UNMASKED BANDIT ROBS CIGAR STORE OF ALMOST $800

An unmasked, daring bandit escaped with loot said to amount to nearly $800 late Tuesday night after entering the store of the Brown Cigar company at No. 124 North Broadway and taking the money at the point of a gun from Sidney Brown, proprietor.

The burglar entered the store while Brown was counting his receipts on a desk near the safe. The front door of the establishment was standing open and Brown did not hear the bandit until he jerked the lights.

Before Brown had realized what had happened, he was facing a gun and a demand to give up all the money he had before him.

Sufficient light came in from the street to enable the burglar to see that Brown handed over all the cash, but nobody passing on the sidewalk five feet away could tell that anything was going on inside.

The bandit seized the money, most of which was in currency, and stuffed it in his pocket muttering something to Brown about keeping still.

When he was satisfied he had all of it, he walked from the establishment and disappeared, Brown stated, toward the Broadway bridge.

The burglar was short in stature and poorly dressed. Brown stated he was not over five feet, five inches in height and his clothes were dirty.

Police expressed the belief that the burglar had his job planned for several days ahead. The officers stated last night that the job was so quickly done that the bandit must have watched the place for some time and knew just when to make the attack and how to escape.

EMPLOYERS PAID POLICE ON DUTY

ployed on the waterfront has usurped the place of first consideration in the longshoremen's strike and temporarily pushed the original contention between the union and the employers into the background.

Acting Chief of Police John T. Moore, under orders from Mayor Baker, is making an investigation today to determine the accuracy of accusations made Tuesday afternoon by a committee of union longshoremen who complained to the mayor that the employers were hiring I. W. W. strikebreakers.

In a statement issued Tuesday night the mayor said he would refuse police protection to Industrial Workers of the World hired as strikebreakers.

CHARGES DENIED

Union men this morning renewed their charges that the employers are hiring "hobbies" to load ships owned by private corporations.

The Waterfront Employers' union issued a statement denying the charges that members of the Industrial Workers of the World were being hired.

The mayor was offered the payrolls of the various stevedore companies in order that he might check the names of the men they employed to prove they were formerly on the extra lists.

The longshoremen charge that regardless of whether or not they were formerly on the extra lists, many of them have since joined and are now members of the I. W. W.

The official statement of the Waterfront employers in reply to the charges made by the committee before Mayor Baker is as follows:

"With reference to the statements appearing in some evening papers that the waterfront employers were employing men through the I. W. W. hall and transporting men from that hall to work on the waterfront, members of the Waterfront Employers' union say this is a distortion of facts.

MEN PICKED UP

"A number of men, about 50 in all, who had previously worked as extra men out of the I. L. A. hall for from one to four years, recently made overtures to the waterfront employers to go to work on the waterfront, but requested that on the first day of employment they should not be asked to come to the employers' hall, but could be picked up on the street at some nearby point.

"On Tuesday morning these men were picked up at Second and Washington streets and taken to their work. We understand that near that locality there is a hall which is generally considered the headquarters of the I. W. W., but these men were not taken from that hall, nor will the waterfront employers countenance taking men from this hall or knowingly agree to employ members of the I. W. W.

CALL ON MAYOR

"In order that there may be no foundation for any future rumors to this effect, the waterfront employers have issued instructions that, effective immediately, men will be sent to work only through the waterfront employers' hall, at Second and Oak streets, or from their other authorized stations where they are at present housing waterfront workers.

"A committee of the waterfront employers today called on Mayor Baker in reference to the above statements and desire to go on record as heartily indorsing the mayor's position that he is unwilling to furnish police protection to men employed from the I. W. W. hall or known I. W. W. workers on the Portland waterfront."

The longshoremen charge that 200 or more I. W. W. are on the payrolls of the employers.

The new committee of four which has charge of hiring men to load shipping board boats has taken offices in the Concord building. They reported 140 or more men at work this morning loading three shipping board boats.

