

'CUCKOO PASTOR' INCURS WRATH OF CHURCH'S LEADER

Beware all ye church people of the ravenous cuckoo bird. He may devour you and then move you whither you would not go. In fact he may steal you like a high-handed robber, and then exact tribute from you.

He has been charged with invading the sanctum sanctorum of one church already. But he has been found out. Maybe he started in the wrong place. He forgot to look at the pastor's hair. It's red, and so is his blood, and he also casts witty remarks about Ireland. Furthermore he's a fighter, and admits it. The dancers admit it also, but fortunately in this instance they are not charged with "cuckooing."

The "cuckoo" this time, says Dr. Charles MacCaughy of Centenary-Wilbur Methodist church, is a preacher. Who and what denomination you ask. Well, that would be telling. Anyway, if you belong to Centenary-Wilbur Methodist church it might be wise to get the bird cage out and catch the bird, afore he gets you.

Just read the warning Centenary-Wilbur people got from their pastor in the bulletin under the general title of "Watch This Bird!"

"The cuckoo is deservedly unpopular among the birds. This is because, due either to its indolence or inability, it steals the nest of other birds instead of building a nest for itself. Unfortunately this trait is not confined to the cuckoo. It is sometimes found in human beings, and, sad to say, even in preachers. Your pastor heard of one of these cuckoo preachers this week. It seems that he is obsessed by the idea that the best and quickest way he can build up his church is to build it out of the membership of the Centenary Wilbur church living in his neighborhood. His community is full of people who do not go to church, and who might be won by an aggressive evangelism, but he either lacks the industry or the ability to win these people and devotes what energy he has to those already won by this church."

Morals Squad Raid Nets Liquor Fakers, Officials Believe

What police say is the biggest coup for many months in running down synthetic liquor fakers was made Saturday night when morals squad officers under Sergeant Oelsner confiscated 100 bottles of whiskey, bearing labels apparently genuine, at No. 1224 Halsey street. A quantity of labels, coloring, grain alcohol, corks and bottling machinery were also taken.

Included in the catch were bottles marked Gordon gin, John De Warrs, Old Hermitage, Scotch Bourbon and Old Crow. No still was found on the premises, but police said evidence pointed to the fact that it had been used for a long time as a whiskey plant.

Jacob Hinkle, 76, H. Hinkle, 50, and George Dupree, 25, were arrested on charges of violating the prohibition ordinance. They were held without bail for the government. Dupree is said to have claimed ownership of the outfit after he was quizzed by police. The cache was found cleverly concealed by a hidden door operated with a trip spring.

Dr. E. H. Armstrong Of Los Angeles Is Ardent for 1925 Fair

Dr. Edwin H. Armstrong of Los Angeles who appeared before the meeting of the Oregon Optometric association Friday at the Portland hotel left Saturday night for Puget Sound points and British Columbia as an enthusiastic booster for Portland and the 1925 fair. Dr. Armstrong is the official representative of the Western Congress of Optometry, which includes 12 Western states, and was organized in Portland four years ago. His trip to the Northwest is in the interest of a meeting to be held by the association in Los Angeles, May 29 to June 2.

Following Dr. Armstrong's address, President Dayton of the local association was authorized to appoint a committee to make arrangements for the trip and to appoint ten official delegates. Dr. Charles J. Busco was appointed chairman of a committee to make a study of optometrical advertising with a view of eliminating fake and misleading advertising. A note of thanks was extended to the Journal for the cleanliness of its advertising columns in this connection.

Driver Is Cut by Broken Glass As Car Strikes Truck

O. E. Anderson of Chehalis, Wash., was cut by broken glass Sunday when an automobile which he was driving at West Park and Davis streets collided with a milk truck, driven by Wray Harrison. Anderson's car was badly damaged.

Mrs. C. W. Bradley and Dorothy Bryant, school girl, both of No. 399 Clay street, were taken to the Good Samaritan hospital late Saturday night when they were run down at Broadway and Jefferson streets by O. R. Kading, No. 293 1/2 Front street. Kading said Mrs. Bradley was running after the girl to prevent her from getting hit when he struck them. Both suffered severe bruises.

Northwest's Charms Are Advertised in Rotary Publication

"Plan your homeward trip by way of America's summer playground, the great International Northwest."

Such words will greet the eyes of anyone who opens the current number of the Rotarian, the Rotary club's magazine. They are in a full page ad of the Pacific Northwest Tourist association. The same publication contains also some illustrated descriptive articles of Northwest scenery.

This publicity has been supplemented by four-page invitations sent to every Rotary club in the United States and Canada. These contain beautiful four-color illustrations of some of the most famous bits of Pacific Northwest scenery—the Columbia river highway, the mountain in Rainier National park and the Cheakamus river gorge in British Columbia. "The bright, sunny days, cool nights, majestic scenery and your favorite sport, insure a perfect vacation in the Pacific Northwest," is one of the messages it conveys.

Snubs Lloyd George At Church Service

(By Universal Service)

London, March 27.—Premier Lloyd George was severely snubbed Sunday by the rector of the Criccieth Anglican church, who refused permission for the local choir to sing Welsh melodies in his church for the premier's benefit.

The choir made the mistake of announcing the event first and asking the rector's permission afterward. The hymns were sung, however, in the Calvinistic Methodist church chapel, as announced by the harmonium, and the premier was an entranced listener.

FIRE UNCOVERS STILL

Firemen who answered a call at a rooming house at 14th and Pettigrove streets Saturday night found a moonshine still which had been dismantled only a few minutes before. The fire was thought to have been the result of an explosion of the still. Police as yet have been unable to locate the owner.

