

BROADCASTERS TO EXCHANGE HOURS

An excellent vocal program will be broadcast by the Willard P. Hawley Jr. station tonight, beginning at 9 o'clock. The artists will be Miss Lore Thayer and M. F. Neymeier and they will present a series of semi-classical selections under the auspices of W. A. McDougall. The program in full will be found on the Town Topics page of this issue.

Announcement was made today that the Hallock & Watson radio service, which broadcasts The Journal news bulletin, and Hawley, have effected an exchange of hours Saturday night. Hereafter Hawley will start all three of his programs at 9 o'clock. Beginning this coming Saturday the Hallock & Watson question and answer hour will begin at 8 o'clock, immediately on the conclusion of the broadcast of The Journal night news report. The exchange is to release Hallock & Watson from the necessity of waiting for an hour to elapse between finishing The Journal report and the beginning of the question hour.

M. A. Millard Visits Portland for First Time in 22 Years

M. A. Millard is in Portland for the first time in 22 years. He went from here to Los Angeles and has been here ever since.

"But next year I expect to come back to my old home town," he said. The Journal today. "I've had enough of the South. I'm coming back here to hunt."

Millard is 56. He was a famous hunter and fisherman. He and J. R. (Joe) Bowles were indefatigable and inseparable hunters in the old days. They once bagged 12 dozen coon backs in one day on Sullivan's lake. Millard's father, Marshall A. Millard, was one of the partners in the old Corbett-Killing store at Front and Oak streets. Millard is a cousin of County Commissioner Ralph Hoyt and of Mrs. Hannah Robinson. He is a contractor in Los Angeles and has done well there.

Invalid Rescued by Husband May Die

Goldendale, Wash., July 12.—Mrs. Gus Ellis, 56, an invalid, was probably fatally burned about her head and body yesterday, when fire destroyed the Ellis farm home in the Pleasant valley section, 15 miles east of Goldendale. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis were awakened by flames in the lower floor of the house and escaped from the second floor through a window with difficulty. Ellis was also painfully burned.

Palestine Lodge of A. F. & A. M. to Build $35,000 Structure

Construction work will begin immediately on the erection of a new temple for Palestine lodge No. 141, A. F. & A. M., at the southeast corner of 44th avenue and 64th street southeast. The building will be of brick and concrete construction, two stories in height, 60 by 30 feet in ground dimensions, and cost is estimated at $35,000. Plans prepared by Orlo R. W. And elected officers: Stanley Myers, Multnomah county district attorney, was elected permanent chairman of the delegation; Earl R. Goodwin, secretary, and James R. Bain, sergeant at arms. John R. Beckwith, Wilber Henderson and Arthur A. Murphy were appointed on a committee to prepare resolutions for presentation at the convention, while Frank M. Moore, Barge Leonard and Claude M. Bristol were selected to see to it that Portland post was well represented in the parade at The Dalles.

Bible Conference Is Opened; Rules on Reading Book Given

Dr. W. B. Ellis of Minneapolis and Dr. J. W. Lawrence of Dallas, Texas, began a four-day Bible conference at the White temple this afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be meetings every afternoon at 3 and every morning at 8, with the exception of Saturday. Dr. Riley's rules for mastering the Bible are: Read the whole book, not just a chapter; read it consecutively; read it independently, leaving commentaries alone; read it prayerfully, believing in the Holy Spirit's authorship. "Our appetites learn to like the things on which they are fed," said Dr. Riley, "and students of the Book cannot help but love it." Tonight Dr. Riley will speak on "Whose Son Was Christ?"

MOF STARTS $200 FIRE Spontaneous combustion of an old oil mop in the pantry of the home of B. J. Swanson, No. 1028 Harrison street, caused a fire that did about $200 in damage to the house and furniture shortly before noon today.

Philip R. Dater Is Luncheon Guest of Club at Pomeroy

Pomeroy, Wash., July 12.—Philip R. Dater, district engineer of the forestry at Portland, and Mrs. Dater, were guests of the Commercial club Monday at a luncheon in the Pomeroy hotel. Dater was here to look over the Pomeroy-Grouse creek road, which is being improved under supervision of the forestry service with funds appropriated by the federal bureau of roads.

Following the luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Dater, in company with Ed Malone, John Folsom, and R. D. Williams, members of the board of county commissioners, and W. J. Houser, O. C. Bartlow, and G. W. Jewett, a committee of the Commercial club, made a trip back to Mount Misery to examine the road and improvements which the county board about 40 miles near Pomeroy, and further improvements along the highway within the forest reserve territory.

Oregon Scenic Film Covering Cobb Trip Pleases Ad Club Men

"Hunting the Big Silence" with Irvin S. Cobb, the five-reel film covering a trip through Central Oregon by the noted humorist in search of big game and adventure, was shown last night at the Hellig theatre under the auspices of the Ad club for the purpose of learning "how it will take." And it took well, for a round of applause swept the house after "The End." Through the reels of typical wild scenes from the state, runs a story of the trip in humorous vein, with occasional samples of Cobb's wit and as equally witty remarks of the members of the party, as for instance "Old Bill," bear hunter, and the camp cook who was continually busy because of Cobb's favorite occupation.

