Ellison Is Speedy Has One Fault

By George Bertis
(Journal Sports Editor)
PORTLAND TRAINING CAMP, PASADENA, Cal., March 22.—There is one thing in particular that prevents Russ Ellison, former hurler of the University of California, from being a great pitcher. It is that he does not get his full weight behind him when he is on the mound.

At the Training Camps

MODOSTO, March 22.—(I. N. S.)—The regulars were victorious in the first clash of more than a week with the Yankees by a 3-1 score. The pitching was timely swatting in the seventh inning won the game for the senior Senators.

Notes From the Beavers

By George Bertis
PORTLAND TRAINING CAMP, PASADENA, Cal., March 22.—Jim Middleton of the Portland pitching staff this year is well pleased with the outlook for a winning combination. He declared he would like to have the outfit lined up in the American League, where he formerly played, and he would be willing to bet his pile that the club would finish one-two.
