

BUT ONE PROTEST IS MADE AGAINST STREET VACATION

Although repeated calls were made by Mayor Baker for expressions from objectors at a hearing by the city council Wednesday afternoon on the petition of the North Pacific Terminal company for vacations of streets needed for the development of the new union freight terminal, only one dissenting voice was heard—that of J. B. Ziegler.

The protest of seven east side residents, led by Dan Keliher, which was filed earlier in the week, was read, but not one of the signers appeared to support this protest. It is urged that the streets be not vacated until arrangements are made to include the east side district in the union terminal arrangement and benefits.

Checking of descriptions in the formal documents in street vacations was referred to Commissioner Barbur and City Attorney Grant. Said the street hearing was delayed until 2 o'clock June 21, in order that this work may be done, and that every opportunity may be given to objectors to present their protests.

The matter of adjustment of switching charges in the central east side district, in connection with the street vacation movement, was discussed, but it was decided that as this matter is under negotiations with a committee of east side business men and the railway, it should run its course on that line rather than be injected in the hearing before they take final action.

This committee met Wednesday night. F. J. Rosenberg was elected chairman and L. M. Lepper secretary. They, with Drake C. O'Reilly, F. M. Brown and George Cherry, will represent the committee of 15 in the negotiations with the railroad officials and will report back at a meeting to be held next Monday night.

To Ask Council to Confine Licenses to American Citizens

Issuance of licenses to conduct business in Portland only to American citizens is the demand made upon the city council through resolutions adopted Wednesday night by the Oregon Federation of Fraternal Societies. This action, it was explained, is directed especially toward the alien proprietors of soft drink places, fruit stalls and market stands.

Dustin Farnum and His Racing Boat to Come to Festival

News that Dustin Farnum, the famous moving picture actor, with his latest speed boat, which is rated as one of the fastest in the world, together with Alvin K. Rasmussen, designer of speed craft has made him nationally known to followers of water sports, will come to Portland to compete for high honors at the Rose Festival regatta, was received Wednesday afternoon by Fred W. Vogler, member of the festival board of governors in charge of this feature of the approaching celebration.

Farnum and Frank are now at Los Angeles, and will ship their boats north in time for the preliminary try-outs on the Willamette. Vogler Boy and other speedy craft of the Northwest are looking to their laurels. Chief Poker Jim Burke of the Umatilla tribe and five other braves from the Umatilla reservation, doled up in their elaborate beaded buckskin robes and feathered war bonnets, will come to the Rose Festival and pitch their wigs on the roof of the Hotel Multnomah, as the guests of President Eric V. Hauser. A letter to Hauser brought the information.