The official board of the Portland Council of Churches today adopted a resolution affirming the principle set forth in the findings of the state board of conciliation.

JUANITA OF 'LILY LOVE' FAME IS HERE

over her father's cabin at the "Whiskey Gulch" celebration.

"See, I have put on my curls because I want to be an old-fashioned rose," she chattered this morning, as she touched softly some little gold ringlets that peeped from beneath the rose-colored bonnet. "See my dress—" and she proudly held out the voluminous skirt with its many ruffles. "I had it made especially for the occasion. I am going to sew featherbloom in it to make it stand out. Papa liked this color—he always liked pinks and reds. He liked pink roses, brown trees and green leaves, so I am wearing the brown fur for the tree trunks, and this old fashioned necklace, which was my mother's. See, it is monogramed, "A. M." for Abbie Leland Miller."

"It was so nice of the Whiskey Gulch people to invite me. I was born after Papa moved away from Canyon City, but through him I was there. I have written this about it.

For I think there are thoughts and things
Left over from our last life's state
Which we are destined to finish;
Some people call it fate;
And there are thoughts and things and feelings
Pruned from our parent tree
Which we are destined to finish
Till in tune with our entity.

"It will be a vacation for me and I shall see all the old things I heard papa talk about.

MEMENTOS OF FATHER

Juanita Miller has with her Joaquin Miller's last whiskey jug, his quill pen, a manuscript and a picture which she will have framed in pine bark, all to be presented to the Whiskey Gulch people for the old cabin of her father's at Canyon City.

Miss Miller talks fondly and feelingly of her father and of her own life. Remembering the lily love Juan who wedded her a year ago, one wonders if Juanita, with her round rosy cheeks and big blue eyes, has laid aside romance.

"I will no longer dictate to fate," she explained. "I will no longer plan things for myself. I have left everything to fate."

In the arms of the Infinite
I rock and rest,
Knowing that what good comes
Is best.

"That is my own. I have a little thought room that I call my sanctuary. I think it is much greater, if one can, to go into the sanctuary of one's soul, but I have a little shell I climb into that is of stone and concrete, and is still.

"I invented my thought room after papa had passed on. He had his chapel abby. When papa went away I felt very much as though my skin were off. It was too thin, and things hurt, and I opened my thought room."

Juanita Miller, while in Portland, is the guest of the Metschans at the Imperial hotel. The Metschans' father and Joaquin Miller were old pals in the early days of Whiskey Gulch. Miss Miller will go on to Canyon City at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Etheridge Lawyer To Ask Dismissal Of Indictments

Dismissal of the larceny by embezzlement indictments against John L. Etheridge, former president of the defunct Morris Bros., Inc., bond house, will be asked by W. P. La Roche, attorney for Etheridge, in a motion to be filed in circuit court this afternoon.

Delay in bringing the case to trial is the reason given by La Roche for asking the dismissal, according to a statement issued by him this morning. The law requires, he states, that a criminal case be brought to trial during the next session after the indictment is returned by the grand jury. Etheridge was indicted a year and a half ago.

"The postponement was with the eager consent of Etheridge," District Attorney Myers said when told of the proposed action. "Etheridge wanted more time in which to gather his evidence and reorganize the company to save its assets. I was not district attorney during most of this period, but Judge Evans, formerly district attorney, granted the postponement for the sake of fairness to the defendant."

The trial has been set for June 15. The motion for dismissal probably will be argued that day before Presiding Circuit Judge Tucker.

Etheridge is charged on four counts with embezzling large sums from the company.

Charles E. Miller Of La Grande Is Member of Board

Salem, June 7.—The appointment of Charles E. Miller of La Grande as a member of the state board of architect examiners to succeed Lee Thomas was announced by Governor Olcott this morning. Thomas, at the time of his appointment to the board, was a resident of Bend, but later moved to Portland, leaving Eastern Oregon unrepresented. Miller's appointment gives that section of the state representation.

