

COMMUNITY CHEST DOING GOOD WORK FOR DISABLED MEN

Miss Doyle, Executive Secretary, Cites Instances Where Money Is Put to Immediate Uses.

"Too much cannot be said of the efficiency of the Portland Community Chest which makes it possible for Portland chapters, American Red Cross, to aid disabled ex-service men and their families," declared Miss J. V. Doyle, executive secretary of Portland chapter and in charge of headquarters, No. 301 Platt building, last evening. Miss Doyle had just completed arrangements for the funeral of the 2-year-old baby of an ex-service man. A nurse had been sent to care for the child under direction of the Red Cross and a Portland physician donated his services, but the little girl died during the night.

Another "Red Cross baby" was born on the same day and passed away almost immediately.

"Each month we account for all the money allotted us by the Chest," Miss Doyle continued. "Some months we do not use all our quota, while other months we find it necessary to take up the slack."

"We do not believe in making a charitable object of an ex-soldier; therefore, we aid him under the debt and aid him again, though not always directly financially."

Miss Doyle states that the eight babies born during one week in May, and for which the Red Cross is caring, are beautiful, robust babies.

Mrs. Margaret C. Bean, office treasurer, announces that funds are arriving at the office daily, to aid the flood sufferers in the valleys of the Ohio, Illinois and Mississippi rivers. Thirty thousand homeless are being fed by the National Red Cross in Mississippi alone, and the national society hopes to raise an additional $600,000 for immediate aid.

Donations from Oregon people or organizations may be mailed to "Portland chapter, American Red Cross, 301 Platt building." They will be forwarded to national headquarters at once, according to Mrs. Bean.

JEFFERSON HIGH PUPILS MAKE SCHOOL INITIALS

At Big May athletic meet pupils of the Jefferson high school, under the guidance of Hopkins Jenkins, principal, form letters of school on athletic field. More than 750 pupils were needed to make each of the letters.

May Day Athletic Meet at Jefferson High Is Big Event

Under the direction of Hopkin Jenkins, principal of the school, Robert Krohn, athletic supervisor, and Miss Georgia Wey and Leon Fabre, his assistants, pupils of Jefferson high school held the May athletic meet Friday.

One of the features of the program was a fire drill. This is the specialty of Jefferson high, for school fire drills were originated in this city by Jenkins when he was principal at the old Halladay school. The Jefferson fire drill organization has proved so effective that it has been copied by Eastern schools. The school won the Jay Stevens trophy for excellency in fire drill three times in succession and thereby became permanent owner of the award.

In addition to the drill athletic stunts were performed by the gymnasium classes.

The May meet is an innovation of Jenkins and from the first meet's success promises to become an annual feature. The meet was witnessed by many of the parents of the 2000 pupils registered.

Philadelphians Are Charmed by Riley's Portrayal of N. W.

One of the most important engagements ever filled by Frank Branch Riley since he undertook the task of telling the story of the Northwest to the East was his appearance recently before the Manufacturer's club of Philadelphia. This is one of the outstanding social and business organizations of America, with a $2,000,000 clubhouse.

Wide publicity for Mr. Riley was given by the club and when he appeared for the lecture, the beautiful auditorium was filled with the largest audience gathered there since the dedication of the building several years before. Those present were leaders in the industries, heads of banks and people representing the best professional and social elements of the city. The audience completely filled the auditorium and overflowed it through the foyers.

There was instant response to Mr. Riley's eloquence, too, and there was the utmost enthusiasm and applause at climaxes in the lecture. Reactions the following day throughout Philadelphia were so satisfying that it was felt this one lecture had sufficient effect to justify the trouble and expense for the entire trip.

RUSH INSTALLATION OF PHONE CABLES

Stringing of Five Miles of Aerial Wire Included in Work of Pacific Company.

Three major cable installation projects, essential to the rearrangement program of the telephone system to become effective with the issuance of the June telephone directory, are being pushed by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company in the "B" and "C" automatic office districts on the east side.

With the arrival of cable necessary for the completion of these projects only a few days ago, every energy is being exerted to hurry the work to completion, according to C. E. Hickman, division commercial superintendent. Through the use of these cables more than 1500 automatic telephone subscribers will be transferred to manual offices.

One of these projects consists of laying cable containing 1650 miles of wire and stringing of five miles of aerial wire to provide facilities for cutting "C" automatic subscribers to manual offices. Another project includes the provision of facilities necessary for cutting "B" subscribers to East, and still another for the transference of more "B" office subscribers to Tabor. The cost of the three projects is estimated at $25,400. All available cable splicers are at work on the three projects.

After these cables are complete it will be possible to make the transfers planned for the June directory listings. A total of 490 telephones will be shifted from "B" to Tabor; 350 from "B" to East; 130 from "C" to Tabor; 180 from "C" to East and 400 from "C" to Walnut (now known as Woodlawn).

These changes will cause the abandonment of "B" automatic office at East Morrison and 15th streets and remove practically all connections at "C" automatic office, the abandonment of which will be completed this fall when the new machine-switching offices are added to the Portland exchange.

Rations Demanded By German Labor; Bread Cost Soaring

(Special Cable to The Journal and the Chicago Daily News)

Berlin, May 20.—The rationing of bread and other vital foodstuffs is demanded by the German Labor federation as the result of the announcement that the price of bread would be increased from 14 to 20 marks (four and one-half to about 10 cents) a loaf in spite of the fact that the price was doubled as late as February, this year. The Socialist parties are strongly in favor of having a food "dictator" to supervise the distribution of foodstuffs in time of war.

It is generally feared that the price of bread will not remain at 20 marks but will keep on going up because the land harvest who control the grain are doing their best to mulct the masses. There is a great shortage of potatoes so that the laboring people are more dependent than ever on bread, the price of meat being so high that they can buy a pound of it only once a week.

Prosecutor in Coal Cases Is Angry at Newspaper Writers

Charlottesville, W. Va., May 20.—(U. P.) Ill feeling between bar factions at the Blizzard treason trial here broke out again in open court today when Charles W. Osenton, prosecution lawyer, denounced one newspaper man and refused to allow another to enter the court. Osenton was cross examining a witness when he shouted across to the press table to George Cain, a reporter: "What are you smiling at?"

Attorney R. C. Townsend, for the defense, appealed to the court to "protect newspaper" men against the insults of the counsel.

"This man was laughing in my face while I was examining a witness," Osenton declared. "I demand that the court instruct the man to desist."

Cain told the court he had merely smiled at a witness. Osenton also refused to allow Roy E. Roberts, a Charlottesville newspaper man, to enter the courtroom and "cover" the trial for his paper, because he had testified late yesterday as a witness for the defense.
