

BALLY-HOO LINE OF MARCH WILL PRECEDE GYMKANA

The bally-hoo parade preceding the Rose Festival gymnastics to be held on Multnomah field Thursday afternoon will start from Sixth and Burnside streets at 1 o'clock, move up Sixth street to Alder, thence to the athletic field. The gymnastics proper will start at 2 o'clock.

Clay S. Morse, director in charge, today announced the order of march:

Escort of Portland police, Grand Marshal Oswald West, United States army band from Vancouver, soldiers from Vancouver, navy band, sailors and marines, Governor Olcott and staff, Miss Alice M. Robertson, senior naval officers from Connecticut and destroyer fleet, Mayor Baker and city council, Vancouver, British Columbia, police band, board of governors of Rose Festival association, Rosarian band, Rosarians, Queen Harriet and attendants, Elk file and drum corps, fraternal drill teams and Boy Scouts.

Arriving at the field, the grand entry will end in a military review and parade, during which all units will take their places. The program proper will begin promptly at 2:15, following the review. The sequence of events will be as follows:

2:15—Exhibition drill by U. S. Marine corps from U. S. S. Connecticut; honors to the colors.

2:30—Pageant of flowers by 2000 school children; presentation of floral tribute to Miss Alice M. Robertson; presentation of 60 dolls to girls winning prizes for best display of flowers and distribution of rosebush tickets to participants.

3 p. m.—Indian club drill by 250 school girls. Track; 100 yard dash between soldier and sailor athletes.

3:20—Competitive drill between drill teams of Moose, Woodmen of the World and United Artisans; track, 440 yard dash.

3:45—Exhibition drills by Elks and O. O. K. K. Brigand patrol; track; 220 yard dash.

4 p. m.—Queen Harriet catches numbered card dropped from airplane to decide winner of $100 prize; tug of war between soldiers and sailors.

4:15—Comedy stunts by army and navy clowns and motion picture comedy actors.

4:30—Hunt club drill and horseback jumping, and announcement of winner of army and navy athletic meet.

4:45—Mayor Baker participates in motion picture comedy production directed by Herman Von Borstel.

5 p. m.—Airplane acrobatic and parachute drop.

The motion picture comedy company from Los Angeles will form a series of sidights together with the navy clowns and policemen during the entire meet. The transfer of the aerial acrobat from one plane to another will be the last feature of the program and will be done in connection with a parachute drop.

Above is shown a section of the Rose show exhibits in the Armory, picked at random. Perfect flowers fill the great room, and it was with difficulty that the judges picked the most perfect bloom grown outdoors, but happily they fixed upon the rose shown above, exhibited from the garden of T. the Festival Center Tuesday afternoon after her coronation at Laurelhurst park.

Fully 10,000 persons gathered in the park, according to the estimates of traffic officers, who said the crowd was much larger than last year. Thousands left early because they could not find even peepholes between the people packed around the roped-off square, through which to glimpse the queen in her bower or the children dancing at her feet on the greenward.

DANCERS GRACEFUL

The procession came down the steps on north side of the park. The Rosarians, in white, led, and they formed a double line across the big square from the opening to the throne, standing at attention.

Down this lane advanced the queen, before her elfish little girls in happy costumes. Chubby and dimpled, yet self possessed and graceful, the boy and girl dancers generalised by Professor Robert Krohn instantly won the hearts of the crowd and a joyous chuckle went up. There were Indian dancers and Spanish dancers, and old fashioned couples and whatnot among them.

RECEIVES CROWN OF GOLD

They gathered at the foot of the throne and silence fell upon the crowd. President Eric Hauser then stepped forward and took from the hands of Miss Adelia Prichard, president of the Business Women's club, the gold crown set with 48 white sapphires and 7 pigeon-blood rubies, which the club has given to the association for the crowning of queen each year.

The queen knelt on a cushion of purple placed at her feet by a proud little page. President Hauser, not being used to putting crowns on women's heads, nearly mussed the queen's hair up, which as all women know would have been terrible, and she had to help him.

Then the Rosarian band burst out with the "Star Spangled Banner" and the crowd stood at attention, while the queen knelt alone.

QUEEN'S PAGE DANCE

Then the dance program began. Each of the dances was an epic in itself, but special mention must be given to anything so finished as the dance Militaire, by Jane Lyon and Helen Walter. These two girls are the queen's pages and will be with her all week. They hold her train as she walks and dance as they do so. The opening number, the children's ballet, was also worthy of special mention. In fact, they all were. The same dances were repeated in the evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Professor Krohn's assistants in directing the dances were Miss Georgia Way, Miss Dorothy Lyon, Mrs. Jessie Marias, Miss Alta Travis and Mrs. Fleck.

