

JOURNAL TRIPS TO NATIONAL PARKS ARE ANNOUNCED

Tours Are to Be Made Through Rainier, Glacier and Yellowstone; Many Features Offered.

The call of lofty mountains and eternal snowfields will be the lure which will take two personally conducted journal tour parties on trips through Rainier, Glacier and Yellowstone national parks this summer.

Arrangements for the second and third national parks tours have been completed by Dorsey B. Smith, manager of The Journal Travel Bureau, who arranged and successfully conducted the first tour through the scenes of grandeur in these three Northwestern parks last summer.

For several months the bureau has been busy laying the basis for these trips until every necessary detail, including railroad and Pullman transportation, hotel accommodations, meals, day side-trips and every other has been arranged for the special parties.

The first of these tour parties will leave July 15, and it has been decided to limit the number of participants to 25. The whole trip will take 15 days and every scenic spot in the three famous national playgrounds will be visited.

Some of the features of the Rainier park trip will be luncheon at Longmire Springs, dinner and lodging at Paradise Inn and a visit to the huge glaciers which lie on the side of the famous mountain.

From Rainier the party will be conducted to Glacier National park, where visits will be made to Mary's Lake, Ioseberg lake, St. Mary's lake, Going-to-the-Sun chalet, Sertox glacier and many other points of inspiration and beauty.

But a major part of the time will be spent in visiting the wondrous scenes of Yellowstone park which will be by automobile and horseback trips and visits to some of the famous hotels and chalets. Arrangements will be made for special trips to Mammoth Hot Springs, the Mammoth Paint Pot, Old Faithful geyser, Gibbon falls, Yellowstone lake, Hayden valley and all of the other points which call the tourist to this, the most popular of all the national parks.

Another tour party will be arranged to leave Portland August 11 to travel over the same circuit, returning August 25.

These tours will be designated as all-expense tours and will cost $240 or proportionately less if upper berths are occupied.

Longshoremen Pay Final Tribute to a Fellow Workman

Final tribute was paid Saturday by several hundred longshoremen to the memory of Philip Carroll, 72, one of the most picturesque characters ever known in the Portland waterfront, who died Wednesday in St. Vincent's hospital after suffering a paralytic stroke.

From the union headquarters in the north end a long line of longshoremen marched quietly to the Miller & Tracey chapel, where rites were said over the body.

It marked the passing of the old man, well known to all waterfront habitués as "Phil." Nearly a half century of his life was spent on the river here. He was a quiet man, who spoke little, but who was liked by everyone who knew him. At his last birthday he was presented with a gold watch by members of the union.

When his four score and ten years rolled around two years ago, Carroll began to feel the weight of years and quit actual work on the docks and ships. He was named as janitor at the union hall, where he came into constant contact with all the men by whom he was so well liked. He lived alone in a small home at No. 7017 83d street, southeast.

