RACING BOAT LEAPS IN AIR, TURNS OVER

Festival Crowds Thrilled by Unexpected Action of Volger Girl in Regatta; Driver Comes Up Safely Beside His Craft.

Thousands watching this afternoon saw the Volger Girl, leading boat in the first race of the Rose Festival regatta, leap completely out of the water as it attempted to make the turn at the end of the first lap and turn over in midair, coming down on the water again bottom side up.

The Vogler Girl is a speedboat of the 16-foot class and its driver was Orth Mathilt. Those straining their eyes from Morrison street bridge and the docks along the river saw Mathilt's head pop up alongside the capsized boat and he waved his hand.

The harbor patrol and George Kendall's boat, the Sylph, put out from shore to give assistance. The other two boats in the race stopped and returned to help their unlucky foe. The Vogler Girl was towed to the motorboat club house wharf on the east side and the race was postponed until later in the afternoon, following the other events.

Bridges, docks and housetops overlooking the river were black with humanity when it came time for the regatta to open, at 1:30 o'clock.

Queen Harriet of Rosaria, who Tuesday was crowned queen of all lands where roses blow, ordered today that her merry people gather along the waterfront between the Hawthorne and Morrison bridges this afternoon, to watch the races between the speediest boats in her empire, and the water sports of her cleverest swimmers.

Thousands found places where they could overlook the race courses. The populace seems to like to gather at the river. Masses were attracted by the river pageant Tuesday morning as they are for the regatta today.

BOATS ARE SPEEDY

Boats that are among the fastest in the country took part today. Fred W. Vogler was the director in charge, with Roy T. Bishop admiral of the fleet and Ralph Staehli chief aide. Liveliness was the spirit of the afternoon, with as much to see as at a three ring circus during the 3 hours and 25 minutes of entertainment. The official viewing stand was on the Belmont street quay.

But Queen Harriet directed that enough women to pack The Auditorium either not attend the regatta or else leave early enough to be on hand when Miss Alice Robertson, congresswoman from Oklahoma, the only

USE SLEDGES ON 2 SAFES; $868 STOLEN

Knight Shoe Co. Robbed of Currency; J. C. English Co. Safe Yields Nothing; Cracksmen Did Fine Job, Say Police

Sledge hammer safe burglars entered and robbed two stores early this morning in the downtown district, escaping from the Knight Shoe company, Broadway and Morrison streets, with $868.37 in currency from the J. C. English electrical company, No. 148 Fifth street, with nothing. Methods used in each case were identical, which leads the police to believe the same gang robbed both places.

Entrance to the shoe company was gained by jimmying a rear door which opens on a court between the building occupied by the shoe company and the Hippodrome theatre.

The burglars broke open the shoe company's safe with sledge hammers and chisels. The safe is of a modern type, made of sheet steel. It is about five feet tall. It is placed on the balcony at the front of the store against the east wall, overlooking Morrison street.

The burglars first pounded off the combination knob and then used steel drills to break the combination tumblers.

According to Inspectors Coleman and Collins, expert detectives on burglar cases, the job was comparatively easy. Except for the wrecked combination knob and tumblers, the safe was not damaged.

The burglars overlooked $400 in Liberty bonds in the safe, a quantity of jewelry, including a diamond ring, and did not molest $1500 in checks. The bonds and jewelry belonged to employes.

Nothing else in the offices was disturbed, apparently. Frank Orata and Frank Caramanic, janitors employed by the shoe company, discovered the doors of the safe open about 7 o'clock and called for the police.

JANITORS DISCOVER JOB

The two janitors had been in the building since 6 o'clock, but did not go to the balcony until an hour later.

In the J. C. English company the

LIGHTNER FLEES TO CHINESE CITY

Dave Lightner, reputed narcotic peddler and smuggler, has fled on the steamer Luise Nelisen to Shanghai, China, according to information received today by United States Attorney Lester W. Humphreys. When Lightner failed to appear in court this morning when his case was called, his $2000 bond was forfeited by Judge Bean. The bondsmen are A. Molesworth and C. M. "Count" Senosky.

Humphreys received a wireless message from Captain Velde this morning that a man answering Lightner's description signed up as a seaman at Astoria last Saturday under the name of C. L. Hibsman. The Luise Nelisen left Astoria on Sunday and is now well out to sea.

FOOLED OFFICERS

Humphreys has wired Attorney General Daugherty requesting that Lightner be arrested when the boat docks at Shanghai. Captain Velde in his reply to Humphreys' message offered to render any assistance the government might desire. His message indicated, however, that he had not mentioned the matter to Lightner.

