive court business, there is talk of a new district judge. If there should be a new judge—providing congress would authorize one—who would it be? On the strength of that question one of the evening papers attacked the character of one of the local superior court judges and his fitness for the theoretical federal judgeship.

On the same question another man is holding off from becoming a candidate for mayor, because if there should be a judge appointed to it, this man might ruin his chances to be appointed to the vacancy on the superior bench by being either mayor or a candidate for the office. None of which is very tangible.

Don London, the well-known member of the legislature, showed why he was refusing to run for state senator again by announcing his candidacy this week for mayor. London has represented his district—the thirty-second—since 1911 and has much to do with a great deal of important legislation. It is expected that he will make a strong race for the mayor's job.

In speaking to the students and members of the state press at the University of Washington on Friday Lieutenant Governor W. J. Coyle called on the members of the press to bring pressure to bear on the next legislature to get back to the University with sufficient funds so that the present fees could be reduced.

The idea was introduced by Chapin D. Foster of Grandview, president of the state press association, and following his cue, Coyle said that although he had worked his way through college himself, he did not believe he would be able to do so under the present system of fees. The fees are a direct attack against free education, he said, and a serious handicap to the poor student in need of education. The fees average more than $60 a quarter, according to Dr. Suzzalo, the university president.

There probably will be a meeting of the Democratic state central committee during the first two weeks of February to map out the coming campaign.

MARK REED QUILTS
Christianen says his party is determined to make the fight hot this winter and if possible elect as many as 20 to 25 seats in the lower house of the legislature and thus have a good working majority and in some cases the balance of power.

During the last legislature when there were only three Democrats in the house and two in the senate, the Republicans had to stir up arguments among themselves in order to break the monotony, but Christianen believes that next winter it will be different.

Francis Taylor Is Chosen as Orator For Second Time

Pacific University, Forest Grove, Jan. 28.—For the second successive year, Francis Taylor, senior of Forest Grove, won the right to represent Pacific in the state oratorical contest, taking first place in the home contest last week and a $50 prize offered by the law firm of Hare, McAlister & Peters, Hillsboro.

Others entered were: Watt Long, Rainier, second, who will represent Pacific university at the state peace oratorical contest in March; William Harrison, Forest Grove; Christ Loukan, Pendleton; Ralph Jack, Portland; and Carl Curtis, Forest Grove.

COWLITZ FAIR DATES SET
Kelso, Wash., Jan. 28.—The annual Cowlitz county fair at Woodland will be held September 27 to 30. A committee of women is revising the fancy work and tented Joseph Gardner, County Agent T. Y. Blanton and Miss Nora Kelly, county club leader, are preparing preliminary lists.

AID REACHES BANK FIVE MINUTES TOO LATE TO DO GOOD

Klamath Falls Institution Closes Its Doors Because of Inability to Call Loans to Meet Demands

Klamath Falls, Jan. 28.—Five minutes after the First State & Savings bank closed its doors here this morning assurance of financial assistance was received from Portland which would have permitted the bank to stay open. This information was given out by bank officials at noon today. The bank opened at 10 and closed at 10:20 o'clock, when it seemed improbable that the awaited word would be forthcoming.

One hundred and forty thousand dollars had been promised from Portland, $50,000 from San Francisco and $30,000 from other sources, it was said, bringing the total up to $175,000.

General economic conditions which prevented loans being called without forcing business houses to the wall, depletion of reserves, together with recent steady withdrawals were the reasons given for the close. S. E. Wallies of the state banking department has been appointed receiver. The closing was a crushing blow to officials of the bank, who believed the steps they had taken would prevent such action.

The bank closed its doors January 12, 1921, but reopened at the end of 90 days, after the whole county had given evidence of its faith in Captain J. W. Siemens, the founder, by offering every dollar that could be raised.

Ice Jam Is Formed At Weiser Bridge

Ontario, Or., Jan. 28.—An ice jam has formed at Weiser bridge and much ice is piled up about Olds ferry. Dead Ox flat is in no danger unless an eight foot snow occurs. The weather is warmer and snow was falling tonight.

WOMAN MAY SURVIVE
Twin Falls, Idaho, Jan. 28.—Hope for the recovery of Mrs. Olive May Frederickson, wife of C. W. Frederickson of Twin Falls, who Monday evening at a Pocatello hotel swallowed poison, is held out by attending doctors.

ROAD WORK TO BE LET
Spokane, Wash., Jan. 28.—Contracts for about $60,000 worth of road surfacing work in Spokane county, on the Inland Empire, Central Washington and Pend Oreille highways, will be let February 3 by the Spokane county commissioners. Harry S. Baker, county engineer, announced.
