June Class Play Of Commerce Is Great Success

By Harold W. Mangum

THE night of nights—Friday. Before an audience that tested the capacity of the Lincoln auditorium, the Commerce high June class presented its play, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." To say that it was successful would be putting it mildly. It was great. From the time Helen Zwingli, as Lucinda, came on the scene until the curtain rang down on "the happy ending" there was almost continuous applause.

The cast was: Helen Zwingli, Lucinda; Bernice Lewis, Betty Burnett; Marjory Blessing, Aunt Mary Watkins; Eva and Daisy Mullins, Annie Runes; The Girl From Kalamazoo, Louise Jacobsen; Jack Demin, Jay Goodman; Hubert Kendrick Mitchell, Arden Pangborn; Joshua, Ted Gurian; H. Wyncoop Clover, Isaac Davis; Lawyer Stebbins and James, Herbert Copple. Mrs. Bess Whitcomb coached the play. Iva Brandt was in charge of the costumes. Frances Wilson, the properties, and Bruno Korhonen was stage manager. The 16-piece Benson orchestra furnished music.

Three assemblies were sandwiched into the week, all leading up to the grand climax—the class play. The Tuesday assembly was a burlesque, in which the characters acted as badly as they knew how. But in the assembly Thursday the actors were strictly on their good behavior and if there was anyone that imagined that cast couldn't act, well, he was disillusioned. Charles Lundy, Pearl Messner and Frances Wilson gave short talks, disclosing the excellence of the performance.

Nobody knows who started it. It seemed sort of self-asserting like spring fever. It was purported to be a unique manner of advertising the class play, but those in charge of publicity were unaware of it. If the crowd at the class play had anything to do with it, though, this stunt proved to be entirely satisfactory. It will go down to future generations simply as "Old Clothes Day."

At a meeting of the Alpha and Beta Sorosis Wednesday, the Sorosis pin was finally decided on. It will be of gold, with a black enamel center. The edges will be beveled. A tiny pearl is at the bottom. Over that is the letter "S."

Mr. Baldiwin, civic teacher, obtained a number of sample ballots and held a mock election, with judges, clerks and the like. On Friday straight Democrat and Republican tickets were voted.

An impromptu assembly was called Friday, the 12th, for the purpose of distributing several awards earned by various students. Marjory Blessing and James Wood received their choice of a mahogany night stand of a mahogany rocker as prizes in the contest for the best sales letters, conducted by the Powers' Furniture company. Isadore Sholkoff, a tiny freshman, received the prize offered the one selling the most tickets to the vaudeville, a box of chocolate-coated nuts. Louise Parrott, in behalf of room 5, received the pennant due for presenting the best act at the late vaudeville. By the way, room 5 also won the pennant for having the best carnival booth. Look into this, Judge Landis.

The following girls attended the Junior week-end at Corvallis: Margaret Tyler, Marjorie Smith, Annie Runes, Frances Wilson, Harriet Wilson, Donna Roblin, Margaret Stark, Pearl Messner, Helen Zwingli and Lena Stuckle.

The Hi-Ys discovered two vacancies in their roster, so elected John Low and Arden Pangborn to fill them. The Hi-Ys also sponsored a sale of chocolate eclairs Thursday. The dainty tid-bits proved very acceptable, if the amount of the sales was any indication. Ewell Grider was in charge.

The baseball team was put to a very unusual test when they met the Jefferson pastimers—trying to hit a pellet propelled by gravity. Broughton, the six-foot-six slabster of the Democrats, should be effective, because it is quite a trick to hit a ball as it drops from the skies. It looked as though a shut-out was impending until the fifth stanza when Kerrigan hammered an aerial ball to the outfield, driving in three runs. The final score was 11 to 4, Jefferson. Just before the game started the players got together and elected Bruno Korhonen captain. He celebrated by fanning 11 of the East Siders.

Miss Rankin has her occupations classes making interviews with workers. That is the way the Commerce students obtain practical business experience—by close contact with the business world.

The green report cards made their appearance on Monday. The marks obtained this quarter are regarded as a forecast of the final grade.

Among the members of the graduating class who left school early to accept positions in the various firms about the city are: Marjory Blessing, stenographer with a firm of attorneys; Maxine Martin with the Finzer Furniture company; Abe Wax, a salesman for a printing establishment; Mable Welker, a stenographer.

The wrestling letter was changed to the effect that the arm is to be eliminated, but the "B" will not resemble the other athletic monograms. It was decided that all the Benson wrestlers who placed first and second in the city wrestling meet are to receive a letter, also those who placed in the interscholastic meets are to receive letters. The Camera club has been very busy during the past few weeks. Pictures were taken of the Tech show exhibits of the Bridge of the Gods in the plumbing shop and the miniature power plant in the electric shop. Pictures have been taken of the clubs and organizations of Benson by the club and will be sold to the students. It was decided at a late meeting that pictures would be taken for anybody any place at a nominal charge. The club expects to continue holding meetings during the summer at the homes of the members. President Kurts is working out a schedule for the meetings. The "camera men" expect to go on a hike soon.