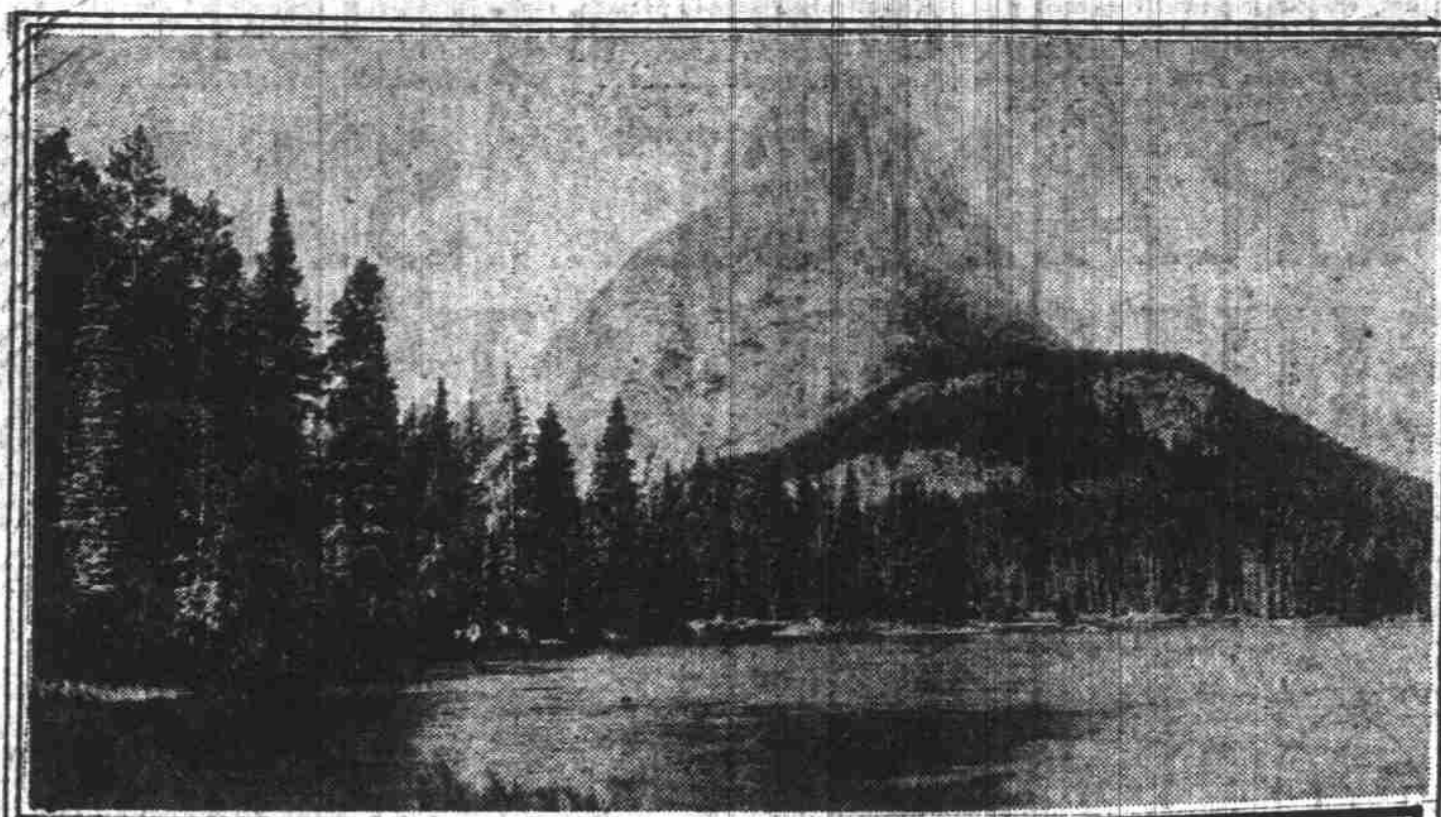

Carroll was a charter member of local No. 61 of the I. O. O. F., of which he was at one time president.

Swedish Engineer Visits Log Camps

K. A. Widgren, civil engineer from Sweden, is in Portland conferring with forest service officers and lumbermen regarding logging operations where the building of a railroad is not feasible.

Monday Widgren will go to Bend to visit the logging operations there. He will be accompanied by E. J. Hanslik of the forest service, who will go on to the Malheur country.

NATIONAL PARKS ATTRACT JOURNAL TOURS

Some of the scenes which members of The Journal tours will see this summer include Mount Grinnell in Glacier National park (above), Paradise Inn at Rainier National park (middle) and the Great Falls of the Yellowstone in Yellowstone National park (below).

The outlook is especially bright for a large cherry crop, and Graves stated that there is a big demand for this variety of fruit.

Work is delayed on the American Legion community house, due to the fact that carpenters and other workmen cannot be secured at the present time. The building will be located just within the City Park, near the high school building, on the former athletic field.

This is for the purpose of making the building available for high school as well as for other participants in all-athletic events in the park.

Sprenger Ties With Thoms in Race for Treasurer of Linn

Albany, Or., May 20.—Linn county's election developed a big surprise when the unofficial complete count disclosed a tie between H. B. Sprenger and D. C. Thoms, candidates for Republican nomination to the office of county commissioner.