The appointment of Dr. W. G. Hoffman of McMinnville as a member of the state board of chiropractic examiners was also announced by the governor today.

ELDER JAPANESE STATESMEN PLAN NEW FORMATION

Tokio, June 7.—Possibility of the formation of a new body of genro, or elder statesmen, as a result of the cabinet crisis now faced by Japan, was indicated today with the probable induction of two younger statesmen into the circle that has held the guiding influence in Japanese affairs since the restoration.

Conferences within inner circles by Viscount Kiyoura and Viscount Hirata led to this belief. Kiyoura is the successor to Marshal Prince Yamagata as president of the privy council, and Hirata was one of the late prince's most trusted supporters. Prince Yamagata until his death occupied the position of most power among the elder statesmen of whom but two are left.

Marquis Matsukata, one of the surviving genro, has hastened to assist in the crisis, but Marquis Saionji continues to dominate the situation from his sick bed at his country home.

Regent Hirohita has commanded Premier Takahashi to serve until his successor is chosen.

The Seiyu-Kai party has dropped its teacup fight and is waging a battle to continue in control. Admiral Kato, Agricultural Minister Yamamoto and Postal Minister Noda are said to be acceptable to party leaders as candidates for the premiership.

Minister of Education Nakahashi and Rails Minister Motodo, who brought about the fall of the cabinet through refusal to resign, together with four of their followers, have been ousted from the Seiyu-Kai party.

River Freight Line Is Pushed To Handle Wheat

Astoria, June 7.—The river boat freight line between The Dalles and Astoria, by which grain producers and buyers hope to obtain a rate between these cities about a third lower than any existing rail rate, is going forward and will be put in operation as soon as wheat is available from this year's crop, it was announced at the port of Astoria commission meeting Tuesday.

A large amount of wheat is being received at Astoria at present. This is largely being ground for export, the Astoria mills being the only ones of considerable size in the Northwest which are now grinding flour for this trade and the overseas shipments are increasing heavily.

Six Injured in Day's Accidents; Car Turns Over

Three persons were injured in traffic mishaps, two others were hurt while handling lumber, and another was badly burned in a series of accidents reported to the police Tuesday night.

Emmerich Jettle, No. 483 Williams avenue, suffered bruises when a motorcycle he was riding collided with an automobile at Division and 52d streets. The motor car, driven by John F. Proctor, No. 1312 East Madison street, was badly damaged by the impact.

M. Lewis, No. 384 Park street, was knocked to the pavement by an automobile at Park and Yamhill streets.

While loading lumber on a boat at the St. Johns sawmill, N. Elliott, 44, of No. 821 Albina avenue, was struck by a heavy timber and severely bruised.

J. W. Wilson, 25 No. 839 Henry street, suffered painful injuries to both shoulders when some lumber fell on him at the Inman Poulsen lumber mills.

W. B. Franzke, No. 717 Skidmore street, was lacerated about the forehead when a machine he was driving crashed into a streetcar at East 53d and Glisan streets.

A machine owned by Mrs. Hazel Hampson, No. 341 14th street, turned over completely on Sandy road about three miles from the city late last night.

Several persons in the car were bruised and somewhat shaken, but none suffered severe injuries.

James Erichson, 49, No. 197 Monroe street, was badly burned Tuesday afternoon when a gasoline tank exploded at the Knott street shops of the O-W. R. & N. company, where he is employed.

Auto Collides With Stump; Man and His Wife Suffer Hurts

Gold Hill, June 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wahl were injured when a small car driven by Wahl, collided with an oak stump at the side of the Pacific highway early Sunday morning as they were homeward bound from a dance. At a turn at the intersection of the Foots creek road, the car's lights went out and the machine, going straight ahead, smashed into the stump. Wahl was jammed against the steering wheel, breaking it off. Mrs. Wahl was thrown from the car. The stump was jarred loose and lifted eight inches.

