

WHEN the state conventions meet marked casually but to T. Paer's evi- more'n just enough to move to adjourn dent surprise, "there won't be no boobs put on the ticket, take it from me." "Where'd you get that convention stuff?" T. Paer wanted to know sar-

"Not yet, but soon," Polly answered confidently. "We're getting awful tired of having to vote for any old person that thinks he wants to run for office in the primaries." "Well," T. Paer responded. "If I remember right it was somethin' like the same feelin' that was responsible for the primary law bein' passed in ly, the first place, wasn't it?"

don't know why it was ever passed," Polly answered disgustedly, tics and them that knew anything the first time, all right. "Well it done it whatever the reason was," Polly mourned. "They's not heatedly. one of the old boys playing the game any more. 'Oh, they're playin' it all right," T Paer corrected. "only they don't seem to hold the cards to win."

'It's a bum law," Polly declared firmly. "Any goop that thinks he's a want to forget about that stuff." statesman 'nd can scrape up enough "I ain't forgetting any of it," Polly kale to file can go out and clutter up assured him "but I don't know what the ticket and mess things up gener- you're talking about." ally.

"I don't see it," Polly argued, "they didn't get into the offices like they was some abuses," Polly conceded gen-

'Well, maybe they are a little diffeent," T. Paer conceded. Now-a-days the good." cops 'nd the gumps run for office but in the old days they just run 'em." "You talk like you was full of ration, hop." Polly snapped. "I don't see how stock."

you get them ideas if you ain't." "I 'spose," T. Paer suggested, "you remember Jack Matthews 'nd Larry remember Jack Matthews 'nd Larry her diction, "to be Sullivan 'nd some of the big fellahs pessimist like you." back in the good old days, don't you?" 'I knew 'em well," Polly boasted. "Them were the fellahs that knew per cent optimist." how to play the game four ways from "The joker was wild all right," T. Paer mused, "only it never filled in "Maybe," T. Paer acceded. "but I with the deuces 'nd the transfer of the control of with the deuces 'nd the treys the peo- can see the bright side of things good ple had dealt 'em.'

'em." Polly contended. "Just look at who used to be in the legislatures them days and now." who they want to hire to run the government as to go back 'nd have some little bunch of ward heelers frame up

CHAPTER 48 (Copyright, 1922, by Star Company)

MRS. HOLLINGSHEAD fell asleep, holding her husband's hand after he had assured her of her daughter's of an hour in a state of nervous ex-had slept the girl had gone to her own room and dressed as if for the

After summoning Dr. Carter, she took the husband's place at the bed-

"I will stay by her while you go and dress," she said gently. "I am afraid you will catch cold sitting here in your pajamas and bathrobe."

She felt almost as if she were the daughter of this stricken man. He looked at her now, dully.

"I won't catch cold," he protested.
"You will be needed later by her,"
the girl reminded him. "Her peace of mind will depend on you," she added in a whisper.

fully.
'I am urging Mr. Hollingshead to

"He must not leave me," the inva-lid whimpered. "He must not!" 'He must!" the girl said gently, but firm-ly, "just for a short time."

The blind woman began to cry soft-The man looked helplessly at the "Don't worry. I will see to her," she sald to him in a low voice. "Go and dress. You will have to let the

"She will wear herself out," he mur-mured anxiously. "I wish the doctor would come. I know this will tell on

She left the room. In 10 minutes

ing coffee.
"Drink this, Mr. Hollingshead," she

She was still there when the front

She was still there when the front doorbell rang. She listened while the master of the house went downstairs. She heard a murmured parley in the lower hall. She wondered how the father was telling the tragic news to to her soothingly as she started and turn in a few minutes."

her own child. She answered truth- the hall.

But she awakened at the end

Mr.

She knew she would be busy

her. "It hurts my eyes," the - doctor !

"The fellahs that made the laws next year," Polly Tician re- them days," Polly insisted, "had to know or they never got on the ticket."

"Yes," T. Paer conceded. "A fellah castically. "We ain't scrapped the to hold a job as claim agent or be a morning bran mash the stuff from primary law yet, have we?" lawyer for a railroad or some other big which white mule is made. corporation."

"What's that got to do with what we're talking about?" Polly demanded. "It'm talking about legislatures and public offices and the kind of big men that used to be elected to 'em.'

