Mrs. Emmons Is Hostess at Riverside

By Helen Hutchison

MRS. A. C. EMMONS was hostess this afternoon for a tea at her home at Riverdale, in honor of Mrs. H. C. Wortman. Guests included about 25 matrons and maids, many of them members of the Wednesday and Thursday morning art classes of the Portland Art association with which Mrs. Wortman has been affiliated. During the afternoon Mrs. Wortman gave an interesting talk on the temples of Indo-China, which she visited during a recent trip around the world. Miss Harriet Leach sang a group of songs during the afternoon.

At the tea table during the affair were Mrs. William M. Ladd, Mrs. George H. Marsha, Mrs. Hugh Henry and Mrs. A. M. Ellsworth. Assisting about the rooms were Mrs. C. W. Hodson, Mrs. H. W. Ogilbie and several others.

DRESS

Premet Favors Foulard

Although printed crepe is the favored figured fabric of the season, foulard is not neglected, and Beer, Premet, Jenny and Chanel have all designed charming models in it. Premet shows this frock in red, black and white foulard, printed in a conventional pattern, simple in line, with an unusually wide girdle, made of plain red, black and white silk braided together. The wide cuffs and back panels, which continue from the shoulder to the bottom of the skirt, are of black chiffon.

FASHION'S REALM

New York, June 8. — One of the dressy blouses intended for wear with a crepe de chine or silk skirt has an almost Victorian neckline. The neck does not slide off the shoulders so far as the Victorian effect. Here, however, the nineteenth century air comes to an abrupt halt, for from each shoulder hangs a long, thin bit of fringe, in back and in front, of the same color as the blouse. The fringe gives a strange Hawaiian turn to the style, which, despite its mixup of periods and places, is a very pretty one.

New York, June 8.—Shoes of patent leather seem to be more popular than ever before. Plain pumps with lattice-work tongues and flat low heels are much worn on Fifth avenue. Even the shoes that start out by being of suede or kid usually end up with patent leather straps or toe tips. With the patent leather shoes nothing is more fascinating as an ornament than the little buckles of cut steel.

New York, June 8. — Coolness and smart dressing lurk in every fold of the new hot-weather 4 o'clock of printed crepe georgette. Against a neutral background of sand or gray or some indeterminate shade appear cool, dim flowers and leaves in various pleasant but unobtrusive shades. The bodices are slightly bloused and the skirts rather full. Sometimes there is a trimming of narrow lace in white or ecru, perhaps a satin sash.

Paris, June 8.—Ribbon, more than anything else is the fashionable trimming. One sees it, fantastically gathered and rosetted, forming the border for little summer coatees or, waxed and lacquered, making a thin line of color up and down the panels of a frock. One of the newest uses for cire ribbon is on the summer wrist bag. In this case, the bag itself is made of colored linen and the ribbon sewn across it in narrow stripes of various colors with the ends dangling two or three inches at the lower edge. Each end is ornamented with a big crystal bead.

Y. W. C. A. Girls Will Frolic On Outing

By Hazel Handy

THE Y. W. C. A. camp on the Clackamas river will swarm with girls Saturday, when the High School Girl Reserves hold a picnic and general sports day. They will leave in automobiles from the Y. W. C. A. at 10 a. m. and return at 4 p. m. About 100 girls are expected and each is to furnish herself wtih a picnic lunch.

Although the camp's official opening is not until July 1, many groups of girls have already taken advantage of the delightful summer weather to spend a day in the country enjoying the numerous opportunities for real fun which the camp affords. The tract of land known as the Y. W. C. A. camp comprises 17 acres situated along the Clackamas river near Rock creek and is ideally located for a summer playground for girls. Tents are being put up, a swimming pool is being built and preparations are advancing rapidly to receive the girls for the months of July and August. Besides the natural resources of the camp, volley ball, basketball and many other outdoor sports are being provided. The camp folders will be ready for distribution this week.

An event of Friday will be the annual tea given by the Women's association of First Presbyterian church at the home of Mrs. E. H. Sensenick, No. 482 East 25th street north, from 3 to 5 p. m. A towel shower for "Hillockburn," the farm resort conducted by the church, will be a feature of the afternoon, and all guests are asked to bring a donation with them. A pleasing musical program has been arranged for the tea hour.

Six separate signals to traffic, two of them operated automatically, are displayed by a new device to be mounted on the fenders of an automobile.

Flute Quartet to Play Composition Of Blind Pianist

The beautiful "Scherzino" written by Francis Richter for four flutes and piano will be played tomorrow night at the Richter-Carney-Sanders concert at the Baker theatre, it was announced this morning. The flute parts will be played by Robert Millard, Frank Badelet, Harry G. Knight and Margaret Northrop.

This work, completed only a few weeks ago by the talented blind Portland pianist-composer, is attracting much attention throughout the country, and is to be featured next season by several orchestras.

Tomorrow night's concert will be unusual in that the three principal performers, Francis Richter and Frank Sanders, pianists, and Miss Marguerite Carney, soprano, are totally blind. Messrs. Richter and Sanders will play MacDowell's A Minor concerto.

Organ Recital at Reed Chapel Tonight

The organ recital to be given by Lucien E. Becker in the Reed college chapel tonight at 8:15 o'clock promises to be an exceptionally brilliant one. The feature number will be the "First Sonata" of Alexander Guilmant. The program will be as follows: "Grand March" from "Tannhauser," by Richard Wagner, "Meditation" from "Thais" by J. Massenet, "Scotch Fantasia" by Will McFarlane, "Capriccio in F Major" by Edmond Lemaigre; "Oh, That We Two Were Maying" by E. Nevin, and the "First Sonata" of Guilmant. This will be the last of a series of recitals given each month in the Reed college chapel by Mr. Becker. It will be open to the public.