E. H. Elliott, son of Mrs. Wahl, and proprietor of the Riviera service station, in front of which the wreck occurred, heard the smash and was the first to give aid. Mrs. Wahl is in a serious condition.

SANITORIUM ORDINANCE IS RESCINDED BY CITY COUNCIL

After hearing protestants voice their dissatisfaction over the location of a sanitarium at Clifton and 16th streets, Portlan dHeights, Dr. Alfred Bach, the proprietor, stated that he did not care to remain in a neighborhood where he was not welcome and the city council authorized City Attorney Grant to prepare an ordinance rescinding the existing sanitarium permit and prohibiting the establishment of any other concern of this character within the district.

CITY METHODISM FAVORS PLAN OF DISTRICT CABINET

Formation of a district cabinet of the leaders of Portland Methodism to counsel with Dr. W. W. Youngson on the advancement of Methodist work in the Portland district, was approved Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the City Church Extension society. This cabinet, it was explained, will enable each department of church work to be better acquainted with other departments, and make it possible for the various boards to assist each other whenever any part of the work is being particularly emphasized.

The occasion was also the annual meeting of the society, at which these new officers were elected: President, O. C. Bortzmeyer; vice president, J. W. Day; recording secretary, E. A. Baker (reelected), and treasurer, I. C. Cunningham (reelected). The office of executive secretary was created and the Rev. C. C. Rarick, district missionary, elected to the position.

PERSONNEL OF CABINET

The five men named and these presidents of various Methodist societies were chosen on the cabinet: Ralph Speelman of the Epworth league work, I. Waring of the Methodist Deaconess board, Mrs. Helen Manley of the Portland Settlement Center work, Mrs. T. S. McDaniel of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, F. M. Phelps for the Sunday schools, L. D. Mahone of the Laymen's association, Mrs. H. K. Miller for the Ladies' Aid societies, Amedee M. Smith for the hospital board, and the following members at large: Dr. Edward Lawis Mills, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate; Dr. A. L. Howarth; Area Centenary secretary; the Rev. F. R. Sibley, president of the Portland Methodist Preachers' association; E. A. Collins, and Samuel Connell, representative layman.

Dr. Youngson will leave Friday for the East and will be gone until July 1. He will go directly to New York, thence to Philadelphia to attend the annual meeting of the boards of home missions and church extension. At Pittsburg he will perform a marriage ceremony for his nephew.

AT HIS ALMA MATER

On June 18 Dr. Youngson will conduct the baccalaureate Sunday vesper service at his alma mater, Allegheny college, Meadville, Pa., and then will attend the biennial convention of his college fraternity, the Phi Kappa Psi, at Springfield, Ohio. At this meeting he will present the petitions of two groups of boys from O. A. C. and the U. of O. for chapters.

On the return trip he will drop in at the spring meeting of the board of bishops at Indianapolis and then on to Chicago to attend the meeting of the committee of 25 leading Methodists from all parts of America to consider the post-centenary program. This meeting will be followed by that of the council of benevolent boards, June 27 to 29.

IOWA RESULT WORST SLAP AT OLD GUARD

Cummins, who at one time ranked with the "leading progressives," Brookhart broke with the senator and opposed him in the senatorial campaign two years ago, being defeated by a narrow margin in an extraordinarily heavy vote.

AGAINST RAILROAD LAW

He is a bitter opponent of the Cummins-Esch railroad law, which opposition has resulted in railroad and other organized workers in Iowa making a tremendous effort in his behalf during the campaign.

A famous rifle shot, Brookhart instructed 10,000 Iowa troops in marksmanship during the war and has a strong hold on American Legion members.

The crash of the organization in Iowa under Brookhart's drive adds to the alarm of leaders in Senator McCumber's bitter fight for renomination in the North Dakota primaries later this month. Lynn Frazier, opposing McCumber for the nomination, with the solid backing of the Non-Partisan league of the state, may well prove to be the next trench taken in the public manifestation of a desire for a change. There is no doubt that Brookhart's victory in Iowa, if confirmed by final returns, will cause administration leaders to throw all their power behind McCumber's campaign. The sweep of independent Republican thought, leaders here admit, is becoming altogether too persistent to be comfortable.

