Educators Take Up Matters of Picking School Textbooks

School superintendents and teachers are busily engaged in interviewing book men and examining school books, preparatory to adoption of text books for next year in spelling, music, language and writing in the elementary schools, and commercial books, English, Spanish, history, Latin, mathematics and science texts in the high schools.

The text book election, similar to that held last year, will be conducted April 4. In this election each teacher will be privileged to express her preference for the book to be used in her own classes. Each principal will be entitled to vote in three elective subjects. Each school will be entitled to one vote on the music text, to be made by the teacher who is specially qualified.

CONFERENCE MAY STAY COAL STRIKE

Chicago, March 28.—(U. P.)—Conference between coal operators and union officials, to be held here tomorrow, may serve as the "opener" of negotiations for a truce to prevent the threatened mine war April 1. It was viewed here today. Preparations were under way for the meeting between Frank Farrington, head of the Illinois miners, and operators.

SAYS BONUS SURE TO PASS SENATE

(Continued From Page One) sorbed in municipal tax exempt bonds and nobody knows how much more. Ask the bond houses—they will tell you they can't put issues on the market fast enough to meet the demands of investors for the splendid way in which the country has responded to the refunding plans of the treasury. Here we are with the Victory bonds in a large part long before the maturity date. I am convinced that the country would never feel an issue of short time treasury certificates sufficient to take us over—say for two to five years—until the British are able to resume payment to us on the war debt.

HARDING PLAN PUZZLES

Mr. McCormick didn't attempt to predict what President Harding would do with the bill if it were passed by both houses. He is not as sure of a veto as are some of his colleagues, though it is evident he, like the others, is counting upon a rewritten bonus bill. The Illinois senator declares the opposition to the bonus bill will not succeed in dilatory tactics; in fact, he says those who are against the measure are as eager to have it brought up and voted upon and gotten out of the way as are the proponents of the bill. He seems to think the bonus ought not to be permitted to clog the legislative calendar and prevent other legislation from being enacted, especially in this a campaign year.

SEE TWO-THIRDS VOTE

Whether a two-thirds vote can be mustered in the senate to override a presidential veto will depend upon the development of public sentiment after the passage of the bill and an expression from the president. So far as the house is concerned, it can be counted upon to pass the bill by a two-thirds vote if necessary. The vote of 203 in favor of the measure recently is a clear index of the strength of the bonus bill in the face of announced presidential opposition. The president is committed to a veto unless a sales tax is enacted as a revenue producer. If he does not veto it he may lose Andrew Mellon as secretary of the treasury. But thus far he has given every indication that he shares Mr. Mellon's views. The bonus seems to be the liveliest issue in congress. It slumbers for a while, and then bores up again. Senator McCormick's prediction is significant. It means action on the bill, and probably passage by the senate after the naval treaties now pending are ratified.

New Homes Planned For Eastmoreland

The new home planned by Sutton & Whitney for Harold Blake at East 38th and Carlton streets, Eastmoreland, is one of a large number of beautiful residences to be erected in this addition during the spring and summer months. The Blake house is of the bungalow type with plastered exterior walls of "ideal" construction. Abundance of window space adds to the attractiveness of the large living room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room and three bedrooms. The site is 100 by 130 feet in area and overlooks Eastmoreland golf links. Cost of construction, including a large garage at the rear of the house, is estimated at $12,000.

POULTRYMEN VOTE TO TAX EGGS TO REALIZE FUNDS

Members of the Pacific Poultry Producers' Cooperative association have voted by a large majority in favor of two amendments to articles of the association and seven amendments to the by-laws of the organization. The vote, which was largely by mail, was canvassed Monday at a special meeting in Library hall.

The amendment receiving the smallest majority was that concerning the manner of increasing the capital stock through the deduction of one-half cent a dozen on all eggs shipped in by members, which also provides that the members will receive one share of common stock for each $10 so deducted. This amendment, which carried by about a five to one majority, will provide a means of absorbing the issue of $100,000 capital stock, which also was provided for in an amendment to the articles of association, which carried by a vote of better than ten to one.

More adequate finances for carrying on operations of the organization have been needed for some time. More storing will be possible under this arrangement and it also will be possible to sell on better markets and hold pools when the market is not right to bring the most to the producer. Under capitalization has been a drawback to the organization.

ORGANIZATION FROM THE START, IT WAS ADMITTED BY SPEAKERS AT THE MEETING.

Other amendments were approved by majority better than 10 to 1. Agreements supplementary to the standard marketing agreement were provided for in amendment No. 7. A large number of agreements are signed and in the hands of the officials, which provide that the producer shall receive on all of his eggs put into storage the amount that can be borrowed upon warehouse receipts, and that all profits and losses on eggs so stored will be pro-rated among all members on the same basis as the regular storage pool.

The producer signing the supplementary agreement, however, will first be paid the difference between the regular pool price for each week during the period when such eggs are delivered and stored and the price that the producer-stockholder actually receives as advance payment with interest at the current rate upon the difference in payment and before any profits or losses are pro-rated on the regular storage pool.

Through other amendments the regular annual meeting was changed from the second Saturday in December to the third Saturday in January, which will make it possible to give full statements of the year's business at the annual meetings. Sixteen instead of 15 directors are provided, half of them to be elected each year, which will keep experienced men upon the board at all times. The increase was made necessary because of the membership in Idaho and the need of having the public of that district represented through a director to be nominated by the Idaho director of extension.

In order to conform to the cooperative law another amendment provides that no common stock shall be sold to non-members.

To effect a saving of about $2300 each year the meetings of directors will hereafter be held quarterly instead of monthly. The routine business will be cared for by an executive committee of five members elected by the board of directors. A copy of the minutes of all executive committee meetings will be mailed to the members of the board of directors, who will have the right to approve or question any portion of them. It is believed, according to officials of the association, that the organization is now in a position to progress faster than ever before.
