$101,500 DAMAGE IS DONE BY FIRE

Oregon City. March 24.—Two families barely escaped from perishing in flames when they fled jo the street near midnight Thursday night from the wooden Busch & Son building, eleventh and Main sizeets, which burned for an hour and was completely destroyed with all its contents. Total loss was estimated at $101,500.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Parker and two babies, one a year old and the other one month, were awakened by the blaze nipping at their hall door. Parker; carrying the oldest baby, had on only his pajamas while his wife, with the infant, was clad in her nightdress and a kimona when they reached the street. Neighbors supplied them with garments.

The Parkers had an apartment on the first floor, where, in another section, the fire is believed to have started. Parker is employed by the Covey Motor company in Portland.

The only other occupants in the building were Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Bain, They, too, awakened by smoke pouring into their rooms, ran into the street in their night clothes. Neither family saved any

Miss Edna Russell, teacher in the Oregon City schools, resided with the Bains, but she was in Portland Thursday night at a social function. Her wardrobe loss was complete and she appeared in the lassroom this morning in her "party"

Following are the estimated damages The building itself, $15,000; Clackamas County Auto & Tractor company, ten $50,000; individual automobiles stored in the garage, $35,000; Busch spartments, proper, $1000; adjacent Except to the Busch apartment building little damage was done to buildings adjacent to the burned building, to which firemen turned their attention when it was perceived that efforts to save the Busch building were futile.

Thousands of persons were attracted by the blaze, which made rapid headway. It was seen first on the Eleventh street side of the building and is beleved to have started near the entrance to the garage. Two streams of water were played on a gasoline tank in front building and an explosion was today. It started at 11:45 p. m. in the entry off Eleventh street. In less than five minutes the entire building was in flames. The oil and combustible materials in the building, coupled with the light and inflammable character of the structure, made a perfect firetrap, and the local department was unable to check it, although they kept it under control, preventing serious damage to adjacent structures.

As the fire started in the south side of the building, people in the Busch apartments, adjoining, were able to get out of the building before being en-

The fire raged with extreme intensity DAN ASSULIA for the period of an hour and a half. The flames from the oil, interspersed small explosions of gasoline as the fluid in the auto tanks vaporized, rose to a height of several hundred feet scattering bits of burning wood and sparks over the roofs of nearby houses and into the streets where several thousand spectators had gathered. The flames were visible in Portland.

By concentrating two hoses near where the main gasoline tank was located, underground, an explosion was prevented. In the face of a stiff south wind the fire department successfully, battled to protect the buildings to the north of the llaming structure. After blazing half ing, with amendments to the probate an hour, the entire shell, both walls and roof, fell in with a crash. The blaze then took on added ferocity and it was not until 3 o'clock that it was extinguished. Only the tall brick chimney from the furnace shoved its height above the smouldering mass. The entire building was reduced to the ground, and the automobiles and trucks are but a congealed n:ass of wreckage with practically no salvage value.

The last two ears from Oregon City were prevented from leaving, due to the treaking of the guy wires which held the trolley wire. Hose was stretched across the street until 2 o'clock, an hour later iban the last scheduled P. R. L. & P. car.

MEETS; PROBATE CODE IS AMENDED

convened in Circuit Judge Evans' courtroom this morning for its annual meetcode as the subject for discussion.

A committee composed of B. S. Hunt ington, Earl C. Bronaugh and P. P. Dabney has been at work on the code for two years. The revised code as submitted has been printed and copies were distributed among those at the meeting. Harrison G. Platt, president of the association, called the meeting to order. He directed that the code be taken up, section by section. The first section, directing that handling of probate matters should be confined exclusively to circuit judges, aroused considerable opposition from judges and attorneys from outlying counties.

The argument was that several counties are visited by the circuit judge only a couple of times a year and that that much hardship would result from delays in filing wills and getting estates in the county judges handle probate matters as they do at present, was the argument. A motion to that effect was de feated by a small majority, however, and the code stands as revised.

A telephone call was received from Assistant Attorney General Moore, who stated that he was leaving Salem for Portland. He asked that the sections dealing with inheritance taxes not be given approval until he had an opportunity to object in the name of the state. The meeting will continue Saturday at which time Beverly L. Hogeshead of San Francisco will speak on plans for the National Bar association meeting at San Francisco. This will be the second time the West Coast has drawn the national association convention.

Ex-Portland Writer Faces Check Charge

Stanley Allen Beadle, formerly a spe cial writer for the Oregonian and a Canadian war veteran, was arrested for Portland authorities in Winnipeg, Canada, according to information received here by Chief of Police L. V. Jenkins. Beadle is charged with passing about $300 in worthless checks. No word has been received yet whether or not he will fight extradition.
