

the corner, where both were waiting for the cityward car, "that them congressmen back in Washington're getting all worked up over nothing."

"Well." T. Paer answered, "if they conceded. "But, being a alleged public."

"Well," T. Paer answered, "if they didn't get het up over nothin', I don't gave you an opening," Polly retorted sourly. "I guess this congress's been doing as much as when Wilson was president."

a circle 'nd getting no place."

"I ain't sure they won't get no place."

T. Paer replied. "If they keep on dancin' they may have Jim gold."

"It ought to," T. Paer answered quicknd they don't put much jazz into it."

"Just the same," Polly contended heatedly, "it might get some place if the a chip gets goin' 'round in a whirlpool yowling about something and holding or later."
back on doing anything all the time." "What" 'From what I've been readin'," T. Paer chuckled, 'some of the yowlin' ain't had any Democrats lungs for its father."
"Most of it has," Polly insisted.

"Them fellahs make me sick!"
"You can't blame the poor fellahs," T. Paer contended defensively. "They goin' to suck Jim Daugherty down and ain't hollered any till they was made sick by somebody-have they?" "If they were real interested in the

"That," T. Paer chuckled "sounds a awful lot like what I used to hear the sides, the administration won't stand for lot of the congress won't go through of it?" with him."

"Well, Wilson was tryin' to do somesides," he added, "maybe the boys would taxpayers 'nd voters that'd been friendly kinda like to know where Gamaliel's enough to put him in the White House goin' to before they start to go along come ahead of Jim Daughterty.'

hooking it into him for-can you tell

"He sure does," Polly said. "They're "I thought," T. Paer responded guile-lessly, "they was after Jim's war ba-general if you can't do what you want much."

CHAPTER XVII

softly on the thick rug as she unpacked her small trunk and hung her few triple mirror at Madame O'Brien's, but ishly vain if she did so.

Now, however, she let down her hair and rearranged it, then put on a fresh knock at the door and Patricia entered.

She had greeted the new companion upon her arrival and had told her she was glad to see her. Then she had bade the maid take Miss Brown to her room and ordered the man to carry up her "I will come up for you later," she had said then, "for I must have a talk with

She had evidently come now for the "talk," for she sank into a chair and you want?"

"Yes, indeed!" Adlaide said smilingly. "The room is lovely."
QUITE FRANK

"Yes, it's pleasant enough," the rich girl admitted. "I am going to have a bell arranged from mother's room on the second floor to your room up here en the third. She gets dreadfully de-pressed and sends for me. Now you are here, you can go to her at such times. Estelle, her maid, waits on her of course, yet mother gets the blues and wants one of her own kind. Sick people

"Perhaps they are," Adelaide rejoined She was embarrassed at this sudder confidence on the part of her employer's daughter. Patricia may have observed this, for she essayed an explanation.

"I am talking very frankly with you

You will be with mother so much that you must understand how things are.

And, while we are on this subject, the reason I insisted on a companion for mother was so that I could get some re-

"I am only 19. By the way, how old

Baby's tender skin can be easily injured by the wrong treatment. Resinol is what he needs.

Does not smart or sting.

Stops itching and burning almost instantly are unreasonable, aren't they?"

you before you see mother."

motioned Adelaide to sit down.

T SEEMS to me," Polly Tician to with cases that come into the office? grumbled, as she faced T. Paer on Polly argued. "If Daugherty wants to servant, it's a little different-ain't it?" see as they'd have much chance to get that way from what you read in the papers."

"I ain't going to argue about the replied, "but them congressmen ind senators'd better be trying to cut down taxes than dancing round Daugherty in taxes than dancing round Daugherty in they may have Jim goin' round in a circle hisself before long."

"What good'll it do?" Polly demanded.
"If he gets to going 'round in a circle y; "it's about the same eld bunch, with "If he gets to going 'round in a circle the exception of Newberry 'nd Stanfield, he won't get much done in his office will he?"

"Well," T. Paer said thoughtfully, "if Democrats didn't take up all the time it usually does one of two things sooner "What's that?" Polly asked doubt-

> "It either shoots outside of it." T. Paer explained, "or gets sucked down the funnel in the middle of it 'nd out of sight."

Well, if that bunch think they're out of sight in any political whirlpool, they're out of luck," Polly answered. "Jim's too sharp for 'em."

good of the government, they'd all pull "Sometimes." T. Paer suggested, "feltogether," Polly argued, "instead of pulling apart most of the time." "Not Jim," Polly insisted. "And, he

Wilson men say not so many months his getting the worst of it." "Not even." T. Paer asked ironically, "if he's givin' the people the administra-"That's different," Polly snapped. "if he's givin' the people the administra-"Harding's trying to do something and tion's s'posed to be workin' for the worst

"You'll have to show Harding." Polly boasted. "He stands by his friends." thin', too, 'nd congress wouldin't help "I don't blame him for that," T. Paer him," T. Paer pointed out. "'Nd, be- said, "but I should think he'd think the

"Not on your life." Polly said. "If "There's that Daugherty stuff." Polly hadn't been for Jim 'nd some of the other flared. "What do they want to keep fellahs like him they'd never got a chance to vote for Harding."

me?"

"Why don't you write Jim 'nd ask him?" T. Paer asked. "I guess he knows what the boys're after—don't he?"

"I guess they's something to that," T. Paer conceded. "It took a lot of fixin' round to get thing shaped up."