"Well,' maybe it ain't got much to do with it," T. Paer answered slow-"only from where I used to set back in the days when Jack and Larry was. shufflin' the cards, a sergeant candidate for anything from United States unless it was to put a crimp in poli- senator down to sergeant-at-arms of the convention had to hold a paycheck from some sort of a big corpora-"I wouldn't be surprised," T. Paer tion before he stood any show, just like "but you hit the real reason a high school kid has to have a diploma before he can get into college. "That's all bunk," Polly contended "Wasn't the delegates to conventions elected free and open by the people." "Maybe, after they was picked by Jack and Larry 'nd the rest of the back room boys," T. Paer said, "but they was one little thing bu don't "Nothin' of much importance." T Paer chuckled, "only before they was dozen the other, ain't it?" T. Paer picked the big boss always had to be rests, and in reporting to court at the of feed for livestock. asked. "only in the old days the goops showed that them that was picked had was all halter broke to lead 'nd stand rings in their nose 'nd hobbles on their "That's all old stuff and maybe there > that rough stuff out and just keep the "It can't be did," T. Paer objected "not as long as the first thing corporations think of is dividends on their erously, "but we're going to cut all

"I'd hate like the devil," Polly r torted, her exasperation reflecting in "to be a grump and a

"I ain't no pessimist," T. Paer con tended, complacently. "I'm a hundred

"You can figger more percentage enough so that I'd just as lief take a "They had good officers dealt to change at lettin' all the people pick "I don't want to," T. Paer assured the ticket in the back room of some

"Mrs. Hollingshead, why not let your daughter sleep quietly? You say she

"Yes-but it was quite a while ago

"Yes, dear. And she told you she wanted to go to bed and to sleep.

"But I keep dreaming that some-

Dr. Carter laid his steady hands on

"Dear lady," he urged, "you believe.

me when I say a thing-don't you?"

"Then you must believe me when I say that Miss Patricia is all right and would not want to be disturbed.

Won't you stop asking for her, and "I will give you something to relieve your head," the doctor promised. He prepared a hypodermic, Ade-laide waiting on him. When it had

"Yes," the sick woman assented.

"She is very ill," he announced.

"More ill than she has been at all.

District Forester thing has happened to her. I want to be sure that she has not caught the thin, trembling ones.

let her sleep peacefully?"

'But-oh, my head!"

"Yes."

put on warmer clothing. You know I called him to come to you—and he did not wait to dress."

I must put a trained nurse in here."

To be continued tomorrow.

She came in here, didn't she, Addie?

was here only a little while ago?"

Rich Girl, Poor Girl

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN de WATER

"I will stay with her. You telephone Don't you remember?"

said to Adelaide at last. "She is wearing herself out."

Adelaide hurried to the telephone. During the hour in which the invalid had gone to her.

Hollingshead

Nickelplated stars, gleaming from has to be read up on Roberts Rules of the proud breasts of federal prohibi-Order 'nd a few other things besides, ition agents, do not make bossy-cow's

Nor does that star, with all the weight of an agent's oath behind it, make a genuine, guaranteed copper coiled whiskey still out of a wash-boiler full of hot water in which Farmer Brown hopes to scald a squealing pig if the moonshine marines let him alone awhile.

Yet there are among these stalwart minions of the federal law agents who assume for themselves such poetic license. And Federal Judge Charles E. Wolverton is out to clip some of their pet glories by holding them to the same court regulations as their "victims" are subjected to.

COURT GIVES REBUKE No more favors are to be granted them by virtue of their arresting authority. They must obey the laws of the court the same as the men they arrest. If some of them don't conduct themselves in a more orderly manner the federal court will take action against them Such was the substance of a lengthy rebuke Judge Wolverton directed at the agents this morning, when he was showed the defendant was heating wa-informed by Assistant United States ter in a wash boiler to scald a pig. Attorney Allan Bynon that he was having difficulty in getting the agents mash by the barn, which was later to make truthful reports on their artime set for trial. "I think the court has seen enough said in summing up the matter. The judge's admonition was made during the hearing of a motion on the C. E. Alderdice liquor indictmnet, in which the defendant is seeking to milk truck at north, on May 5 was not made out for his home, but for No. 574 East Knott street, and further that the agents have not returned the warrant to the United States commissioner. AGENT IS CITED