17-YEAR-OLD BOY SHOT BY OWN GUN

Jack Klosterman, 17-year-old son of J. H. Klosterman, No. 489 East 17th street north, grain dealer, with offices in the Board of Trade building, was found unconscious in the attic of his home Sunday afternoon, shot through the head with a .38-caliber revolver. He died, without regaining consciousness, two hours after the shooting.

The boy was engaged in cleaning a number of guns, and apparently he shot himself with a weapon which he probably thought empty.

Inspectors Schum and Thomas, who examined the gun, found one exploded shell, which was so corroded that the automatic release failed to dislodge it when the gun was opened. It is thought that the boy emptied the gun, and did not notice the one remaining bullet. After investigation, police discarded a possible theory of suicide.

A house maid, who slept in an adjoining room, said she was awakened by the shot, and looked through her door at the boy, who was sitting in a chair, apparently all right. She returned to bed without further investigation. The body was found about an hour later by the boy's younger brother, Harry, age 14 years.

The boy is survived by his father and mother, five brothers and one sister. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 9 o'clock in Church of the Madeleine, East 23d and Siskiyou.

$50,000,000 Value Of Livestock To Be Grazed on Reserves

Permits have been issued for the grazing of 225,000 cattle and horses and 1,000,000 sheep on the national forests of Oregon and Washington this summer, according to E. N. Kavanagh, assistant district forester in charge of grazing. These figures are both in excess of the number of stock grazed in 1921.

Stock grazed during 1921 was owned by more than 4000 different owners, which represents an increase over the 10-year period of approximately 100 per cent, since twice as many stockmen held permits in 1921 as in 1911.

The number of cattle has increased 100 per cent, while the number of sheep has just about held its own, said Kavanagh. The total valuation of the stock and range property involved is in excess of $50,000,000.

"The service as a whole has authorized a total of 2,275,693 cattle and horses, 27,210 hogs and 8,044,850 sheep and goats to graze on the national forest ranges during the year," said Kavanagh. "This will be a slight increase over 1921, the largest decrease being in the number of sheep."

Trade Body Formed By Czecho Slovaks With 300 Members

With a membership of more than 300 the American-Czecho Slovak chamber of commerce was formally organized Sunday afternoon at a meeting held in Central library. Charles Zerzon, local attorney, was elected president of the new organization, the objects of which include not only the entertainment of the membership but the advancement of trade relations between the United States and Czecho-Slovakia.

"It is our aim to promote the civic and industrial welfare of the Czecho-Slovak population of Portland, Or., and the entire Northwest, and to establish industrial and commercial relations between America and Czecho-Slovakia," said E. W. Siller, secretary of the chamber.

"We expect in the near future to have 1000 members, recruited from all over the Northwest. There are about 10,000 Czecho-Slovaks in Oregon, and as many more in Washington. Hence we have a large field to draw from. Our organization is American in its ideas throughout, and we aim to advance the interests of the United States as well as our own," he added.

Officers of the chamber are: Charles Zerzon, president; J. Doubs, vice president; E. W. Siller, secretary; F. J. Elzner, treasurer. The board of trustees of which the president and secretary are members ex-officio, includes E. T. Hafzda, John Hubach and Charles Kautek.

Dean Hicks Ends 3 Years' Service as Dean of Cathedral

Three years of service in the pulpit of St. Stephens pro-cathedral by Rev. R. T. T. Hicks was concluded Sunday evening, when the dean made his last appearance before his congregation. His resignation from the church will take effect Friday. Throughout the day he avoided touching on his departure, with the exception of a few words of thanks to his friends for their support and for the gifts presented to him and Mrs. Hicks Saturday night. He said in private that he purposely avoided any public farewell, because he "disliked such things."

About 40 persons attended a breakfast in the morning at the parish house in honor of Dean and Mrs. Hicks.

Dean and Mrs. Hicks will leave soon for California, where they expect to spend Easter with Mrs. Hicks' mother. Dean Hicks plans to take two or three weeks of rest there. He has refused to make public any further plans.

Police Inspector Catches 34-Pound Salmon; Wins Rod

The first big salmon of the season was caught Saturday morning by Herman Horack, police inspector, at the mouth of the Clackamas river in the Willamette.

The big Chinook, which tipped the scales at 34 pounds, put up a rip roaring fight, according to the sleuth. Horack is one of the most enthusiastic of the salmon fishers of Portland and each season captures several prizes for the biggest fish caught.

He was presented with a beautiful salmon rod worth $25 by the sporting goods department of the Meier & Frank store in honor of his catch.

METHODISTS GIVE FOR TABERNACLE

Seventeen hundred dollars in cash and pledges to pay for the construction of the Methodist tabernacle at East Third and Irving streets was given Sunday afternoon at the dedication service. About 1800 people attended. The largest contribution, $500, was given by Centenary-Wilbur Methodist church, the money having been raised during the Sunday morning church service.

The tabernacle will house the United Gospel crusade which is to begin next Thursday night and continue for six weeks under the direction of Dr. George Wood Anderson.

The principal address was given by Bishop W. O. Shepard, who urged Portland Methodists to stand faithfully by the meetings.

"This tabernacle is an attempt to arouse us to the things that are worth while," said the chief pastor of Northwest Methodism. "Why in olden times God brought disaster upon people to arouse them. But here is no disaster. If we do not arouse ourselves it would have been better that this tabernacle had never been built, or Dr. Anderson brought here to lead these meetings."

"Someone has said that you might as well try to bring spring by building fires upon the frozen ground as to try to bring about a revival by simple organization. I plead with you, good friends, not to hold back any portion of consecration. I plead with you to give of yourself to these meetings."

Dr. W. W. Youngson, district superintendent, presided and pastors from various churches took part in the service. Special music was furnished by a united chorus choir from the First, Centenary-Wilbur and Sunnyside Methodist churches. The congregational singing was
