

NO EXCITEMENT ATTENDS DEFEAT OF M'CUMBER

By David Lawrence

(Copyright, 1922, by The Journal)

Washington, June 30.—The administration doesn't know whether to be sorry or glad over the outcome of the Republican primaries in North Dakota, wherein Senator McCumber, chairman of the finance committee of the senate, leader of the fight for the bonus, and one of the general managers of the farm bloc movement, appears to have been beaten by Lynn Frazier, former governor and radical, chairman of the Nonpartisan league.

The question is impersonal, for Mr. McCumber himself is well liked. His political equation, however, excites no great enthusiasm at the executive end of Pennsylvania, avenue, for Mr. McCumber has showed the bonus bill forward and otherwise put a crimp in administration plans in the senate. It was with considerable trepidation that the announcement of Mr. McCumber's elevation to the chairmanship of the all-powerful senate finance committee was received after Mr. Penrose's death.

REED SMOOT FAVORITE

It is known, for instance, that Mr. McCumber wanted to elect Reed Smoot tariff and give the bonus bill right of way. In many ways he has been useful to the Republican administration, but the favorite for chairman was Reed Smoot of Utah, who will succeed Mr. McCumber, because he is next in length of service and takes the chairmanship automatically after March 4 next on the rule of seniority.

Naturally the administration will not say much about Mr. McCumber's downfall. He is to be chairman of the senate finance committee for the remainder of this session of congress, and the whole of the short session from December to March. Besides, it is not customary for the administration of Mr. Harding to make comments on primary elections—the president himself has warned the press that he is not participating in primary contests, or saying anything about their results.

BELONGS TO OLD SCHOOL

While the elevation of Reed Smoot will mean the return to the helm of a party man of the old school, a tried and faithful servant of Republican doctrine and an intimate friend of Mr. Harding, the defeat of Mr. McCumber has aspects entirely apart from the effect on the senate committee chairmanships. Progressives who have insisted that the swing was in their direction as opposed to ultra-conservatism, machine politics and standpatism naturally hail the result in North Dakota as a revolt against the existing regime and as a sign of the political evolution inside the Republican party which gave Pinchot a victory in Pennsylvania, Beveridge in Indiana and Brookhart his success in Iowa.

Curiously enough the dissatisfaction which now and then has cropped out over Mr. McCumber's activity either on behalf of things agricultural or the bonus, which was called "radicalism" here in Washington, was characterized as "conservative" in North Dakota. The Nonpartisan league did not support Mr. McCumber, but gave Frazier its vote. In Washington Mr. McCumber was too radical, in North Dakota he wasn't radical enough.

BONUS OPPONENTS GLAD

As for the bonus issue, it is inevitable that opponents will derive comfort out of the defeat of one of its chief champions, but there is little evidence here, at any rate, to show that the result would have been different even if Mr. McCumber had opposed the bonus.

Mr. McCumber's experience in politics has been unique. He was one of the few Republicans who stood out for the League of Nations till the end. The question of foreign policy was hardly a factor in the present campaign. It was entirely a matter of North Dakota interpretation of domestic issues. As in Iowa so in North Dakota, agricultural conditions have been a source of political danger to the man in office. Mr. Frazier has been in North Dakota almost constantly. Mr. McCumber has been busy in Washington. The man back home won again.

HELD RADICAL AT CAPITAL

AND CONSERVATIVE AT HOME

Washington, June 30.—From the standpoint of senate organization, McCumber's defeat would automatically result in Senator Smoot's becoming chairman of the powerful senate finance committee, with Senator La Follette next in line—a situation that Republican leaders do not relish. In the second place, Senator Borah, usually opposed to the administration's foreign policies, would succeed McCumber as ranking member of the foreign relations committee, succeeding to the chairmanship if Senator Lodge, now chairman, were defeated for reelection this fall. This is another situation that Republican leaders contemplate with great misgivings.

WHY HE WAS BEATEN

The basic cause of McCumber's defeat, if it proves that Frazier won the primary, are variously given as the spathy of the city vote, the inaction of congress, the fact that he voted for seating Senator Newberry and the fact that farmers are disappointed at the failure of the farm bloc, which endorsed McCumber, to enact laws that would help them in marketing their crops this year.

Former Congressman J. M. Baer, North Dakota, a Non-Partisan Leaguer, in commenting on McCumber's threatened defeat, Thursday, said:

"Primarily, the farmers are responsible for Frazier's great show-down. The farmers have become increasingly progressive, and they see in McCumber a glaring example of complete reaction. Members of the farm bloc endorsed McCumber as opposed to Frazier. But the farmers don't care about farm bloc endorsements. They are concerned primarily in what is accomplished by the farm bloc in the way of legislation.

WARNINGS FROM FARMS

"Because they realize that congress has not passed any measures that will have a practical effect on this year's crop the farmers, through their vote for Frazier, have sent a warning down to Washington that they want results, not mere promises or assurances. The vote for Frazier is a pointed danger signal to the farm bloc."

Leaders explained that there obviously has been great activity by the Non-Partisan League in organizing and getting out the farm vote in North Dakota. This vote, which was dormant last summer when the league was badly defeated in North Dakota, has been stirred up.

The inaction of congress, mainly," said Baer, "and the seating of Newberry also was a factor in that the farmers saw in that act a distinct sign of reaction. It is a fact, however, that the farmers now begin to realize his condition all over the country. He does not care a rap for farm bloc endorsements and will be contented with nothing save enactment of formulas that will aid him."

Bucketshop Men Are Indicted on Larceny Charges

New York, June 30.—(U. P.)—Indictments on seven charges of grand larceny in the first and second degree and nine charges of bucketing were returned against E. D. Dier and Henry J. Lawrence, former partners of E. D. Dier & Co., by the supreme court grand jury today.

Benjamin F. Shrimpton, foreign manager of the Dier concern, and Adam Recklin were indicted on nine charges of bucketing.

Bench warrants were immediately issued for the arrest of the indicted men, whose attorneys were instructed to produce them in court this afternoon for the purpose of fixing bail.

IDAHO MAN COMING

Baker, June 30.—James Thompson, member of the Idaho public utilities commission, will officially represent the state of Idaho at the Old Oregon Trail and Pioneer pageant here July 2 and 4.

WANTS HIS RING BACK

Salem, June 30.—Suit for the recovery of a $165 diamond ring from Alta Meyers, late of Portland, but now of Stanton, has been filed here by Alfred L. McCartney, Portland mill worker. The ring, McCartney complains, was given to Miss Meyers as his prospective bride.

JOBS SEEK TAKERS

La Grande, June 30.—Jobs are plentiful, but men are scarce in La Grande. More than 40 jobs of various kinds went begging all day yesterday at the city free employment office, including lumber camp work, road work, haying, water and irrigation work.

EXPRESS THEFT CHARGED

La Grande, June 30.—Dick Carr, alleged to have robbed an express office in Watertown, S. D., two years ago, was arrested.

IT'S THE "SHOE HOME" OF THOUSANDS

Think of it! I've met customers here—many of them—who have bought Shoes of the firm since it first started in business 40 years ago! That's satisfaction, if the word means anything! Just people, REAL people; plain, solid folks, the kind who compose the backbone of America, come in here to trade. And there are lots of them—I want to tell you LOTS of them. Come in, shake hands with proprietors and salesmen alike; glad to see each other living; human confidence, human interest in each other. No "high-brow" stuff here!