Bynon could not offer any resistance to the contentions, his only evidence being hearsay, that the warrant had dress. Counsel for Alderdice said he had interviewed the commissioner and he denied making the change. Judge Wolverton instructed Bynon to have Agent Grover Todd, who secured the warrant, in court Wednesday morning, to give him the opportunity of ascer taining whether he tampered with the warrant after the commissioner issued it, and also to explain why he has been so tardy in making his return. "Those federal prohibition agents sires to have again, ought to understand that they are officers of this court, and that they mus make returns on these papers," Judge Wolverton announced. "If they don't attend to these matters the court will take some action. I don't think the United States attorney's office or the United States marshal should to or not. caused any further worry over these

FAIL TO APPEAR

Bynon also stated that two agents ignored court subpenas Monday for the rial of George Protrcks. Agent C. J. McKnight never showed up, and Agent H. L. Barker was 35 minutes late and caused a delay in the government's Bynon also charged Agent Price with making 14 mistakes on major points in one of his recent cases, on which the jury failed to find a verdict. Price is alleged to have stated that he found a still in full operation, when the facts Also that he found a barrel of sour identified during the trial as a barrel At the conclusion of this morning's during the last few days to understand would convey his stat the difficulties which I face," Bynon prohibition department. would convey his statements to the CREAM DELAYS TRAFFIC Vancouver, Wash., June 27 .- A can of have it dismissed. Alderdice contends held up traffic Monday morning, while at Warrendale, that the search warrant used at his a firehose was being used to wash LaMade was No. 574 East Eighth street the mess into the gutter.

Scratched by briers, bruised by rocks, burned by the sun, bitten by mosquitos

The party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dimm, Effie Rhodes, Ar-thus Evenson and Eric LaMade and they are telling today how they started dren's Home. to climb Yeon mountain, off the Columbia river highway, and had to finience of getting half way up a mountain to find it impossible to descend with safety and yet finding themselves INDIVIDUAL BEQUESTS facing almost insurmountable cliffs to continue the remainder of the climb. But after two days' toil, during which there was only a light lunch and the hikers are back in civilization tired and sors, but wiser.

The five started from Dodson on the expecting to get to the top and back by Mrs. Faling. Sunday night. Blankets and equip- brother to Mrs. Faling, is dead. the mountain they decided to go back, but the slopes were so precipitous that ucated.

timber the party proceeded and ar-At the conclusion of this morning's rived at the top at dark. The under-hearing Bynon promised the court he brush was so dense and so dry that the adventurers were faraid to start a fire so they huddled together on the top of the peak while the cool mountain

Through dense underbrush and fallen that despite general opinion, there was more than one way to the top of the she ignored her cousin. The only other mountain. He said the view was beau-

(Continued From Page One)

Samaritan hospital, $2000, the Children's Home, west half of lots 7 and $ and sore in every muscle, five Portland block 63. Portland (these lots are at the hikers are recuperating today after a southeast corner of Fifth and Washing-grilling experience of mountain elimbing such as no member of the party de- Swetland building); August Warnecke, all the rest of lands and real estate: to Ben Selling in trust for Jewish hospital $5000; William E. Metzger, $6500 all balance of property to The Chil-

Codicils added to this will later pro vided for the bequest of $5000 instead ish the expedition whether they desired of $6500 to William E. Metzger and oppointed A. L. Mills of Portland as These higers had the unusual expe- the sole executor of the will and testament without bonds.

ARE MOSTLY TO FRIENDS Practically all the individuals mentioned in the 1911 will were particular friends of Mrs. Faling. The ad-dresses of some of them are not dresses of some of them are not known, and one is known to have died. tune, on the ground that when her last addition paid Bayer $21.525 to reim-The Jensens were friends. Lena Doran will was made her health and mind highway and followed Dodson creek to is thought to have been a relative of base of Yeon mountain which is Mr. Faling, but her address is not it under undue pressure and coercion. an additional $11 per thousand for the about 400 feet higher than Larch moun- known. All the Grays and Warneckes mentioned are residents of San Franthe party started the climb up cliffs cisco, and were particular friends of uable Portland property, is said to be expecting to get to the top and back by Mrs. Faling. Cornelius Barrett, a worth approximately $1,000,000 at ment were left behind. Half way up liam E. Metzger, another beneficiary, is a young man whom Mrs. Faling ed

