

CITY WILL PUSH WORK ON HIGH SCHOOL STREET

As the result of a plea made before the city council today by W. F. Woodward and George P. Eames, members of the school board, and Clerk R. H. Thomas that action be rushed so that paved street across may be provided for the new Roosevelt high school before the winter season sets in, the council has agreed to put on "full speed ahead."

Either Ida or Alma street, whichever has the property of the highest value abutting it, will be improved to give access from Lombard street, and Central avenue, extending in front of the school property, will be paved as soon as the proceedings can be put through. The school district will be assessed for the improvement of Central avenue, but private property will have to bear the cost of the other improvement.

The school representatives also announced that they are taking steps to secure the improvement of East Marston street, so as to give direct access to the Hudson school, and in acquiring additional property for the new unit at the Franklin high school, they are undertaking to secure the extension of 49th avenue from 52d to 82d street southeast, so as to open up a large territory with direct access to the high school.

DOCK COMMISSION ASKS REMOVAL OF STREET TRACKS

The commission of public docks today sent to the city council a request that in connection with the granting of street vacations for the Union terminal, provision be made for immediate removal of tracks in North Front street near Terminal No. 1.

It is pointed out that shipping congestion has become so acute that the commission has found it necessary to purchase the property of the Willamette Iron & Steel Works, to add to its facilities and is constructing a pier 500 feet long, which will be completed before the end of this month. The great increase in shipping, due to the cut in freight rates by inter-coastal lines, says the communication, makes it imperative that the new pier be placed in operation at the earliest possible date, and the track removal is urgent. It is stated that the attorneys of the railroads have agreed to this.

CITY GIVES NOTICE OF COMPLETED IMPROVEMENTS

Property owners within the respective assessment districts on four pieces of public work were notified officially today that these improvements have been completed and the city council will consider their acceptance at its session on July 12. They include:

Construction of the sewer in East 21st street, from The Alameda to Fremont street, by the Jacobsen-Jensen company; improvement of Carlton avenue from the east line of Eastmoreland to East 29th street, by A. Lyons; improvement of 75th street southeast, from 50th to 47th avenues southeast, by M. Hansen & Co.; improvement of East Broadway, from Sandy boulevard to East 45th street and of East 42nd street from Broadway to Sandy boulevard, by C. G. Randles.

Property Owners Warned to Clear Out Poison Oak

Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, states that constant complaints are being received of cases of suffering from poison oak, and advises that lot owners having this noxious growth on their properties are liable to arrest unless it is cleared away.

The clearing of poison oak is to be included in the weed-clearing campaign, the machinery for which is just being put into operation for this season. In cases where the property owners fail to comply with the clean-up order within the specified time, the city will do the work and the charge will become a lien on the property.

Seaplane Forced On Island When Gas Supply Fails

Aberdeen, Wash., July 5.—The M-177, the Pacific Airway company's flying boat, with Pilot E. C. Eckman and three companions aboard, arrived Tuesday morning after spending last night on Destruction Island. The M-177 was forced down on account of a shortage of gasoline.

Coast guard cutters left from Westport and Seattle in search of the M-177 but were called back by radio upon the arrival of the plane. What was considered a sufficient supply of gasoline was taken before leaving Seattle, but a 45 mile an hour wind was encountered in the straits of Juan de Fuca which, according to Pilot Eckman, caused the M-177 practically to double her gasoline consumption.

After spending Monday night in a hay loft and securing a supply of gasoline from a lighthouse crew Tuesday, the M-177 took off from Destruction Island at 2:30 o'clock and arrived at Aberdeen at 10:15 o'clock. The M-177 will remain in Aberdeen until July 6.

Man Dives Out of Boat and Drowns Near Oregon City

Oregon City, July 5.—Roger Spicer, 36, was drowned in the Willamette river at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The accident happened just across from Cedar Island, opposite Jennings Lodge.

Spicer, with Portland friends, was in a boat and dived from the craft for a swim. The body was recovered almost immediately and Dr. Edward McLean was called. All efforts at resuscitation were futile.

Spicer's home was in Selah, Wash., where his mother resides. He was unmarried and had been working for a garage in Portland.

The body was taken in charge by Coroner O. A. Pace and sent to a Portland undertaking establishment.

Grange Petitions For Graduated Tax Ready for Filing

Signatures of more than 14,000 accredited persons have been obtained on the petitions being circulated to get the Grange graduated income tax on the ballot this fall, according to announcement today of C. E. Spence, master of the state grange, who said he would take the petitions to Salem Thursday for filing.

The proposed measure differs from the other measure being agitated in that it provides for a graduated tax on income from the income tax law, whereas the other is a constitutional amendment.

Spence said the measure provides that the income tax on the income tax law, but a redistribution of the tax burden which would reduce the taxes now borne exclusively by the property in the state.

Spencer Explains Union Pacific's Position to Club

Arthur C. Spencer, general attorney of the Union Pacific, presented that railroad's case in the Central Pacific controversy before the Portland club at the Benson hotel this afternoon.

It is not a question of building a railroad across Central Oregon, but a railroad from the east to connect with the heavy tonnage of Western Oregon, he declared. If the Union Pacific or any other line is to provide railroad service from Ontario westward, it will be through the sustaining revenue obtained by traversing the Natron cut-off into Eugene.

On the other hand, he averred, if the Southern Pacific should be allowed to hold the Central Pacific against the U. S. supreme court's un-merger decision, if it should complete the Natron cut-off and should build north from Susanville, the only effect will be to haul away from Oregon, through California and Nevada, the tonnage of Oregon.