"Anyway," Polly asked argumentative-"what's the use of tryin' to get Daugherty to dig into them war baby cases? I'd like to know."

lessly, "they was after Jim's war ba-bies he's been nursin', 'nd a few things dubiously. "The chests of them babies set too close alongside Jim's campaign "What's the use of being attorney chest for Jim to want to disturb 'em too

"Nineteen, too," Adelaide told her,

THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER-Have a Fling at This

DESIST, I SAY! OH WOMAN- HOW YOU'VE AAH-H-H CUT IT OUT ! -ALTERED SINCE OUR LET'S QUIT THIS ENDLESS EARLY MARRIED LIFE !! STRIFE !

YOU USED TO BE SO GENTLE, DEAR - A SWEET AND LOVING WIFE!

BRINGING UP FATHER

GET YOUR THINGS ON DON'T SUPPOSE WE ARE GOING TO CALL THERE IS ANY USE OF ME OH MRS. DUO . HER HOME IS WONDERFUL : IT IS SAYIN . I'D LIKE TO STAY FULL OF ANTIQUES. HOME -

THIS IS MY HUSBAND JUST LOOK IM 50 ANXIOUS FOR WHEREVER HIM TO SEE YOUR YOU LIKE . HOME-MR. J1445

WEVE HEARD THIS 15 MR . JIGGS . A GREAT DEAL BELIEVE - WE ARE ABOUT YOU-MRS DUO'S NIECES! C 1922 BY INTIL FEATURE SERVICE, INC.

THOSE ARE CERTAINLY ANTIQUES!! 527

A Fair Proposition

JERRY ON THE JOB

LITTLE JIMMY

KRAZY KAT

A KING ALLY SO

MUOI, TENATZ:

THERE'S NO USE O'LETTIN'

THE WHOLE WORLD KNOW THAT BUSINESS IS ON THE BUM = IF ANYBODY ASKS ME ILL TELL 'EM EVERYTHING IS JAKE

FINE - FINE -GREAT - VERY HELLO THERE SUPERIOR. MR . SPRILK = HOW'S THE GLOAK AND SUIT BRIZINEZZ SES - 23116 to

(Copyright, 1922, by International Feature Service, Inc.)

(Hegistered U. S. Patent Office)

(Copyright, 1922, by International Feature DO Y'KNOW THAT WE SOLD $ 150,000 WORTH OF TICKETS

All Fish Are Not in the Ocean

(Copyright, 1921, by Star Company)

A DELAIDE BROWN'S knack at imitation stood her in good stead when she became a member of the Hollingshead household. For she had never been in just such an environment before. At the gets a whim that she wants me. school she had been on pleasant terms And Dick is no good at that kind of with many girls, but intimate with none.

Adelaide Brown watched Miss Hollingshead carefully during her first week "Yes., Dick — Richard — my brother of perception was she, so apt at imita-tion, that it would have taken a quick observer to detect that she had never er, and throws fits about her being left before seen such table service, such alone with Estelle. So I was determined elegance of glass, china and silverware. such niceties of detail as she now saw in daughter to mother. At first Dad was a the rather too elaborately furnished bit opposed to it, but I soon talked home of Henry Hollingshead. home of Henry Hollingshead.

To the little milliner, the room assigned her, with a bathroom attached, seemed a marvel of luxury. She trod bargain. And here you are!"

Rich Girl, Poor Girl

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN de WATER

"I like to be here," Adelaide said She chided herself for feeling a little dresses in the big closet. She noted with delight the dainty dressing table with rich girl mentioned her mother's afflicits triple mirror. There had been a tion and that of Mrs. Brown. For, of course, it was only her manner, not her Adelaide had seidom studied herself in it. She had been afraid of seeming fool- "Another thing," Patric "Another thing," Patricia said, as she rose, preparatory to conducting Ade-laide down to Mrs. Hollingshead, "mother has to be helped quite a bit at collar in place of the one she had worn table, for she cannot find her food easily there. As she fastened this there was a on her plate. It is a bit of a nuisance on her plate. having Estelle standing by her chair and mother does not like it. So will you sit by mother and see that she manages her food all right?"

"Of course," Adelaide said promptly.

Then she was to sit at the table with the family after all, she mused. She had wondered about that—whether a companion ate with her employers or was served afterwards at a second table. She was relieved that, without asking a question on the subject, her doubts on this point had been settled. "I am awfully glad you are here," she "Come on and see mother, now," ald. "But first, have you everything. Patricla suggested. "She knows you are here and will be fussing until you go to her. (To Be Continued Monday)

(By Universal Service)
Chicago, May 27.—Refusal to explain discrepancies in the returns of their precinct in the recent primary election brought jail sentences to three election officials Friday. One of the officials, Mrs. Mae Victor, who served as Democratic judge, was given a two months' jail sentence. Before they were remanded to jail. however, the three officials obtained their release on writs of habeas corpus, claiming that Judge Frank S. Rgheimer had no authority to pass sentence on

During the investigation of alleged election frauds, 15 women officials were up before Judge Righeimer. Several of them became ill when they were ques tioned and had to be sent home in taxi-

Says Anti-Lynching Bill Is Not Legal

Washington, May 27,-(I. N. S.)-The senate judiciary committee has decided the Dyer anti-lynching bill is unconstitutional, Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, and member of the committee, of Idaho, and member or the committee, announced today in a telegram to the Associated Negro Press of Chicago. Borah declared the bill, if passed by congress, would be invalidated by the supreme court. He announced, however, a measure would be framed which would stand the test of the court.

$5000 JOB CREATED senate today passed a bill creating the labor in the department of labor. The

VIGHT, AND IT

Fraud in Election Brings One Woman 3 Months' Sentence

Washington, May 27,-(L. N. S.)-The

(Copyright, 1922, by International Feature

ABIE THE AGENT

THE OTHER

FELLOW HAD

HEH ?

2

FOUR ACES

(Copyright, 1922, by international Feature Service, Inc.)

· Carrier and

Abie Is a Business Man