DEMOCRATS ARE GLEEFUL

Senator McCormick, chairman of the Republican senatorial commitee, made the following statement:

"Colonel Brookhart bears the reputation of being a fine soldier and a man of great force and high purpose. The Republican senatorial committee, like the Republican national committee, will join the party leaders in Iowa in an aggressive campaign for his election."

Chairman Hull of the Democratic national committee saw in Brookhart's victory an augury of Democratic success at the polls this fall.

"President Harding," he said, "declared the Esch-Cummins act to be the greatest piece of railroad legislation ever passed, and Colonel Brookhart ran on a platform pledged to repeal that act. His platform, progressive in some features to the point of radicalism, included indorsement of the farm bloc, denounced by Mr. Harding. The Iowa primary is only another manifestation of the widespread disgust over the failure of recationary leaders in control of the Republican party, and is indicative of the coming sweeping Democratic victory at the polls in November."

BROOKHART'S VICTORY NOT UNEXPECTED, SAYS LAWRENCE

By David Lawrence

(Copyright, 1922, by The Journal)

Washington, June 7.—Political revolution in Iowa was hailed with delight today by progressive Republicans who point to the victory of Colonel Smith Brookhart as part of the general uprising in the Republican ranks which gave Pinchot a victory in Pennsylvania and Beveridge a decisive triumph in Indiana.

Colonel Brookhart's nomination for United States senator was not unexpected. Privately, some of the leading Republicans in official life here who know Iowa, have been saying for many months that the Iowa voters would express their dispatisfaction with existing conditions when they had spread around the capital many months ago that Senators Cummins and Kenyon after a visit to Iowa had told their friends that no one in office had a Chinaman's chance for reelection. This was at the time when the farm bloc was most vocal and when the complaint of the farmers against economic conditions was at its bitterest point.

Some of the men who are opposed to everything Brookhart stands for—as he is a radical of the La Follette type—frankly confessed today that if Colonel Brookhart had been running six months ago he would have polled an even more substantial vote that he did this week.

In other words, they believe the improvement in agricultural conditions has in a measure satisfied the discontented ones and they are hopeful enough to believe that by next autumn the discontent will have been greatly reduced.

Not so with the progressive Republicans who admit that farm conditions were unquestionably a large factor in the expression of discontent in a state so overwhelmingly Republican, but they attribute the victory to the rising tide of progressive sentiment in the ranks of Republican voters who this time choose to do their reforming in the party ranks rather than by a third political party and organization.

FROM FRYING PAN TO FIRE

The farm bloc will receive much stimulus from the result in Iowa. When Senator Kenyon, chairman of the bloc, resigned to accept a federal judgeship, people said that President Harding had removed one of the most powerful influences in the bloc system of politics. It was not supposed that in place of Kenyon there might come to the senate a man even more radical than Kenyon, though this correspondent and others who had been watching the political situation in Iowa, pointed to the undercurrents of discontent in that state and drew attention to the possibility that Mr. Harding may have leaped from the frying pan into the fire in urging Kenyon to leave the senate.

There were observers, too, who said that Kenyon resigned his seat and went to the bench because of conviction that he had developed that even a man of his sympathy for the farmers could not be sure of reelection in Iowa this fall.

DEMOCRATS JUBILANT

The Democrats are jubilant. They insist—and some Republicans here confirm the suspicion—that many Republicans will desert their party rather than vote for Brookhart and that a situation parallel to that which occurs in Wisconsin when La Follette runs, is likely to develop. In this connection the writer received on the day before the primary the following comment from Edward Meredith, former secretary of agriculture in the last administration, who naturally sees things from the Democratic viewpoint, but who discounted the effect of the primaries thus:

"The Republicans are in quite a mess in Iowa this year and it would seem that no matter what happens in the primary or in the convention, August 2, if the primary doesn't determine the matter, there will be many thousands of Republicans who are going to be dissatisfied. This all strengthens the possibility of Democratic success, and with other situations in the country generally, I am getting around to where I consider Democratic success in Iowa a probability rather than just a possibility."