Spencer pooh-poohed the idea that if the summer of the Central and Southern Pacific actually occurs, the latter company will sell its lines in Oregon, but no more timber here and do no more business in this state.

"If the people of Oregon will use their intelligence," he averred, "they will not be stampeded into that position and they will be governed by the facts. This matter should be settled right and it will not be settled until it is settled right."

German Ambassador May Be Elevated

Washington, July 5.—(L. N. S.)—Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, the German ambassador, will leave for Germany on July 11, it was stated at the embassy today. The rumor persists that Dr. Wiedfeldt is to be offered the post of foreign minister in the German cabinet, succeeding the late Dr. Walter Dietrich, who was assassinated recently.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME

Fire which started this morning from sparks and cinders caused $1500 damage to the home of Mrs. M. R. McPaul, No. 120 East 12th street, and $50 damage to the roof of a neighboring house at No. 546 East Alder street, belonging to Mrs. E. J. West. According to Lieutenant Cooper of the fire marshal's office, the fire resulted from the burning of a large quantity of trash and papers in the furnace of Mrs. McPaul's home. The loss was covered by insurance.

EVENTS IN BERLIN MAY SWAY ALLIES

By David Lawrence (Copyright, 1932, by The Journal)

Washington, July 5.—Germany's internal troubles are reflected in the numerous attacks by agents of the former Kaiser's party on statements and publications of the Republican regime which have a decided effect on allied policies. This is already apparent in official quarters here where European events are usually watched with interest.

Until the assassination of Rathenau, the question of reparations had been looked on as largely an economic problem with a differing viewpoint among the allies as to the wisdom, from an economic viewpoint, of compelling Germany to pay reparations which would hamper her growth. The danger now of maintaining an extreme viewpoint on reparations such as would quench the Republican movement by crushing the opportunities to consolidate international factions is not under-estimated. In fact, there are many here who believe that the monarchists are trying to take advantage of the desperate condition into which Germany has been driven and to bring the German republic by old-time tactics.

CONSTANT ATTACKS

Constant political attacks on the Weimar cabinet for its willingness to reach an understanding with the monarchists have been slowly weakening the Republican group. As usual, with extreme factionalism, the monarchists have not been satisfied with political warfare, but have begun a reign of "Schrecklichkeit." Maximilian Harden is the latest of the monarchist band, has fearlessly exposed the extent of their connection with the world of crime which was the world of restricted submarine warfare. Mr. Harden is fortunately recovering from the wounds of the world-wide assassination of Rathenau which will prove a boomerang to the monarchists.

The general opinion here is that the allied and associated powers who have been divided in their councils as to the best policy to pursue toward Germany, are today in a state of confusion and a unified front. There seems to be no question but that the staff of the United States army and navy who have been verging since the war on a policy of moderation and tolerance of the infant republic while it struggled for self-protection will favor today with the other allies than ever before.

FEAR RADICAL WAVE

The gravity of the situation and especially the possible disintegration of the international government structure if moral support from the allies is not forthcoming, is discussed in responsible quarters here. The fear is that, if the allies by their inaction, stand aloof while Germany is in travail the monarchists by their extreme tactics will not themselves regain power, but will give the moderate party now in control, which will mean a wave of radicalism, the rise of the communists and the possible repudiation of the process of Kerensky into the army of Lenin and Trotsky. Pressed on the one side by a reactionary group and tormented on the other by the communists, the Weimar cabinet is regarded by the allies as sincere in its efforts to pay reparations and work out a program of reconstruction. The French, however, have maintained their large standing army and have opposed concession to the present German government on the ground that turning behind the Weimar cabinet was the inevitable return of the monarchists.

It is an opinion that blows no good, for the demonstration in Berlin yesterday, in fact ever since the Rathenau assassination, has furnished unmistakable evidence that there is a political trend in Germany which will not be toward the monarchists of the right, but toward the direction of the radicals and communists of the left.

EVENTS MORE CRITICAL

Since the failure of the recent conference of the international bankers at Paris, where it had been hoped that Germany would be assured of a loan, so that she could pay her debts and begin to work out her destiny in an orderly fashion, events in Germany have grown steadily more critical and while it is strictly speaking an internal problem which the German must themselves solve, it is doubtful whether the allies and associated powers will stand by without offering some affirmative help which will strengthen

REBELS IN DUBLIN SURRENDER THEIR LAST STRONGHOLD

Dublin, July 5.—(U. P.)—The Irish rebels surrendered their last stronghold to the Free State troops at 6 o'clock this evening. Only six insurgents were in the Sackville street fortress when they put up the white flag, thus ending civil war that started in Dublin a week ago.

Eamonn De Valera, former president of the "Irish republic," was not with the rebels when the surrender came. His whereabouts were not known. General Brugha, commanding the small detachment of rebels, refused to surrender when the loyal troops rushed forward.

He was fired on and wounded before he submitted.

IRISH MOUNTAIN GIRLS JOIN BANDITS IN RAID

Kingstown, Ireland, July 5.—(U. P.)—Armed gangs of bandits and insurgents, including Irish mountain girls carrying revolvers and blackjacks, were rounded up and captured in the hills of County Wicklow today by Free State troops.

The bands had been invading villages in the valleys, descending from the mountains in swift night raids. Millinery shops were especially singled out for looting by the women bandits.

Government troops, called upon by villagers for aid, rushed in lorries to the robbers' stronghold in the hills and brought back 30 prisoners.

CLAIM CAPTURE OF 500

Dublin, July 5.—(L. N. S.)—Irish Free State troops have captured 500 Republican irregulars, General Daley of the national army told International News Service today. He added: "Only a few dozen irregulars are still holding out. I do not believe that Eamonn de Valera has escaped."
