

MAN ACCUSED OF TAKING STOLEN CAR TO SEATTLE

Last Friday night, while under the influence of moonshine whiskey, E. C. Fellows, alias Harry L. Hayes of Seattle, is said to have stolen a high priced automobile from the DeLay Motor Car company of Portland and drove it to Seattle. Today he is in the Multnomah county jail charged with violating the federal motor vehicle theft act by transporting a stolen automobile in interstate commerce.

On April 14 Fellows is said to have given the management of the DeLay company a check for $25 on a Portland bank as first payment on the machine, explaining at the time that his account was overdrawn, and asking that the check be held until he had time to make a deposit. That same evening Fellows is said to have become intoxicated at a liquor party, and about 11 p. m. is said to have gone to the automobile sales-room. The door to the establishment had inadvertently been left unlocked that night, said Assistant United States Attorney Eynon, as Fellows obtained the car without actually breaking into the establishment.

He drove the machine to Seattle and rented a room in a hotel, where he remained for two days until he had slept off the effects of the spree. Eynon said, "That's a nice car you have," said the clerk of the hotel to Fellows as he emerged from his room the second day. A minute later, as Fellows hopped into the bright shining new car, the hand of a sturdy policeman fell on his shoulder.

"You're wanted in Portland," he said. Fellows will have to wait the action of the federal grand jury which has been called for next week.

Dr. Wilbur, Head of Stanford, to Speak To Reed Graduates

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university, has been announced as the commencement speaker at Reed college. The address will follow the presentation of diplomas to 39 seniors on June 10.

The senior program for the week of June 4 to 10 was announced by James Hamilton, president of the graduating class, at a senior dinner Wednesday. The baccalaureate sermon will be given

Sunday. A senior committee is conferring with President E. F. Scholz in respect to the selection of the baccalaureate speaker. The Reed college chorus will sing in its annual spring concert Monday. Tuesday has been set aside as River day when the entire Reed community will charter a boat for a trip up the Columbia. The senior ball will be given Wednesday, an organ recital is planned for Thursday, Friday is class day, and Saturday the week's festivities close with the award of diplomas, the commencement address, congratulations and an alumni lunch in honor of the 30 new graduates.

Following a heated debate the seniors Wednesday decided to wear caps and gowns to the chapel services for the remainder of the year. The vote is in line with a Reed tradition which has been vigorously contested for the past four years. The seniors decided to eat together in the college commons for the rest of the year, and a senior table is to be an institution in the dining hall henceforth.

Man Cuts Corner; Police Take Him And Find Liquor

Patrolmen Harms and Nutter saw P. A. Hardin cut a corner with his automobile Thursday at 26th and Upshur streets. That started it. The two policemen arrested Hardin for violating the traffic ordinance. In a casual search about the car they found a pint of moonshine. That started things going fine. The police searched Hardin's person and found another pint. They got a search warrant for his home on the Linton road. There they found a still and three gallons of moonshine.

Now Hardin is awaiting trial on charges of violating the prohibition law, all because he cut a corner.

Wounded During Restaurant Fight, Man May Not Live

Lon Marsh, No. 1644 Peninsula avenue, is lying at St. Vincent's hospital in a serious condition as a result of a bullet wound received when he resisted efforts of Patrolman George Russell to eject him from the China Inn at 12:10 a. m. Thursday.

According to patrons of the restaurant and report of Mrs. Helen Burntraeger, dance inspector, Russell at the request of the manager undertook to eject a number of drunken men. Marsh resisted, striking Russell about the face and tearing his clothing. Russell drew his revolver, and in the scuffle the gun was discharged, a bullet striking Marsh in the abdomen. Marsh was operated upon this morning.

Boy Picks Up Cap Of Dynamite; May Lose His Eyesight

(By Universal Service) Redding, Cal., April 21.—Howard Mathon, 10, lost a thumb and the tips of two fingers and may have lost his eyesight in an accident in the auto camp Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mathon, en route from Portland to Crescent City, stopped to make a camp for the night. Their little son found a bright object lying on a board. While playing with it an explosion occurred. The bright object was a giant powder cap.

The boy was taken to the hospital where the physician cannot tell whether the eyesight was destroyed.

U. S. Ambassador Is Given Reception on His Reaching Berlin

(Special Wireless to The Journal and Chicago Daily News) (Copyright, 1922.) Berlin, April 21.—Alanson B. Houghton, the first American ambassador to the German republic, who arrived in Berlin yesterday, will probably present his credentials to President Ebert today or tomorrow and then enter upon his work in one of the most difficult posts in the American diplomatic service.

Mr. Houghton had a very friendly reception, although it lacked the pomp which attended the arrival of his pre-war predecessors under the Kaiser.

The first man to greet the new ambassador as an old friend was ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, who called upon Mr. Houghton in his new quarters exactly two hours after the ambassador's train pulled in from Coblenz. Mr. Houghton had an hour's interview with him.

"The right man in the right place," is the substance of the newspaper comment upon the arrival of the new ambassador.

Lorin Dressel, the American charge since the armistice, left Berlin two days ago. His several secretaries have remained on duty. Mr. Houghton has already begun reorganizing the office force of the embassy.

How the Tariff Bill Will Affect Your Purse

As every one's pocketbook is touched by the tariff, either in its effect on prices or on prosperity, the stormy course predicted for the tariff bill reported to the Senate last week is a matter of profound concern to the average citizen, no matter how slight may be his affiliation with or interest in political parties.

It is "a bill to raise living costs and hamper trade," declares the New York Journal of Commerce. "It is something of a shock to learn, if the analysis of the Associated Press is accurate, that the rates of the bill are on the whole higher than those of the Payne-Aldrich law," remarks the stanchly Republican New York Tribune, which adds "if President Harding stands for reelection, it is scarcely fair to handicap him as was President Taft in 1912 by the Payne-Aldrich Act." "This bill," declares the Kansas City Star, "is a serious economic mistake," the immediate effect of which will be to increase the cost of living. The farmer, it adds, will find that the protection offered his products "is an illusion," while "the protection on what he has to buy will be real."

Turning to the Democratic press, the New York Times says that "the wild horses of the agricultural bloc have run away with the Republican party and the Senate Tariff Bill is the result." It is "protectionism run mad," in the opinion of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, which warns us that its effect will be to "impose an unbearable burden upon consumers throughout the whole country."

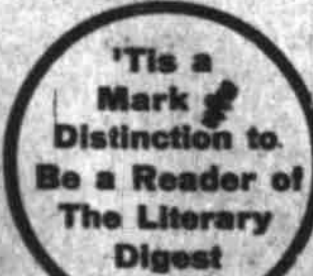

Among the friends of the Senate Tariff Bill, its official sponsor, Senator McCumber, characterizes it as "the first national tariff bill in our history." "It will afford the American farms and mills, the producers and workers of the country, security against the competition of foreigners already invading and underselling home markets," says the Omaha Bee, while the Pittsburg Gazette-Times says that this tariff bill "will be as a dam against the menacing flood" of imports and will keep prices at "levels that will assure employment of Americans at satisfactory wages."

For all angles of public opinion upon the tariff measure now in the Senate, you should read the leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, April 22d.