Those taking part were Lawrence Broeren and Donald Watson, affirmative; Ira Buerstetta and Riley Stevens, negative. Last Friday the second issue of The Lens came out. The issue is completely filled with poems, jokes, stories, editorials, essays, in fact everything that goes to make a good magazine. It was one of the best copies of the year. The June class issue of the paper will appear the last day of school. Class Editor Parker E. Branin and his staff of workers are laboring to make the last issue the best ever.

The whole January '23 class is working hard selling tickets for their exposition to be held two nights, May 26 and 27. The class has such a big thing worked up that one cannot afford to miss it. Many of the organizations of the school are putting short skits on to show part of their work.

The last meeting of the Neakahni Literary society was very interesting. The program was in charge of Mr. Linnehan, public speaking teacher. Mr. Linnehan presented several first termers whose skill in handling heavy work showed that the public speaking classes were doing very effective work.

The mens' quartet from Pacific University entertained the assembly Wednesday. The selections ranged from "Where My Caravan is Resting," to a wild west roundup song, when the singers romped on the stage on wooden horses bearing the brand "P. U." Mr. Fowler, a noted P. Miss Ferguson Reads to Pupils Of Jefferson Hi

By John Lebor

ON FRIDAY of last week, Miss Ruby Page Ferguson (Mrs Anthony Euwer) honored the Jefferson High students by reading the play "Green Stockings" in the auditorium. As Miss Ferguson gave her services free gratis there were no expenses incdrred in putting on the performance and every cent taken in, it amounted to about $45, will go to a fund that is to be used in buying new books for our library. For some time difficulty has been encountered by students in getting books for reports or references but now through Miss Ferguson's willingness to donate her valuable time, everyone hopes that no more difficulty will be encountered in that line. Every book that is purchased with this money will be marked "Maud Ferguson Memorial Library." This group of books will be a remembrance of the time when Miss Ferguson was one of the teachers of English at Jefferson.

At the usual Monday assembly two more Ford Educational Films were shown on the screen. This week the films dealt with Poultry Raising in California and views taken in Washington D. C. After these films were shown Martin Wigton of the Boys Glee club favored the students with a solo. The assembly closed when Mr. Jenkins made the announcement that sometime this week all of the students would march out on the athletic field where they were to go through their gymnasium exercises and moving pictures of this would be taken by the Screenland News and circulated all over the United States. On Tuesday a dress rehearsal of these exercises was held and everything was in readiness to take the official pictures Tuesday morning but the rain stepped in and caused it to be postponed until a future date.

Jefferson's baseball team won its fourth straight, and what some consider its hardest game, Thursday when they won from Benson Tech 6 to 3 in 10 innings. In the first three innings both teams scored three runs but after the fourth Broughton of Jefferson and Watson of Benson settled down and not a run was scored until Jefferson's half of the tenth when they made five straight hits good for 3 runs. We have one more game on our schedule and that is to be played next week with Lincoln High. If we win from Lincoln the championship is ours, but if Lincoln manages to defeat us we will be thrown into a tie with them for first place.

Monday at the regular meeting of the Rooter's club a resolution was passed providing that the Rooter's club join hands with the Hi-Ys, Phi Delts and J. Club in making the annual interscholastic tract meet a grand success for us. Leo. Smith was appointed on a committee with Russel Lawrence and Ted Swett to make plans for pulling off the meet with a bang. We have had exceptionally hard luck with our track team this spring. The first casualty came when Phil Swan and Allan Bracher were forced to leave school on account of illness and then Whitney Higgins was declared ineligible because of his age. As all three of these men were figured on as sure point getters this was a sad blow. Hopes are still high however and everyone has confidence that Coach Quigley will develop men to fill their shoes and not break our string of 8 consecutive track championships.

On Wednesday the seventh period Chief Mason called a fire drill and the time announced to clear the building was 1 minute and 10 seconds. This is the same time that was recorded the week before.

Bids for the semi-annual June-Jan dance made their appearance around school last week. The dance is to be held June 2 and the June '22 class is entertaining the January '23 class.

Immediately after the program a very delightful party was held in the court on the campus, where appetizing refreshments consisting of ice cold punch and pastry were served. Exciting games were played by the jolly crowd that turned out under the direction of Catherine Reader, chairman of the committee that had charge of the party.

At the regular meeting of the Hi Ki Ki club Wednesday it was decided that the club take a hike to Johnson creek on Saturday.
