EGYPT DESIRES CLOSE RELATIONS WITH THE U. S. A.

Premier Sarwat Wants Exchange of Trade Between His Nation and America.

By Junius B. Wood
(Special Cable to The Journal and Chicago Daily News)
(Copyright, 1922)

Cairo, Egypt, May 20.—"Egypt hopes for increasingly good relations with the United States because of the sincere sympathy and the great commercial possibilities between the two countries." This was the message which Premier Abdel Khalek Sarwat asked be sent when he received the writer.

"Egypt," he continued, "has cotton, leather and other agricultural products which the United States can use, while your country produces countless things we need. Egypt purchases more than $100,000,000 of American products annually and we hope cordially that the amount will be trebled. Egyptians of all classes are extremely friendly to America and the Americans and earnestly desire to do business."

The premier was extremely affable. He had just finished dictating an appreciative cable replying to Secretary Hughes' cable of congratulations on the American recognition of the new Egyptian government. He sent his secretary to bring copies of both cables which he exhibited with animation to Dr. J. Morton Howell, the American diplomatic agent who accompanied the correspondent on the call.

RELATIONS LARGELY COMMERCIAL

"So far," the premier added, "our relations with the United States have been largely commercial and official, though the flow of Americans to Egypt is increasing yearly. We hope more of your people will learn the delight of our country and make it their winter home. Already our people are going to the United States. Several of our boys, including my own nephew, are being sent over there at the expense of the government to be educated.

"Egypt will certainly have a diplomatic representative in Washington and also consuls in the different cities. However, these appointments will be made only after the constitution is drafted and adopted. The legislative assembly will be elected probably next fall. There are two reasons for this. We need all the able citizens of the country to assist in organizing the new government and further it is necessary that our foreign representatives should know their own constitution and also the moods of the legislature."

CONSIDERED DIPLOMAT

The premier is a short but not corpulent man with close-cut iron gray hair and a stubby mustache. He bubbles over with nervous energy, speaks French rapidly and invariably smiles. On this occasion he wore a gray European suit, a red fez on his flat topped desk being the only part of his costume that was typically Egyptian.

Among thinking Egyptians, Sarwat Pasha is considered the nation's foremost diplomat. He showed much finesse in the turbulent times following the exile of the popular leader, Zaghloul Pasha. When he accepted the premiership he announced the postponement of the discussion of the British terms of independence until the meeting of the legislature. He had many years of experience undr the British and was at the head of various ministries before he became the active head of the nation's present government.

Muskrat Wins Fight With Police Officer

Manchester, N. H., May 20.—(I. N. S.)—Officer Henry B. Leavitt of the local police force received severe bites in the legs and about the hands in a battle with a huge muskrat, which attacked and bit Mrs. Joseph S. Debski as she was walking along the streets of this city with her husband. Mrs. Debski's screams attracted the patrolman, who rushed to her assistance and succeeded in killing the animal with his night stick. Both Leavitt and Mrs. Debski were treated by physicians, and their wounds were cauterized to prevent poisoning.
