Washington, Feb. 24.—(U. N. S.)—The congressional ax is now hanging over army and navy appropriations and is threatening the existence of more than half the navy yards of the country, it was said today by naval officials.

The slash in personnel at the yards will range up to 75 per cent of the complement of each yard affected, it is understood. This will mean even more thousands of workmen suspended from employment than the recent order stopping construction.

The yards likely to be retained are the so-called "strategic" establishments, located at Brooklyn and Norfolk, on the Atlantic, and Mare Island and Puget Sound, on the Pacific Coast.

Tokio Is Scene of Riots When Bill Is Beaten, Says Paper

Honolulu, T. H., Feb. 24.—(U. P.)—Dispatches from Tokyo to a Honolulu Japanese paper describe riotous scenes following defeat of the universal manhood suffrage bill by the Japanese diet.

The Jiji Tokyo correspondent described a mob of 30,000 people clashing with police Wednesday night around the diet building. Four thousand persons were arrested, the dispatch said, and were handcuffed and roped together and hauled to jail in police patrols.

Kenzo Adachi, prominent anti-government leader, expressed fear that an effort to foment a revolution was under way.

as the school children were returning home. She said she thought she saw Hildegard among the others, but the girl paid no attention to her. Believing that she was on the way home, the mother went on her way and Hildegard's absence was not reported to the police until Thursday when extensive search was made.

It is believed that, unless some complications arise from the exposure to the bitter winds of Thursday night, the girl will be in normal condition in a short time.

FIVE INDICTMENTS IN N. Y. INQUIRY ON BUCKETSHOPS DUE

New York, Feb. 24.—(U. P.)—Five indictments are expected today as part of the district attorney's probe into bucketshop operations.

Twelve brokerage houses have topped in the last week, bowled over largely by the district attorney's probe. Not all of this number are bucketshops, but confidence of customers has been shaken because of the investigation and accounts were withdrawn from brokers.

Hundreds of clerks and stenographers have been thrown out of work by the fallings.

So far 20 indictments against bucketshop brokers are reported found by the grand jury. This number is but part of the investigation being made into brokerage operations by Jerome Simmons, assistant district attorney.

Thirty-four investigations are under way, the district attorney's office announced, preliminary to a round-up of large proportions.

Six arrests have been made so far. Further action is expected to implicate others in fraudulent practices.

First trials of the arrested are expected today or Monday. All but one, who was released, are held in default of $50,000 bail.

Identify Tools and Other Things Used On Montavilla Bank

Although the police have made no arrests and still firmly maintain they have no particular men under suspicion, the investigation of the attempted robbery of the Montavilla Savings bank has made definite progress during the last 24 hours.

The two gas tanks used with the oxy-acetylene blow torch have been identified. They were stolen from Twelfth and Davis streets, where the Portland Gas & Coke company was using them. They had been borrowed from the Portland Brassing works, Third and Gilean streets.

Employees of the Portland Brassing works reported two men entered the store about 11 o'clock Wednesday and bought two pairs of goggles such as are used for welding.

An automobile thought to be the one used by the yeggs to drive to the bank was found this morning at East Eighty-second and Alder streets by the patrolman on the beat. It was stolen from George H. Gage, 612 Jefferson street, who left it at Eleventh and Couch streets Wednesday night.

Although the yeggs left the bank before finishing the job and were forced to retreat empty-handed, the police are making every effort to capture them, since it is believed they are in a gang of expert bank robbers.

GIRL MAKES DISCOVERY

"Of course, Mollie, there may be just scores of ways that all the girls get these adorable things they are wearing nowadays, but so far as I'm concerned, there's only one way for me, and that way I've just discovered. It's going to solve all my future problems."

"My dear, it must have been some discovery. I've never seen you look so nice. That taffeta dress is adorable. You look like ready money."

"Do I, really, Mollie? The strange part is that I got it at Cherry's without any ready money. Think of it! It's only $15.00 and I can take as long as I want to pay that. Will the Soldiers Get A Bonus?

To the jobless ex-fighter who needs the cash, to the congressman who needs votes in November, to the taxpayer who must eventually foot the bill, the question whether a bonus shall be paid to our soldiers of the great war and how the money is to be raised to pay it, is of increasing interest.

To raise the money to pay a bonus various new taxes are suggested. The idea of legalizing and taxing the sale of light wines and beers won the enthusiastic advocacy of the New York World. The National Grange comes out for an excess profits tax. Some congressmen suggest that taxation may be avoided by paying a tax out of the savings realized by reductions in the Army and in Navy personnel.

Why tax anybody, asks Arthur Brisbane, in the New York American, "why not simply print the currency and pay the soldiers with perfectly good money manufactured by the Government at the cost of paper and printing, without taxing anyone or disturbing any business?"

The Daily News, New York, defends the bonus as "simple justice to the nation's defenders," and "an investment in good-will." The financial objections do not greatly impress the Seattle Times, which "ventures the modest prediction that bonus legislation will be enacted at this session and that money will be found with which to finance the payment to former service men."

But the opposition to the bonus is being vigorously voiced by such widely scattered dailies as the New Haven Journal Courier, Newark News, Syracuse Herald, Buffalo Commercial, Philadelphia Inquirer, Dallas News, and Louisville Courier Journal, not to mention the truck loads of letters and telegrams being sent to the Capitol and the White House.

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week presents all the arguments current for and against the bonus, and the various methods that have been suggested to finance it.