Especially interesting, even to Oregonians, are scenes from Odell and Paulina lakes, where the trout bites so fast that Cobb has difficulty to maintain his equilibrium in the boat, and the bear hunt where Brain is cornered in a giant pine by "Old Bill," string of bear hounds till brought down by a shot from Cobb's rifle.

Wild animals and birds are shown and the film is both entertaining and educational. It was produced by the American Lifeograph company of Portland and plans are being made for public presentations by Norman G. Jacobson, A. Hissant and William L. Finley.

Firemen Find Still When Called Out to Extinguish Blaze

Firemen went to find a fire, but they found a distillery beehive. Two stills were confiscated by police at No. 708 Alleghany street after firemen of Engine No. 22 in answer to a fire call, found the apparatus set up and one still in operation. A quantity of moonshine and 14 barrels of mash were also taken. No one could be found on the premises. Witnesses saw two men run from the building a short time before the fire was discovered, police learned.

STANDIFER WILL ACCEPT AWARD

Washington, July 12.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—Gay M. Standifer today notified the shipping board of his acceptance of an award of $248,223 in full settlement of his claims against the board because of canceled ship contracts. This is in addition to $500,000 previously paid and represents a reduction of $1,028,000 below the so-called Benson settlement in May of last year.

Admiral Benson signed an agreement to settle the Standifer claims, which was a maximum of $1,750,000 subject to audit. After this audit was completed, exhaustive hearings were conducted by the shipping board claims commission. It is assumed that the final settlement is in line with the findings of the commission. The original claims aggregated over $1,000,000. The settlement now reached has the approval of Guy M. Standifer, chief counsel of the shipping board. The Standifer claims were perhaps the most important and widely contested of all pending disputes over canceled contracts.

The shipping board received word that the auction of surplus materials held at the St. Johns, Or., warehouse has yielded total receipts of $51,000.

America Should Produce Nursery Stock, Is Claim

America should produce all her own nursery stock, thus eliminating the danger of bringing plant diseases to this country from foreign states, said F. A. Wiggins, president of the Washington Nursery company, Toppens, Wash., speaking Wednesday afternoon before the Pacific Coast Nurserymen's association convention here.

Wiggins recently returned from the convention of the American Association of Nurserymen in Detroit. He praised the laws recently passed to restrict importation of foreign nursery stock. The pear blight was pointed to as an example of foreign plant diseases brought to this country on young stock.

The nurserymen visited the Weed landscape nursery near Beaverton, Wednesday. Lunch was served and a tractor demonstration staged. They then went to the Oregon nursery at Gresham. The convention will close today.

DROWNS IN BAIN BARREL Landis Wyo. July 12.—(L. N. S.) Marjory Millard, 11, met death today by drowning when she fell into a rain barrel at the side of her father's home.

Offensive Bathers To Be Brought to Account by Police

Wearing broad smiles, and little else, male swimmers frequenting beaches along the Willamette river south of the Hawthorne bridge have been the source of many complaints on the part of women canoeists and others.

As a result the harbor patrol is going to keep a close watch on the bathers, and all who are not properly attired will be liable to arrest, as a city ordinance provides what bathing paraphernalia is to be worn.

The bathers, according to complaints, not only offend by the scant attire, but remarks they make to passing craft is objectionable.

Portland Men Own Oil Lands Leased By Standard Oil

Investigation of alleged oil bearing districts in Alaska, now being made by the Westward Development company of Portland in the interest of the Standard Oil company of California and the General Petroleum company, according to announcement of officials of the local concern, A. S. Kerry, head of the company, closed contracts with the two big producing concerns at Seattle this week, calling for the immediate development of a number of properties held by Portland interests in the Cold Bay district of the Alaskan peninsula, where federal geologists are said to have found indications of oil.

Object in Securing East Side Options Causes Speculation

The purpose of Claude D. Starr in obtaining options for the purchase of several parcels of real estate on East First and East Water streets aroused a deal of speculation today among business men and property owners. Starr refused to comment on the transaction and would neither affirm nor deny rumors to the effect that he was acting as agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway and had secured the ground for terminal purposes.

The fact that Starr had neglected to secure options on a continuous stretch of property along the west side of East First street lends color to the denial of railroad officials that the Milwaukee line is behind the deal. Among the parcels secured by Starr on option are: The 1/2 block on East First street between Washington and Stark, owned by the National Storage & Ice company; 1/2 block owned by the Weinhard Estate, at the northwest corner of East First and Salmon street; 1/2 block at the northwest corner of East First and Belmont, owned by Fred Page, and 40 by 100 feet on East First between Hawthorne and East Madison, owned by M. Porter.

Mother and Two Children Must Be Returned to Italy

To discourage aliens from importing their indigent relatives and then abandoning them for the state to take care of, the immigration service is ordering the deportation of Mrs. Carmella Paci and her two children to Italy, at the expense of the relatives.

The Paci family were brought here last year by relatives in Portland who have since abandoned them. The Paci are now charges of Multnomah county. "We propose to save taxpayers the expense of their upkeep," said inspector R. P. Bonham, "and to discourage such things in the future."