Each candidate received 1,008 votes. W. A. Eastman, the third candidate for this office to fill the term ending January 25, 1923, received 514 votes. It was around this contest and that to fill the county commission term beginning January 1, 1923, that chief interest centered.

J. D. Irvine, of Brownsville was nominated by the Republicans and J. D. Isom by the Democrats.

The Republican nominees for representatives in the state legislature are Charles Childs and Robert S. Acherson, present incumbents, who were favored over Park Hearty of Brownsville.

The Democratic nominees for Arthur K. McMahon, local city attorney, and Sterling Goin of Munkers for the office.

Milton A. Miller apparently has received the Democratic nomination for the office of state treasurer. When the vote was counted it was found that the county cast only a 24 per cent ballot.

Albany predicts reported the vote cast, but half the registration. The count was completed this morning. Linn county claiming the state record.

LAWYERS OFFER BAR ASSOCIATION AID IN LAWSUIT

Dan Malarkey Chosen to Direct Defense in $400,000 Action Started by Geo. Estes, Author.

Attorneys who are eager to defend the officials of the grievance committee of the Multnomah Bar association in the $400,000 damage suit filed in circuit court Saturday by George Estes, author and lawyer, against whom the association has started disbarment proceedings, joined in a rush Saturday afternoon to offer their services.

Of those tendered their ability, Dan J. Malarkey was chosen to direct the defense. He will have as many assistants as he can use at a moment's notice, according to Bradley A. Ewers, prosecutor for the association, who is charged as one of the defendants in the suit brought by Estes.

Estes' action caused a great deal of comment among the groups of attorneys in the corridors of the court house Saturday. He is author of "The Wayfaring Man," and "The Rawhide Railroad," both of which books have been highly praised as works of genuine humor, and the complaint filed Saturday reflected the writer's literary ability. It bristled with metaphor, simile, and many another quaint figure. One by one, Estes took up the 14 defendants and ridiculed them. His complaint was well thumbed before the end of the day.

Malarkey could not be reached Saturday night to tell when an answer would be filed in the case. Ewers pointed out, however, that Estes does not attempt to deny comprehensively the charges of fraud, forgery and misrepresentation brought against him by the Bar association, but contents himself to vaguely charge "frameup" and attacking his accusers.

Estes, in his suit, asks $250,000 damages for injury to the sale of his books, $100,000 damages for injury to his business as an attorney, and $50,000 punitive damages.

Building Active at Brownsville; Plant Plans Improvement

Brownsville, May 20.—Not in years has there been as much building activity in Brownsville as at the present time. With the reconstruction of the Brownsville woolen mills buildings well under way, employment is now given to quite a number of workmen. Approximately $40,000 is to be spent by J. L. Bowman in putting the plan in readiness for operation. In addition to the main building, the dimensions of which are 40 by 125, three other buildings are to be erected, including a large dyehouse, modern store building and general offices.

In addition to the construction work now under way on the woolen mills buildings, the Standard Oil company is erecting here a substation at the expense of $20,000. Two new fireproof business houses are to be built in the near future. The Hoine garage yesterday broke ground for the construction of a modern garage building 80 by 100 feet. It will be fitted up with a show-room for automobiles, storeroom for the handling of automobile products, and a repair shop fully equipped with the latest mechanical devices.

A real estate deal was consummated last week in which A. D. Thompson, former resident of Brownsville, purchased a business lot 50 by 100 feet on Spaulding avenue. Thompson expects to erect a modern fireproof building on the site this summer. He will either conduct a general merchandise store or lease the building to a tenant for the same purpose. Roy Graves of the Graves Canning company announced today that he would erect a building to be used for a cannery, and machinery will be installed to take care of the year's fruit crop. It is estimated that at least 500 tons of berries will be produced in this community this season.

Quick or Quality?

WHY FILMS FADE
When pictures are rushed through the development process, are not carefully made, "fixed" and washed, they are apt to fade—especially if exposed to the light. Most pictures are worth keeping. They may be valuable some day.

We are all curious to see quickly how pictures "come out," but if a little extra care and time are allowed you get better and clearer pictures and they never fade.