The Faling will contest was before Judge Tazwell, then probate and county judge, for a year, off and on. Hur-dreds of witnesses were heard and countless depositions read. The chief contestant was Dr. W. Tyler Smith of Sheridan, since deceased, and a cousin breezes sent the coldness through to of Mrs. Faling's, who contended that their marrow. It took the party all he, as nearest surviving kin, was the verson's court of selling whiskey to able," Justice Rand declares in his cream, joited from a Battle Ground day Monday to return to the highway rightful heir. Dr. Smith was not men-milk truck at Sixth and Main streets, by another route which led them out tioned in any of the numerous wills tioned in any of the numerous wills him five days in which to file a motion authority to pay of the plant for a new trial. The jury received the him any sum of money. He had been known to have been made by Mrs. for a new trial. The jury received the him any sum of money. He had been settled with once and paid in full and LaMade was the guide of the expedi- Faling. He and Mrs. Faling are said case late Monday and was about an tion and said he learned conclusively to have had a misunderstanding earlier hour in reaching its decision, had was a son-in-law in San Francisco. In the will declared invalid he was bequeathed $2000. Under the earlier will he gets nothing. His wife, Lilian Faling, Mrs. Faling's only child, died before any of the mother's wills were made. A grandson, the child of Lilian Faling, also passed away before Mrs. Faling is known to have made any

The will contest before Judge Tazwell often reached dramatic points. Particularly so was the recital by Thomas N. Strong, one of the bene ficiaries of the last will and Mrs. Faling's old attorney. Mr. Strong re-viewed her life in detail under questioning and held the courtroom tense when he recited how he had defended her in San Francisco, where she was Portland city auditorium. So declares tried and acquitted on a charge of murder for the shooting of her band. This man, according to the tes timony, deserted her for another woman and took something like $30,-000 of Mrs. Faling's money with him. She tracked him far and near and finally came upon him in the streets of San Francisco, when she shot him dead. She was tried and acquitted on an insanity plea were weakened, and that she executed ing his bid on the building, as well as great amount of cash and much val- the building. present.

Mrs. Faling's maiden name was Xarifa Jane Barrett. She came here as a girl with her family, and, by frugality and wise investment, she so acquired the nucleus of the fortune which she later amassed.

John F. Logan, James G. Wilson and Henri Labbe appeared for the beneiciaries, Strong and Mead, and Coy Burnett and E. E. Heckbert represented Dr. Smith.

GUILTY ON LIQUOR CHARGE George Protrcka, north end soft drink vendor, was convicted this morning by a jury in Federal Judge Wolprohibition agents. The court granted

Salem, June 27 .- The city of Portland is under no obligation either legal or moral, to pay to J. C. Bayer, trustee, $36,72.84, due, Bayer asserts, in consection with the construction of the Justice Rand in an opinion handed down by the supreme court in overruling a demurrer filed by attorneys for Bayer in a suit against George R. Funk, auditor for the city of Portland,

In his opinion Justice Rand points out that the contract for the construction of the auditorium, originally entered into with Hans Pederson, was transferred to Bayer as trustee when Pederson became involved and unable to complete his contract. Upon completion of the contract the city paid all burse Pederson for an error in comput-. The Faling estate, comprising a brick entering into the construction of Thereaftee Bayer presented a approximately $1,000,000 at for an amount in excess of $36,702.84, which he claimed the city was under In the contest before Judge Taxwell legal obligation to pay. The city council, through the enactment of two ordinances, provided for the payment of this claim when Bayer, by legal proceedings, should obtain a judicial determination that the city council had authority to pay the money as a moral obligation and not as one which was enforcible in an action at law.

"The city was under no obligation to the relator (Bayer), moral or equitopinion. "The council had no legal had given his receipt therefor."

By A. Posen

THEM DAYS. IS GONE FOREVER— "Listen to the Mocking-Bird"

YEH, BUSINESS 15 O, HEAR THE LITTLE IMPROVING, SPIKE -BIRDIES SING! - AH, LAST WEEK WAS ONLY SPRING IS IN THE FAIR AIR -

SAY FRED - WHERE IS THE DIAMOND RING YOU ALWAYS USED TO WEAR ? 00

THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER!