Several Republicans who are familiar wtih the Iowa situation say this is too sanguine a prediction, but they concede the Democrats will poll a larger vote than before and admit the general uncertainty which envelopes Iowa's political situation this year.

The progressive movement in 1910 showed itself in Iowa as one of the first symptoms of party discontent. That year the Democrats captured the house of representatives. The Democrats in Washington say history is repeating itself and while they do not predict control of the senate they are beginning to feel cocksure of the house.

It is too early to discuss the merit of such predictions. At this time it is significant that the Republicans expect to lose "many seats" but retain control. Everybody is agreed, however, that the political pot is boiling and that the autumn elections of this year will tell an interesting story of restlessness in the body politic.

KENYON REJOICES IN BROOKHART'S VICTORY

Fort Dodge, Ia., June 7.—(U. P.)—Rejoicing in the Progressive victory in Iowa and praising Smith Brookhart, who was overwhelmingly nominated for the senate seat he recently vacated, Federal Judge W. S. Kenyon today issued an exclusive statement to the United Press as follows:

"I rejoice that Brookhart is to be in the senate and know he will help in the fight to keep this a government of the people.

"I know also that he will not be captured by the social lobby of Washington and that no influence will ever draw him away from the peoples' cause."

ORGANIZATION WILL SUPPORT BROOKHART, SAYS McCORMICK

Washington, June 7.—(I. N. S.)—The national Republican organization will solidly support Colonel W. Smith Brookhart, the Iowa ultra-Progressive, who won the Iowa senatorial nomination, it was announced here today by Senator Medill McCormick, chairman of the Republican campaign committee.

The national organization will join with the state committee of Iowa, which opposed Brookhart in Monday's primaries, in "assuring Brookhart's election in the fall," McCormick said.

Definite Courses In U. S. Vocational Education Advised

The regional conference of the agricultural section of the federal board for vocational education, heard reports this morning from F. L. Griffen of the University of California faculty, G. A. Schmitt of Colorado and W. G. Hummel, state director of federal education.

The conference adopted recommendations that a definite course of subjects be required: that the Utah plan of farm shop work be adopted which requires four years of practical work along shop lines, and that regional agents of the federal board be established in the West.

SEMI-OFFICIAL PRIMARY BALLOT RETURNS FILED

Salem, June 7.—Failure of Jackson county officials to return their corrected figures on the Republican gubernatorial contest is delaying completion of the official canvass of the vote in the recent primary contest. The official convass from all counties except Jackson and the completed count from there gives Olcott a plurality of 523 over Hall, which attests the approximate accuracy of The Journal's figures which reported a plurality of 510 for Olcott on May 26. BUCHTEL AND WILLIAMS NOT TO MAKE CONTEST

Salem, Or., June 7.—No contest will be made of the announced vote of the recent recall election by which Fred G. Buchtel and Fred A. Williams have been ousted from office as public service commissioners. Buchtel who, according to rumor, contemplated such a contest of the vote in his case, today declared his decision to abide by the election result without recourse to the courts. Williams' name had never been coupled with a possible contest of the election results.

Buchtel's decision was made public today following completion of the semi-official canvass of the recall vote by Secretary of State Kozer. In this canvass it is shown that Buchtel was recalled by a vote of 61,841 to 35,490. In the same election Newton McCoy was given a vote of 31,633 for the commissionership, against a vote of 30,042 for Buchtel.

HERMON LEWIS NOMINATED FOR OREGON LEGISLATURE

That Hermon A. Lewis has been nominated for the legislature on the Republican ticket from Multnomah county is disclosed in the official count. He displaces R. J. Kirkwood, who appeared to be included in the list of nominees on the unofficial count.
