

SEATTLE GIRL, 13, QUIT SCHOOL TO FIND WORK HERE

Because she didn't want to go to school, pretty Florence Thoresen, 13-year-old miss, slipped away from her home in Seattle Thursday and boarded a train for Portland.

"No, there isn't a boy in it at all," she told Mrs. Myrtle S. Keiser of the woman's protective division, who questioned her Thursday night.

"You've traveled before, then?" asked Mrs. Keiser. "Oh, yes. I was in Norway two years ago, and spent quite a while in New York," she replied.

"What would a girl like you do?" asked Mrs. Keiser. "Well, I don't know. Anything." Miss Thoresen is still in grade school, she told her questioner.

"But I didn't like it very well," she declared. HOMESICK ON TRAIN She said she was a little bit homesick on the train, and wrote her mother a letter.

When she was settled in Portland she intended to write another telling where she was, she told Mrs. Keiser. "Well, don't you know your mother would come after you?" she was asked.

"Yes. But she was coming down here anyway. I guess I'll have to go back to Seattle and go to school."

Police expect relatives of the girl to arrive here today to take her back home. She was placed in the detention rooms of the woman's protective division Thursday night.

Plans of the park and its contour were sent to Proctor when it was decided that the statue, donated to the city by Dr. Henry Waldo Coe, should be located on the crest of the mountain.

The letter suggests that the triangular plot at Nineteenth and Washington streets or a place in the south park strip in front of the Arlington club be used.

To consider the suggestions of the sculptor a meeting of the committee will be held next week, Pier said.

Reports on Date of Genoa Conference Are Contradictory

London, Feb. 17.—(I. N. S.)—Contradictory reports were received here today regarding the date for the opening of the international economic conference at Genoa.

A Daily News dispatch from Rome said that the opening had been postponed until April 15. Later a dispatch from Rome quoted the Corriere D'Italia as saying that the conference would not be postponed, but would open on the original date, March 8.

It was announced at the foreign office at noon that no official notification had been received from Rome regarding postponement of the conference. It was admitted, however, that the meeting may be delayed, following the preliminary conference of experts.

The passage of the bill was a big victory for Premier Lloyd George. The political foes of the premier had made their supreme fight upon the measure and upon the premier's Irish policy.

This vote automatically rejects amendments to the bill which had been proposed. The passage of the bill was a big victory for Premier Lloyd George.

The international communications conference will be called into sessions next week to approve the Pacific cable agreement reached during the armament conference and to attempt to allocate the remaining ex-German cables in the Atlantic. It was announced at the state department today.

LAST WITNESS IN MOORE WILL CONTEST HEARD

After four weeks of heated litigation, the last witness left the stand at 11 o'clock this morning in Circuit Judge Taswell's department in the L. K. Moore will contest case.

The judge announced that his time would be taken up with other matters and that he would put off hearing arguments of attorneys for at least a month.

Mrs. Greta Moore Thompson, contestant, was on the stand most of the morning as a rebuttal witness in her own behalf. She said she had never had a pair of silk stockings as long as she lived with her father, L. K. Moore, and her stepmother, Mrs. Jessie Elrod Moore, which was virtually up to the time of her marriage.

Mrs. Thompson was disinherited by her father, and Mrs. Moore received the entire estate. A redivision is asked by Mrs. Thompson.

Attorneys for Mrs. Thompson today marshaled many little incidents of the Moore home life in an effort to show that Mrs. Thompson was neglected by her stepmother, and that her stepmother, in turn, influenced her father to be indifferent to her.

Mrs. Moore admitted on the stand that she had told her stepdaughter that L. K. Moore was about to leave the first Mrs. Moore. Mrs. Thompson's mother, at the time the first Mrs. Moore died, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore of Moro, Or., were called to the stand and testified that they had never known a man to grieve as L. K. Moore grieved at the time of his first wife's death.

He would never have left her, they said. The two Moore families lived together above a little store in Grass valley at the time.

OSCAR TURNER DECLARED NOT GUILTY Oscar Turner, negro, had no part in the robbery of Elmo Avery in the Eureka Social club, Fifteenth and Lovejoy streets November 18, a jury in Circuit Judge Gatens' court decided after 15 minutes of deliberation Thursday afternoon.

Most of the evidence submitted by the state pointed to James Raglan, another negro, as the actual robber. Raglan held up Avery when the latter refused to lend him $5, the state claims. Turner was the "outside" man, it was maintained.

Raglan and Turner were arrested a few hours after the holdup. Turner at that time claimed he was the owner of the gun used by Raglan in the robbery.

Sultan's Dignity in Way of 'Reconciling' Turkish Differences

(Special Cable to The Journal and Chicago Daily News) Constantinople, Feb. 17.—The sultan's dignity stands in the way of a reconciliation between him and the Ankara regime.

Yusuf Kemal, the Nationalist foreign minister, is here, having been commissioned by the national assembly to present the Nationalists' terms to the government.

The conditions are considered acceptable by government officials in Constantinople but they fear the sultan will refuse even to see Yusuf as he has declared repeatedly that the Nationalists must accept his orders and that it would be undignified for the caliph to discuss conditions with his own subjects.

The Nationalists propose that Constantinople should be the executive center while the national assembly should remain the legislative power. The sultan, under the conditions, would appoint the cabinet ministers, but the navy, army, interior and justice portfolios should be the Nationalists' and the remainder go to the followers of the sultan, while the grand vizier would be appointed by the caliph on the recommendation of the council of ministers.

Owner of Property Gains Small Sum By Going to Court

Now that the claim of John Maleski for additional damages from the city for the extension of Interstate avenue has been settled in court, authority will be asked of the city council to enter the assessment for the project on the lien docket. A. J. Johnson, assistant commissioner of public works, said today.

According to the estimate of the city engineer, Maleski was allowed $389 damage to his property by the extension. This was protested and taken to the city court. The jury decided Thursday that the award should be $450. The difference will be made up from the general fund, Johnson said, as it would cost more to reapportion the assessment in the district.

By law all assessments for street extensions must be paid before the extension can be made. The proposed extension of Interstate avenue is a diagonal from Fremont street to Delay and Morris streets, and one from Prescott street to Mason street, eliminating jogs in the avenue at both places. The estimated cost of securing right of way and awarding damages is approximately $52,000.

Perilous Situation Avoided by Girl

"Oh, Elsie, I am worried to death. The boss has been so cross lately. I am afraid he will fire me. That would be nothing less than a calamity and I don't know what I'd do. Mr. Brown said I was getting nervous and cross and that I had better quit dancing all night. I was so dazed I couldn't say a thing. I haven't danced for ages. That's the sad thing about it. I haven't any clothes to wear anywhere, so I have been staying home evenings trying to make me a party dress out of some goods I bought at a sale. And I am no seamstress. Sewing makes me so nervous, and I am worried half sick because I have about ruined my material."

"Cut out the sewing. That's what makes you nervous. The boss objects to that because you can't work so well. You will save money by using your evenings for pleasure."

"And you should buy your clothes at Cherry's, 349 Morrison Street. You don't have to pay the whole amount at once, you know. No first payment is required for the next 30 days, then small monthly payments. They are open on Saturday nights, too, until 8 o'clock. Cherry's have the entire second floor at Park and Morrison St. Entrance, 349 Morrison, center of the block. Take elevator."—Adv.