ROSE SHOW OPENED

In regale state, followed by her courtiers and ladies-in-waiting, Queen Harriet officially opened the annual Rose Show in the Armory at 4:45 Tuesday afternoon. Musicians of the Rosarian band played a triumphant march as the royal party arrived from Laurelhurst park, entering the building through the west entrance.

Guy W. Talbot, president of the Portland Rose association, welcomed the distinguished guest and conducted the way through aisles of flowers, through lanes of roses in every combination of gorgeous colors.

Wherever the queen's fancy was attracted to a rose of surpassing interest and beauty, the procession paused and Harriet I was told by some of her attendants the history of the flower and from what part of her realm it had come to make more lovely her coronation day.

A thousand or more persons filled the balcony and lined the wall of the Armory floor as the queen made her stately way from exhibit to exhibit, circling the huge floor.

Immediately after pronouncing the Rose Show opened, the queen passed into a second large room in the south section of the building and officially opened the Sportsmen-Tourist show.

FESTIVAL CENTER DECORATED

From the Armory the royal parade moved to the Park block where the queen pronounced the festival center officially opened for the rose carnival.

In addition to the thousands of choice and lovely roses and the myriads of beautiful flowers of almost every known variety, exhibits have been prepared by numerous civic organizations, which have booths around the edges of the rose exhibits.

Much favorable comment and interest was caused by a novel replica of the Eastmoreland municipal golf links, which was prepared and entered by Miss Florence Holmes of the bureau of parks.

The miniature golf links was made to scale, and in every detail is exactly like the municipal links, with club house, water hazards, lake, bunkers, branches, tees, green, close cropped turf, fairway and "the ruff."

Two irate players, knee deep in the branch, are searching at one spot for lost balls—undoubtedly they are swearing, but not loud enough to be heard.

BOY SCOUT CAMP SHOWN

Second to the golf links in interest among auxiliary exhibits, the typical camp of the Boy Scout deserves mention. Tennis, maps, bridges, ropes tied in various kinds of knots, model fires made in several different ways and examples of all the woodcraft of the Boy Scouts are there on display.

Booths in the Sportsmen-Tourist show are fitted out with displays calling attention to the scenic beauties of the Northwest and giving information about the parks, camps and resorts available to the summer traveler.

As an added attraction to former Alaskans visiting in the city for the festival, an excursion has been arranged by the Alaska society for Thursday night aboard the barge Swan, which will leave the east end of the Morrison bridge at 8:30 o'clock. The excursion is in celebration of the annual midnight sun festivities in the north. The Swan will be taken to a point of vantage on the river where the fireworks display may be seen at its best.

E. H. Collis, secretary of the society, said the invitation has been broadened to include all who wish to participate.

The committee in charge includes: Bruno Mauro, Colonel J. J. Crossley, Mrs. F. W. Swanton, Mrs. Edith Tozier Weathered, Mrs. Josephine Stott, Mrs. E. S. Roudledge, Mrs. H. N. Ford, E. H. Collis, J. F. Hopkins, W. P. Sinnott, A. R. Hellig, C. A. Sutherland, Miss Harriet Ford and Mrs. J. J. Cotter.

Lieutenant V. U. Ayres will fly over the downtown district of the city at noon Thursday and drop envelopes from his airplane. Hundreds of these envelopes must of necessity be blanks, but 10 of them will contain orders for two reserved tickets to the "Gymkana" at Multnomah field in the afternoon. He will fly over the city again in the evening, this time dropping 10 sets of tickets to the fireworks at the baseball park.

At noon, also, daylight fireworks will be set off from the roof of the Imperial hotel. Five bombs will be fired, each one releasing an American flag in midair. The first person to get one of these flags to the office of Fred W. German, fireworks director, room 212 Chamber of Commerce building, will receive a $5 cash prize. The second one will receive two reserved tickets to the fireworks entertainment at the baseball park in the evening.

Youth Arrested on Complaint of Girl

Zonald Wills, age 16, Errol station, accused by Marie Zollner, 18, of Portland of being the father of her unborn child, was arrested Tuesday upon a warrant signed by the girl. The girl took poison Monday night in a downtown rooming house in an attempt to take her own life. A letter addressed to Wills was found in her possession at the time. Wills was placed in the county jail.

