

SAVING IS HELD TO BE INADEQUATE TO RAISE BONUS

By John Gleason
United News Staff Correspondent
Washington, Feb. 21.—Any effort to pay the soldier bonus through economies would be futile, in the opinion of Senator Warren of Wyoming, chairman of the powerful senate appropriations committee.

Many members of the house have urged that this be attempted. They would pass the bonus bill without provisions for raising revenue, and depend on reductions in the army, navy and other appropriation bills to supply the needed funds.

Dot Warren pointed out that huge deficits already are in prospect for the ensuing fiscal year. He agreed, further, with the statement of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that sources of taxation are drying up and that presentation of accurate taxation estimates at present is next to impossible.

"It is ridiculous to assume that enough money can be saved out of the legitimate sources of internal revenue and customs to take care of the bonus," said Warren.

The bonus problem in the house is back where it was. The taxation subcommittee of the ways and means committee is to meet Tuesday again to seek an answer to the question of where funds are to be obtained.

SALES TAX LOOMS UP
Best information indicates that a limited manufacturers' sales tax will be applied to raise the greater portion of the $1,000,000,000 or $1,000,000,000 required for the first year's bonus. Economies would be counted on to supply a portion of the funds not raised by taxation. There has been nothing near agreement on this point, however. Leaders hope to report out a bill this week. It would go before a Republican conference which probably would be held next Monday or soon after. It was thought that a conference might endorse the sales tax. But this would not mean that the tax would be accepted on the floor of the house. Many Republicans would refuse to be bound by the conference and they would have the support of the Democrats.

Representatives from farming states are especially hostile to the sales tax idea. One of the Republican leaders told the writer not more than 100 Republican votes could be counted on in favor of the tax. This, he said, was an increase of 25 per cent since the receipt of the letter of President Harding.

CIRCULATE PETITION
Middle Western representatives, who are hostile to a sales tax, after a secret meeting Monday put in circulation petitions directed against the tax. They were led by Representatives Frear of Wisconsin and Dickinson of Iowa. A score of signatures were obtained during the afternoon.

Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, attacked the majority for failure to enact the bonus bill. In a speech from the floor Monday. He read a letter, which he said was being sent out from the office of Representative Hand-Flon Fish Jr. of New York.
The letter, according to the senator, said:
"Have you any old clothes, shirts, overcoats, shirts, underwear, shoes and so forth? The 'Lest We Forget' committee has requested me to ask you to leave, or send, your old clothes to 315 O street any time of the day for the next two months. The committee will undertake to clean and repair your old clothes and place them in the hands of ex-service men who are in need."

FITTING SPECTACLE
Caraway said: "In other words, this great party that was going to be justice to the soldier has finally come down to the pitiable spectacle of sending out letters and begging people to give discarded clothing for our ex-service men who are walking the streets and begging for places to work and something to eat."

Senator Shields, Democrat of Tennessee, made public a letter he had written to a constituent, telling why he was opposed to a bonus. Mere taxes or issuance of bonds are impossible, Shields declared.
"The sales tax," said Shields, "is the most unjust of all those proposed. It would operate to exempt wealth and fall heaviest upon the people of moderate means. It is easy to understand the interest that is seeking the opportunity to have it imposed with the hope of making it permanent in our taxing system."

The Dalles Has 100 For Trip to Gorge; Luncheon Attracts

The Dalles, Feb. 21.—More than 100 men and women of The Dalles have signed for the trip to the Columbia Gorge hotel Washington's birthday, to meet with A. D. and Rotary clubbers of Portland and the Hood River Commercial club. In a get-together luncheon. This city will practically close shop Wednesday. It was decided at a meeting Monday of the chamber of commerce. Local residents are much interested in the Columbia Gorge hotel and hope by their patronage to keep the institution open.

Farmer Disappears; River Is Searched

Philomath, Feb. 21.—W. C. Blanchard, a farmer, disappeared Sunday morning from his home west of here. Tracks were traced to the middle of a foot log across the south fork of Marys river and there disappeared. Later developments lead to the belief that he crossed the river, as tracks have been found beyond the hill farther south. The Corvallis fire department dragged the stream.

STATE TAKES HAND IN SHERIFF'S CASE

Astoria, Feb. 21.—Governor Olcott will send L. A. Liljequist, assistant attorney general, to Astoria this week to prosecute Ole Nelson, sheriff of Clatsop county, on indictments charging disorderly conduct and assault and battery, it was learned Monday on excellent authority.

The state attorney is expected also to take charge of the investigations of the grand jury, which was convened Monday, and to press an inquiry of moral conditions in Astoria. It is believed that J. O. Erickson, district attorney, will be relieved of the prosecution of the cases against Nelson by the assistant attorney general.

The responsibility for obtaining the service of the Salem prosecutor is not fixed, but it is known that several requests for the aid of a state officer have been made. These are understood to be founded on a report that District Attorney Erickson allowed A. W. Norblad, counsel for the sheriff, to appear before the grand jury which later indicted the official.

Charges against Sheriff Nelson grew out of an incident last November when he is alleged to have broken into a private dwelling and maltreated the family of Hilma Mikkalo, on whose person it is charged the assault and battery was committed. Two suits for damages, aggregating $25,000, are already pending against him as a result of the incident.

Mrs. Mary Chrisman, Wasco Pioneer, Dies; Two Sons Sheriffs

The Dalles, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Mary Chrisman of The Dalles, who died in the state hospital at Salem early Monday, was the mother of Levi Chrisman, sheriff of Wasco county and of Hugh Chrisman, sheriff of Sherman county.
Seventy-five years old, she was one of Wasco county's earliest pioneers, and her descendants are known all over Oregon. She was born in Illinois, but was brought to Oregon in 1852, the family settling near Monmouth. Her father was Rev. John Murphy, pioneer Christian minister. She was married to Campbell Chrisman, a pioneer, who came to Oregon in 1843 in the first wagon train over the old emigrant trail. They moved to Wasco county in 1853, farming at first, later moving into The Dalles, where they acquired much property. Campbell Chrisman died in 1904. Frank Chrisman of Portland, was one of her children.

ARMS AND LEGS BROKEN
Boise, Idaho, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Fannie Skelton, 65, was struck and seriously injured by an automobile late Sunday night as she alighted from a streetcar. The driver of the car rushed her to the hospital, where it was found that both arms and both legs were broken.

Class in Reviving Is Stumped When Teacher Collapses

University of Idaho, Moscow, Feb. 21. As Miss Bees Bernhard, women's physical education instructor of the university, was explaining how to revive by scientific methods one who has fainted, she furnished a working example for her class of freshmen women.
Application of the rather complicated instructions she had given did not enter the minds of her pupils, who stood about over come by the unexpected emergency. Finally one grasped a pail of cold water and dashed it over the instructor. Miss Bernhard revived and continued her lecture, emphasizing the need for retaining presence of mind.
