(Special Dispatch to The Journal) (Copyright, 1922) Chattanooga, Tenn., May 24.—The tws from Washington that special latoons of federal prohibition agents are to invade Tennessee, Kentucky and Carolinas in a war on moonshine whiskey, means unquestionably that lood is to flow freely in the mountain istricts of these Southern states.

The prohibition commissioner will need send sturdy ment to cope with the llicit distillers and mountaineer bootleg-There will be no comic opera zzy Einstein and Moe Smith stunts in The statement of the national prohibiion commissioner that this is to be a ifle and shotgun campaign shows some omprehension of the task in hand. Aiready the feud between the moontuners and the officers of the law has James A. Murray. reached such a stage of bitterness that Arthur Brisband "shoot on sight" is almost the unwritten aw of the hills. Within three months two sheriffs and three deputies have met death in courageous efforts to stop the flow of whiskey into the city of Chattanooga alone. The moonshiners and bootleggers, following many of the battles, have spirited away their dead and wounded, but the edge of the strug-gle is believed to rest with the officers. In the old days; when the sale of iquor was legal, a moonshiner in this ection of the Appalachians, like his relative farther north, was a law-abiding hitizen, except that he had white whis-key because he considered it his God-hotel here, was elected president of ill more often surrendering when un- day in the Tacoma hotel. ndividual with gun ever cocked; and treasurer. s forces have been augmented by the ransporting fraternity who have been ured into the hazardous business by its Beginning with the killing of Sheriff Catron of Walker county, Georgia, last full, there has been almost daily battles in the moonshine country. Catron was trying to arrest a party of men who were coming to Chattanooga with a big load of liquor. He was shot by an unknown assailant and died almost instantly. A man named James Douglas was arrested soon afterward and convicted, but the case was reversed by the supreme court because the jury rayed for divine guidance over the grave of the sheriff.

Madison county, Alabama, furnished another act in the death play. State officers flushed a large party at a still and bullets flew fast for many minutes. At last the moonshiners fled. The officers escaped without injury, but a newly made grave near the home of Dave Johnson showed that their aim had been true. After a few more days the body of Fayette Jones, with four pistols strapped to a belt and a rifle

by his side, was found. # Recognition Would Change Soviet Way, Borah Tells Senate

" (By Universal Service) Washington, May 24-Senator Borah of Idaho in debate asserted with emphasis that recognition of Russia by the United States would inevitably result that country conforming itself to the business methods of the rest of the world. He added:

"There are now 14 nations that are doing business with Russia, have their diplomatic missions and are trading and carrying on business there. them are losing any money in Russia. Furthermore, we ourselves are carrying on business with Russia through another nation: Within the last 10 days I had the pleasure of hearing from a man in New York who sold a large amount of goods to Russia. He got his money, but for some reason which it is a little difficult for an American to understand, he had to do busitless through an knglish merchant and pay a commission to the Englishman for doing so. "My idea of the American b