NEW PEACE PLAN MAY PUT END TO DOCK STRIKE

Terms of an agreement which probably will end the longshoremen's strike have been worked out by a joint committee of longshoremen and employers, according to an announcement made this morning at union headquarters.

After two months of turmoil the contending factions have reached a mutual understanding. Members of the longshoremen's committee report the basis of settlement is agreeable to them, but they first wish the endorsement of the entire local before announcing the details of the new plan.

A meeting of the local longshoremen's union has been called for tonight at union headquarters. The proposal of the committee will be submitted at this meeting. Members of the committee feel assured the longshoremen's local will accept and endorse the terms of the agreement.

The basis of the new agreement is the proposal submitted to the employers through Mayor Baker several days ago.

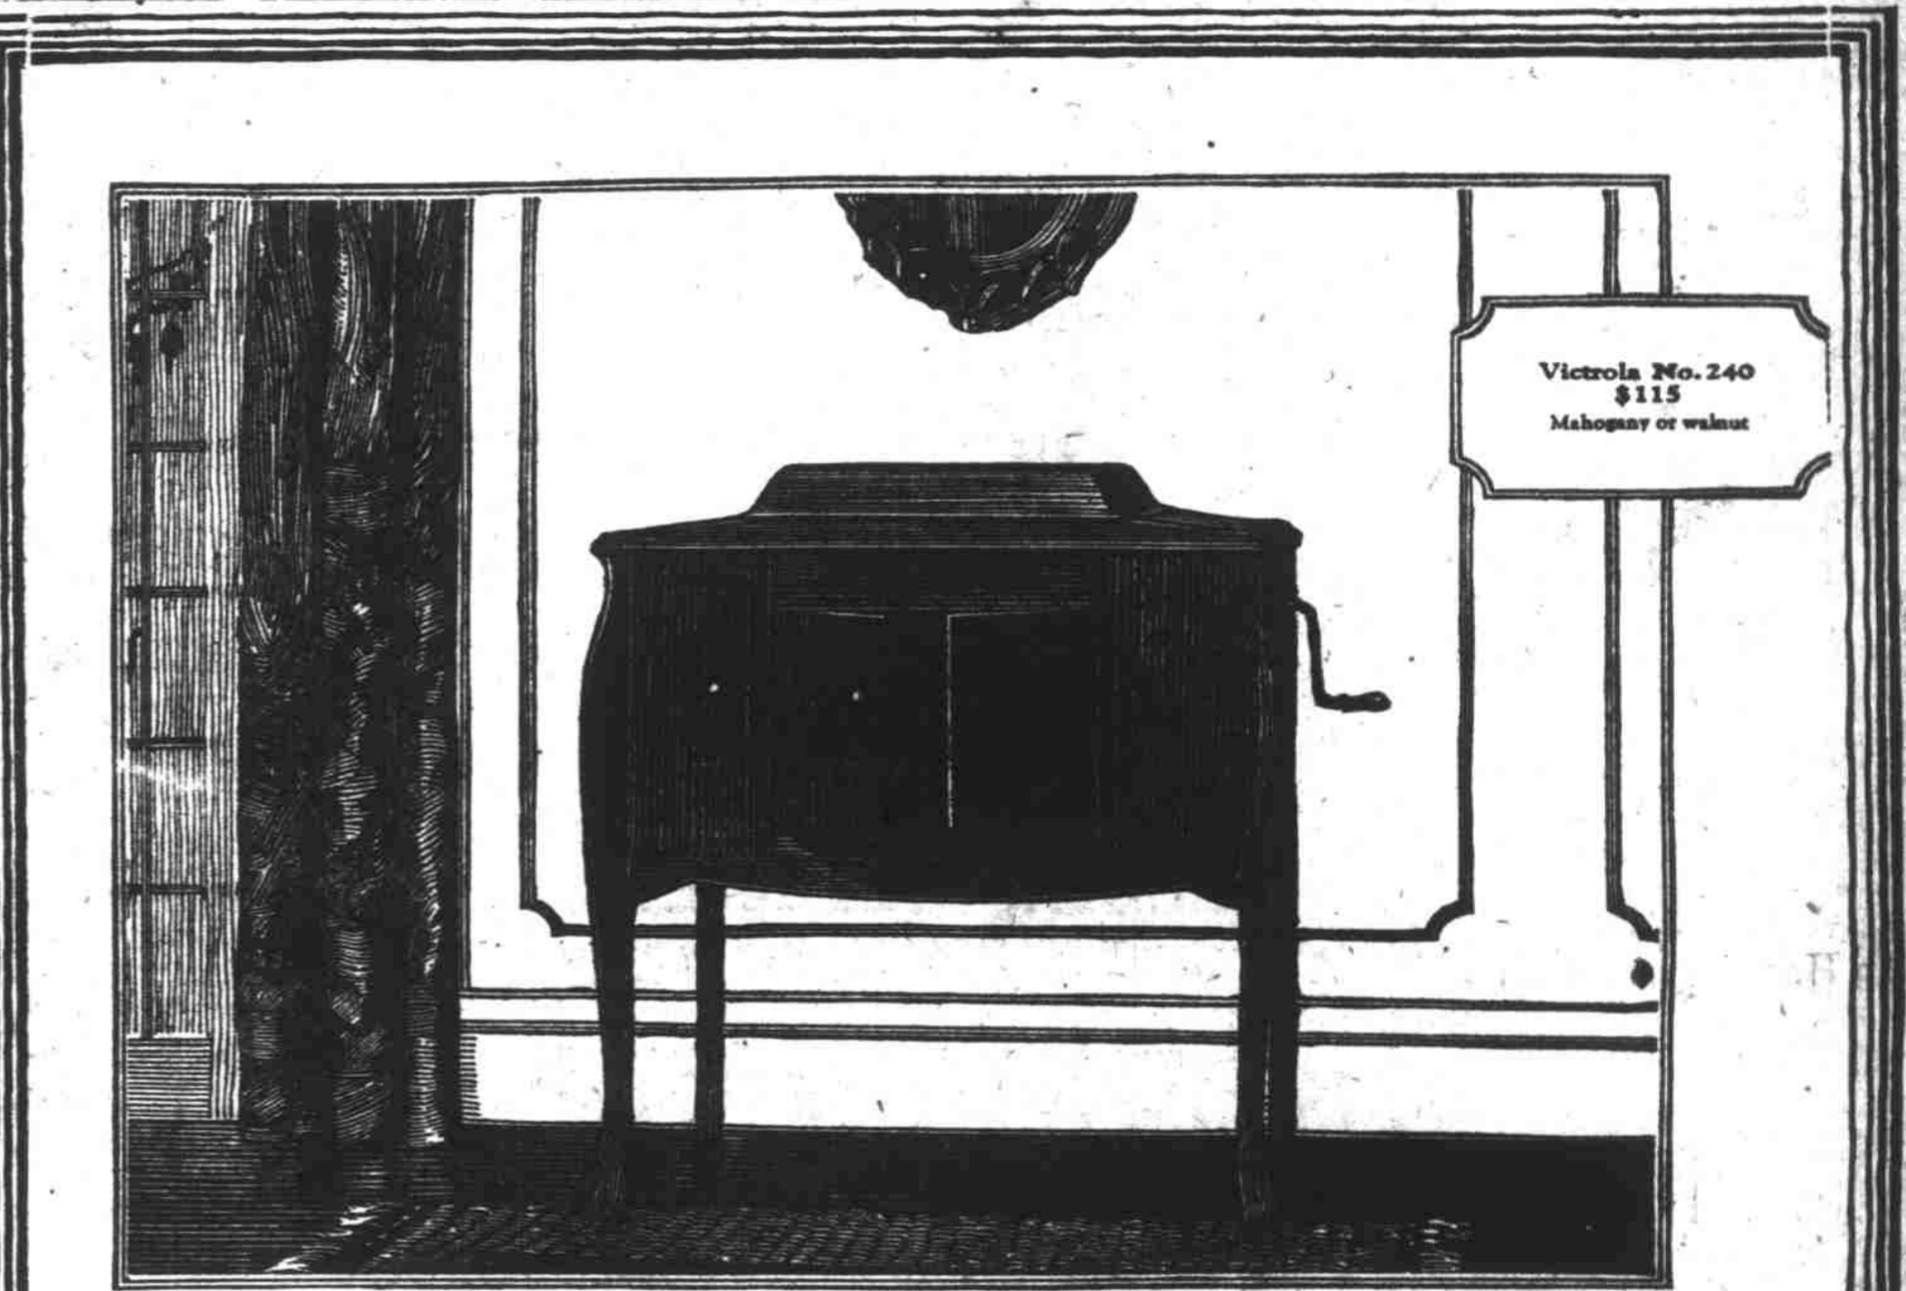

The employers, but longshoremen members of the committee report the employers on the committee have accepted the terms of the agreement.