L. Kaufman, Pupil of Kneisel, Will Play

Louis Kaufman, violin virtuoso, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Kaufman, returned this morning from New York, where he has spent four years in study with the famous Franz Kneisel in New York. Young Kaufman by telegraph has agreed to appear in a special solo number at the Rivoli theatre Sunday as a part of the program to be given by the Rivoli symphony orchestra. Kaufman expects to visit with his parents about a month before he returns to New York.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Mrs. Whitefoot Decides on a Home

By Thornton W. Burgess

When Mrs. Mouse makes up her mind,
Then Mr. Mouse best get behind.
—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

"Don't you think this is a splendid house?" asked Whitefoot, rather timidly.

WHITEFOOT THE WOOD MOUSE was very proud of his home. He showed it as he led Mrs. Whitefoot there. He felt sure that she would say at once that that would be the place for them to live. You remember that it was high up in a tall, dead stub and had once been the home of Jimmy the Flying Squirrel.

"There, my dear, what do you think of that?" said Whitefoot proudly as they reached the little round doorway.

Mrs. Whitefoot said nothing, but at once went inside. She was gone what seemed a long time to Whitefoot, anxiously waiting outside. You see, Mrs. Whitefoot is a very thorough small person and she was examining the inside of that house from top to bottom. At last she appeared at the doorway.

"Don't you think this is a splendid house?" asked Whitefoot rather timidly.

"It is very good of its kind," replied Mrs. Whitefoot.

Whitefoot's heart sank. He didn't like the tone in which Mrs. Whitefoot had said that. "Just what do you mean, my dear?" Whitefoot asked.

"I mean," replied Mrs. Whitefoot, in a most decided way, "that it is a very good house for winter, but it won't do at all for summer. That is, it won't do for me. In the first place, it is so high up that if we should have babies I would worry all the time for fear the darlings would have a bad fall. Besides, I don't like an inside house for summer, I think, Whitefoot, we must look around and find a new home."

As she spoke Mrs. Whitefoot was already starting down the tree, Whitefoot followed. "All right, my dear; all right," said he, meekly. "You know best. This seems to me like a very good home, but, of course, if you don't like it, we'll look for another."

Mrs. Whitefoot said nothing, but led the way down the tree, with Whitefoot meekly following. Then began a patient search all about. Mrs. Whitefoot appeared to know just what she wanted and turned up her nose at several places Whitefoot thought would make fine homes. She hardly glanced at a fine hollow log Whitefoot found. She merely poked her nose in at a splendid hole beneath the root of an old stump. Whitefoot began to grow tired from running about and climbing stumps and trees and bushes.

He stopped to rest for a moment and lost sight of Mrs. Whitefoot. A moment later he heard her calling excitedly. When he found her she was up in a small tree, sitting on the edge of an old nest a few feet above the ground. It was a nest that had once belonged to Melody the Wood Thrush. Mrs. Whitefoot was sitting on the edge of it and her bright eyes snapped with excitement and pleasure.

"I've found it!" she cried. "I've found it! It is just what I have been looking for!"

"Found what?" Whitefoot asked. "I don't see anything but an old nest of Melody's."

"I've found the home we've been looking for, stupid," retorted Mrs. Whitefoot.

Still Whitefoot stared. "I don't see any home," said he.

Mrs. Whitefoot stamped her feet impatiently. "Right here, stupid!" said she. "This old nest will make us the finest and safest home that ever was. No one will ever think of looking for us here. We must get busy at once and fix it up."

Even then Whitefoot didn't understand. Always he had lived either in a hole in the ground or in a hollow stump or tree. How they were to live in that old nest he couldn't see at all.

Had Your Iron Today?

Let's Have Raisin Bread Tonight

HOW long since you've had delicious raisin bread — since you've tasted that incomparable flavor?

Serve a loaf tonight. No need to bake it.

Just telephone your grocer or a bakery. Say you want "full-fruited bread — generously filled with luscious, seeded, Sun-Maid Raisins."

The flavor of these raisins permeates the loaf. A cake-like daintiness makes every slice a treat.

Serve it plain at dinner or as a tasty, fruited breakfast toast.

Make delicious bread pudding with left-over slices. Use it all. You need not waste a crumb.

Raisin bread is luscious, energizing, iron-food. So it's both good and good for you.

Serve it at least twice a week. Start this good habit in your home today.

But don't take any but a real, full-fruited genuine raisin bread.

Your dealer will supply it if you insist.

Some New Uses of the "Old Standby" Kingsford's Corn Starch

IF your recipe calls for four eggs to one quart of milk, use three eggs and for the egg omitted use one-half tablespoonful of Kingsford's Corn Starch. For smoother, glossier gravies and sauces use a dessert spoonful of Kingsford's instead of a tablespoonful of wheat flour.

For lighter, flakier biscuits, pie crusts and muffins, make your pastry flour with one-fourth cup of Kingsford's and three-fourths cup wheat flour.

A little Kingsford's Corn Starch dusted on top of cakes before icing prevents the frosting from running off.

A quarter teaspoonful of Kingsford's Corn Starch put into each of your salt-shakers will keep the salt from caking.