Lightner was supposed to have stood trial on an indictment charging him with a conspiracy to smuggle $105,000 worth of narcotics into this country from a Japanese steamer. Last Saturday he held a conference with federal officials, when he indicated a desire to plead guilty. Federal officials now believe this offer was but a ruse aimed to throw them off their guard while he escaped from the country.

WARRANT ISSUED

Tuesday afternoon when Humphreys discovered Lightner was missing, but before he had received the radio from Captain Velde, he asked Judge Bean to raise Lightner's bond to $10,000 and a bench warrant was issued.

If a second indictment is returned against Lightner by the grand jury now in session, it will only be a matter of a few days before similar forfeiture action will be asked on another bond of $2500. This second complaint which the grand jury is considering charges Lightner with "highjacking" an Oriental boat crew out of several thousand dollars worth of narcotics and liquor.

CRATER LAKE INN CHANGES HANDS

Crater Lake hotel has changed hands. A. L. Parkhurst has sold his interest in the concession without reservation, to the Crater Lake National Park company, it was announced today.

Eric V. Hauser, owner of the Multnomah hotel, is president of the company; Richard W. Price, manager of the Multnomah, is vice president and managing director of the new company; Vernon Vawter of Medford is treasurer, and George Collins of the same city is secretary. The consideration of the sale was not made public.

WORKING CREW SENT

The first crew of hotel employes was sent from Portland today to get the Crater Lake Inn ready for opening to the public by July 1. They will be followed in a week by Manager Price, who proposes, without modifying his relation to the Multnomah hotel, to spend the first week of each month at the inn.

The ownership of the Crater Lake hotel concession is now lodged entirely in Oregon and chiefly in Portland. At a meeting of the stockholders scheduled to be held in Portland Saturday morning, it was said that changes which would more completely establish local control probably would be made.

BUS TO OPERATE

The operation of bus service to Crater Lake from both Medford and Klamath Falls has been contracted to Lee & Williams, Klamath Falls business men, who have purchased six seven-passenger automobiles from local dealers with which to operate the service.

The Crater Lake hotel concession long has been in dispute due to attacks on the management of A. L. Parkhurst by Stephen T. Mather, director of the national park service. The new arrangement is said to be satisfactory to the national park service.

RUSSIA TO INVITE AMERICAN CAPITAL

Moscow, June 21.—(I. N. S.)—The first official admission that soviet Russia may make further concessions to the allied powers at The Hague conference was made here today by Leonid Krassin, people's commissary for trade and commerce. He qualified this announcement, however, by saying that the concessions must be mutual.

"Russia expects little from the conference at The Hague," said Krassin. "The European powers are unable to grant credits to soviet Russia, but we hope to show at The Hague how private capitalists stand in Russia."

It was at this point that Krassin said that Russia might make additional concessions if the allied powers would make similar concessions to Russia.

He continued:

"Russia is not ready to close oil contracts with the British until Americans are given an opportunity to bid.

"We hope within a year to meet American business men as well as American manufacturers."

Final arrangements to hold the funeral of James S. Baldwin, Portland fireman, at 10 o'clock Thursday from The Auditorium were made today. Active pallbearers, chosen from men on truck No. 1, of which Baldwin was driver, have been named as follows: W. Bray, Charles Abbott, A. Teague, Harry Suffield, W. E. Greene and D. Sloan.

Tariff Side Show Is Hoax
Secret Jugglery Is Exposed

By Elliott Thurston
(Copyright by Press Publishing Company, New York World)

Washington, June 21.—The Republican tariff show, wherein was seen a cuckoo clock, a patented briar pipe, a pair of hair clippers and an array of similar articles, proves on investigation to be in the nature of a hoax.

By a simple but effective bit of juggiery Republican leaders in the senate so twisted facts and figures as to make it appear that importers, department stores and other enemies of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill have been reaping profits of 1000 to 2000 per cent and more.

The purpose is to make the public believe that profiteers are the chief antagonists of the exorbitant tariffs proposed. Then, by charging the newspapers with being in the power of the profiteers, the high tariff champions proceed to explain the condemnation which the press has heaped upon the bill.

TRICK EXPLAINED

With each of the exhibits go certain receipts and custom house invoices. The cuckoo clock, for example, is shown by the receipt to have sold at retail for $22. The custom house invoice indicates that it was valued at the equivalent of 94 cents in German money. This looks like clear proof. But here is the trick:

The tariff show producers assert that 94 cents was the purchase price abroad of the cuckoo clock and that, therefore, the retailer made a profit of 2240 per cent. All who saw the clock exhibited smiled at the idea that it could be bought for such a price. The truth is that 94 cents is only the price in terms of exchange at the time of importation, which, since deliveries from Germany are now very slow, was undoubtedly a vastly different thing from the actual purchase figure.