BRINGING UP FATHER

I'LL THROW ME HAT IN AN' IF IT STAYS IN - I'LL 40 IN - IF SHE THROWS IT OUT I'LL KNOW MAGGIE 15 ANGRY! "What are you talking about?" The invalid asked the question that Adelaide had so often heard her ask of the heard

MORNING

MISS

HENN.

WELL- IT LOOKS AS IF IT'S GONNA BE SAFE TO 40 IN:

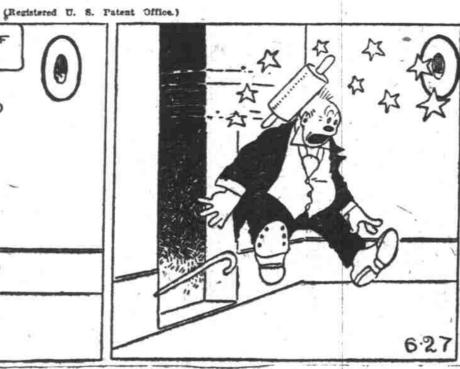

THAT A SWIT

L'IL LADY LIKE

SHOULD HAVE

MISS HENN'

NO TEETH

By George McManus WHY DIDN'T YOU THROW ME HAT OUT? 1922 BY INT'S FEATURE SERVICE, INC. A Gap That Was Easly Filled

George Cecil Gives Marriage Surprise KRAZY KAT

He obeyed as if he had been a child. In five minutes he was back again, fully dressed. His wife was still crying.

District Forester George H. Cecil stole a march on his associates and friends Monday, married Mrs. Edith Webster from New York city, and left portland at a control of the contr Portland at once for an extended automobile camping trip through the most attractive national forests of his district, leaving his co-workers to dis-"Not before Dr. Carter gets here," cover his absense the girl soothed. "Talk to her and line marriage lie try to divert her thoughts. I will recover his absense only through a two-line marriage license announcement

While rumors have for some time been afloat of Cecil's impending marshe was back, carrying a cup of steam- riage, the event came as a surprise to many of his associates. The ceremony was performed at 11:30 a. m. Monday at the First Congregational church by Dr. W. T. McElveen. Only a few of Mrs. Hollingshead's sebs had ceased but her breath was labored. There was a pinched look about her features.

The girl did not eall the man's attention to these symptoms. Instead, while he drank the coffee, she took her seat by the bed.

She was still there when the front lettering of district for the most intimate friends were present. The bride is from New York and had been visiting with Mrs. Garrigues at the Rosefriend apartment previous to her marriage. Cecil is chief administrative of district for the istrative officer of district 6 of the United States forest service, comprisng all the national forests within Oregon and Washington, Waverley Club Bills 4th of July Events the doctor. However he told it, it took little time. For, before she could believe that the conversation between the two men could be ended, Dr. Carter stood at the side of the bed. He bent over the patient and speke

The Waverley Country club house committee has scheduled an old-fashmoaned.

"It is I. Dr. Carter." he said. 'I am going to give you something to make you sleep better."

"My head aches so!" the patient complained. "It is all because of the western college men and at 4:30 o'clock.

complained. "It is all because of the trouble about Patty!"

The physician glanced inquiringly at the attendant. She answered his questioning look.

"Mrs. Hollingshead has been having painful dreams about her daughter, she explained aloud. "They have disturbed her rest frequently lonight."

"I want Patty to come in here now," the mother insisted. "I know you say that she came in here a while ago. But I want to speak to her sgain now." became members of the Hoquiam Rod and Gun club. The men are: Dr. H. C. I want to speak to her again now." and Gun club. The men are: Dr. H. C.
The husband turned away, his hands clenched. The physician spoke firmly. field.

(Copyright, 1922, by International Feature Service, Inc.)

SURE IS

DEAN SHAME

THAT'S THE WAY TO TALK TO THEM STYLE OF WAITERS - THEY GOT RESPECT FOR

ABIE THE AGENT

WELL, WHAT'LL A COUPLE YU' HAVE ?? OF BOILED EGGS = AND A FEW KIND WORDS!

WOTTA

PITY

WHY

WHAT

A ATY

I'D LIKE TO PETRONIZE

BUT I CAN'T STEND

HIS TOUGH WAITERS

SIGMUND'S RESTAURANT

GOOD MORNING

GOOD MORNING

1600D

MISS! HENN

HRAZY -

"IGNATZ"