LAVE OWN WAR The Employers' association, the shipers and the stevedoring companies, shich more than a week ago olned forces in an attempt to create he "open shop" in the Port of Portand, broke away today from the old sattlefront formula, "present a united ront to the enemy." These factions, which hitherto had een comrades in arms, working in conord to squelch the union, broke out with little war of their own It was brought on by inability of tevedoring companies to apportion cargo rews to the satisfaction of the ship men sho, strike or no strike, demand that their vessels be loaded and unloaded on schedule.

FAIL TO GET CREWS

'At least two big ship lines-the Adniral and the Luckenbach-sent out employing agents to do what their repreentatives claim stevedoring companies failed to do.

One of the first attempts of the steam made by J. Clifford Euson, representative of the Luckenbach line. Euson before several classes at North Pacific Dental college, giving the stu-ients to understand that there was to be had plenty of work at the docks at wages almost equal to the union longshore scale. The student dentists did not respond, although Dean Miller gave them permission to participate in dock #### work after class hours.

Indications today were that, unless the unemployed of Portland respond to the association's plea for cargo workers, strike breakers would be imported. This, he employers said, would be the last move in an effort to keep shipping on schedule. Inquiry at American Legion headquar

William Ford, head of a committee of an I. W. W. organization styled the Mame Transport Workers' union, today ssued a denial that the I. W. W. threatened to import strikebreakers if the ongshoremen's union did not affiliate

We want it distinctly understood that we disclaim any responsibility for any past, present or future picketing or vio-

GERMANS AND BOLSHEVIKI PAT EACH OTHER AT DINNER By H. Wickham Steed

Editor of the London Times (Copyright, 1922, by United Press) Genoa, May 1 .- Were it not for the gleams of humor that occasionally illumine the crises and wranglings at this peace conference, Genoa would be a tiresome place indeed.

The other night, while the delegates station to handle any situation. The were still trying to guess the precise meaning of Lloyd George's patheticalarmist allocution to British and American journalists, Tchitcherin had invited all docks where ships are loading and the German delegates to a banquet. Toasts of the most cordial nature were exchanged. Chancellor Wirth eulogized the German-Bolsheviki treaty as the

'model of a pacific agreement." "It has," he concluded, "a significance of the first order for the proletariat of the whole world."

Not to be outdone in generous appreciation of their joint achievements, Tchitcherin also set forth the beauties of the Rapallo treaty, defining it as "the first instance in which an international instrument has been drawn up in an evangelical spirit."

This puts the British premier's efforts in the shade. Henceforth it would be ungracious to speak of the "fierce friendbetween the Bolshiviki and Germans as a threat to Europe. All the perils of the Russo-German alliance, at which, if Sir Edward Grigg speaks truth, the British delegation does not quail, vanish like the morning mist under the rays of the bolshevik orb. And since the Rapallo treaty is the first authentic instance of the conclusion of an international instrument in an evangelica spirit, what remains for the premier whose standing as an evangelist cannot be gainsaid, but to give the Rapalio treaty his blessing and recall the Germans from Coveniry.

But alas and alack for the fallen world the conference is in danger of falling. The delegates remain in an unregenerate mood. The crucial question is naturally whether the bolsheviks will accept the terms of the document which kept the allied negotiators busy until past mid-

Unless the recent stiffening of their attitude and the banqueting of the Ger-mans are merely tactical, or a part of the system of "oriental bargaining" the chances are they won't accept. In this case the draft of the convention would stand as proof of the length to which the British delegation was pre-pared to go in order to secure the bol-