MARK DEPRECIATES

As an illustration, the German mark has depreciated within a period of less than a year from 2 cents down to three-tenths of a cent. Accordingly, an article costing 1000 marks, contracted for when the mark was 2 cents, actually cost $20, but if that article arrived in this country when the mark had dropped to three-tenths of a cent the invoice would seem to indicate that the cost was but $3. It could not be bought at that equivalent in Germany now because prices have risen with the depreciation of the mark.

If the merchant who bought the ar-

Boatswain's Body Recovered From Willamette River

City Grappler Hugh Brady recovered the body of H. B. Conroy, boatswain's mate of the U. S. S. Connecticut, shortly before 1 p. m. today after the Willamette river had been dragged for 24 hours near the spot under the Morrison bridge where he toppled from the deck of the motor launch Santa Maria Tuesday noon.

Deputy Coroner Leo Goetsch could find no indication that Conroy had been injured in the fall from the boat to the water and the mystery of the drowning is no nearer solution than before.

Conroy was known to his shipmates as a strong swimmer. The first theory was that he had struck his head against the rail or boat when he was toppled by a sudden jerk of the craft which had been convoying Queen Harriet's rose festival barge.

The body was taken in temporary charge by the coroner subject to arrangements with naval officers for permanent disposal.

Mayor Baker Urges Holiday for Friday

Mayor Baker, in a proclamation issued this morning, urged the city to set aside Friday afternoon as a half holiday, "in order that all citizens may participate in the Rose Festival activities on that day." The Rose Festival is not only an affair of moment in this community and on the Pacific slope, but has assumed a national character, says the mayor, pointing to the fact that the government dispatched warships to participate in the flower fiesta and President Harding sent Miss Alice Robertson as his personal representative.

Man Who Shot Self Walks to Ambulance

Denver, June 21.—George Brown shot himself in the head three times with a revolver here today. When the ambulance called, Brown walked out and climbed in. At the county hospital, physicians said Brown might recover although the three bullets were still in his head.

Gentle Rain Falls On Festival Crowd Preceding Regatta

As a preliminary to the Rose Festival water regatta on the Willamette river this afternoon a heavy shower began falling at 1 o'clock to give the Pollyannas opportunity to tell how much good the rain would do to parched gardens and smouldering timber fires.

But the rain did little good to the optimistic frame of mind of officials of the Rose Festival committee in charge of the regatta, which had not anticipated outside participation in the water sports. The only ones who failed to worry were the bathing beauties who were scheduled to disport themselves in the river.

Sanderson Awarded $5500 for Injuries

G. E. (Sandy) Sanderson, photograp and camera dealer, was awarded a $5500 verdict against the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company this afternoon by a jury in Federal Judge Bean's court. The damages were given for injuries to Sanderson received when he fell into a ditch last fall on Broadway and Washington streets. The evidence showed the ditch was not properly protected by guards and danger signals.

MEIER & FRANK PLAN BUILDING

Ground will be broken this week for the erection of an eight story fireproof building for the Meier & Frank company on the half block on the south side of Irving, between 13th and 14th streets, according to announcement made today by officials of the company. Contracts awarded Tuesday to Parker & Banfield call for completion in February, 1923. Cost is estimated at more than $300,000.

Plans prepared by Sutton & Whitney provide for reinforced concrete construction and a deep basement under the entire building. The new structure is designed to accommodate the wholesale and jobbing departments of the Meier & Frank company and allow expansion of several crowded retail departments in the downtown store.

Trackage connects the new warehouse with the west side rail terminal and scientific appliances will be installed for handling freight. Including the basement, the building will contain approximately four acres of floor space. Three large freight elevators and one passenger elevator will be installed. Stock and equipment will be protected from fire by sprinkler systems on all floors.

"The Meier & Frank company began business in 1857 in a 100 by 50 foot store at Front and Yamhill streets, with five people on its staff," according to Leon Hirsch, secretary of the company. "The business has expanded in keeping with the growth of the city. Buildings now in use aggregate more than 12 acres of floor space and we have more than 2500 people on the payroll."

Visiting Physician Has High Praise For Medical School

The University of Oregon Medical school and new county hospital on Marquam hill form a nucleus for the principal medical center of the Pacific Coast, according to Dr. Haven Emerson, former president of the New York City board of health and a leading authority on public health methods. Dr. Emerson arrived from the East today on his way to San Francisco. He was the guest of Dr. C. Ulysses Moore, a member of the board of governors of the City club and director of infant welfare clinics.

Accompanied by a party of local physicians, Dr. Emerson inspected the University of Oregon Medical school and made a trip over the Columbia River highway. He will leave for the south tonight.
