

COLOMBIA GORGE
COOLIDGE TAKEN ON HIGHWAY RIDE

"The Columbia gorge is as great a wonder as the Yosemite, and Oregon is rich with scenic beauties that should attract to this state thousands of visitors where we have hundreds now," declared C. P. Keyser, superintendent of city parks, as he resumed his duties today morning after a health absence of 30 days, in which he made a 2700-mile trip to national parks and places far-famed for their scenic attractions.

"But Oregon is from 10 to 15 years behind California in the proper exploitation of its scenic beauties," declared Keyser. "A wide campaign of publicity setting forth the attractions we have to offer should be carried on consistently, and we'll get results that will be surprising."

Keyser, accompanied by his family, made the trip by automobile, going south to Grants Pass and then to the Oregon caves, which he believes are certain to become world famous. Thence his route led to Crater Lake and the big redwoods, and then to San Francisco and the bay cities, where he spent three days inspecting Golden Gate Park and the city. Then came the trip to the Big Basin and the groves of Santa Cruz county. Monterey and then the Yosemite valley and Hetch Hetchy, then out through Tioga Pass to Mono lake, Bodie and Reno and Lake Tahoe, proceeding north by way of Pyramid Lake and back to Oregon. From Klamath Falls the Keyser party went to Crater Lake and Diamond Lake, thence over the Willamette highway to Eugene and back to Portland.

Special attention was given by Keyser to the scenic beauties of the intensive trip and he declares that the one in Portland exceeds any he visited. The next best, he says, is at Eureka, Cal., where 50 miles per day is charged, and an indefinite stay is allowed. The general charge is 50 cents per day, although there are some free camps, says Keyser.

Vice President Views Highway Splendors

Vice-President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and their sons and traveling companions devoted the day to viewing the glories of the Columbia river highway. Before leaving the hotel this morning, the vice-president obliged little Miss Virginia Pleasant with his autograph as shown below.

COOLIDGE TAKEN ON HIGHWAY RIDE

(Continued From Page One.)

scenic beauty and admirable setting as well as with the attractive homes and beautiful public parks. The Coolidge boys were intensely interested in the water, the river and the boats, the big reservoirs and fountains in the parks. The vice president and Mrs. Coolidge, their two sons and Mr. and Mrs. Stearns accompanied their Portland hosts, Mr. and Mrs. McCamant, to the morning service of the First Presbyterian church, and immediately after the service they stopped for a short time at the McCamant home. Then they returned to the Hotel Portland for lunch. In the dining room they encountered Mr. and Mrs. Cassius R. Peck. Mr. Peck and Mrs. Coolidge are old friends and following lunch she accompanied the Pecks for dinner at the McCamant home in King street.

Oregon delegates to the Republican national convention which Mrs. McCamant nominated Mr. Coolidge for the vice presidency, and Justice Charles McCallister, who will be the guest at the luncheon to be given Tuesday at the Arlington club by Mr. McCamant for the vice president and Mr. Peck for dinner.

The breakfast, which was to have been given by the members of Pi Beta Phi, was postponed because of the illness of a prominent member, has been abandoned on account of lack of time and the illness of the sorority will join in honoring the prominent lady of the land at the luncheon.

On Tuesday afternoon the vice president will break ground for the Roosevelt building at the corner of Broadway and Commercial. From 4 to 6 Mrs. McCamant will entertain with a reception for the ladies of the party. In the evening the vice president will make his only public appearance in Portland, speaking at a public mass meeting at the Auditorium Theatre which will leave Wednesday for Seattle.

HOOR MRS. COOLIDGE

Mrs. Coolidge will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given by the women of the city and state Tuesday afternoon at the Hotel Portland. Mrs. F. O. Northrup will be chairman and Mrs. W. S. Kinney of Astoria will be co-chairman. Mrs. Ida B. Callahan will be in charge of the luncheon. The vocalists for the day will be May O'Neill, Feldman, a dramatic soprano, recently of Chicago, who has come to Portland to make her home.

The breakfast, which was to have been given by the members of Pi Beta Phi, was postponed because of the illness of a prominent member, has been abandoned on account of lack of time and the illness of the sorority will join in honoring the prominent lady of the land at the luncheon.

On Tuesday afternoon the vice president will break ground for the Roosevelt building at the corner of Broadway and Commercial. From 4 to 6 Mrs. McCamant will entertain with a reception for the ladies of the party. In the evening the vice president will make his only public appearance in Portland, speaking at a public mass meeting at the Auditorium Theatre which will leave Wednesday for Seattle.

GROUND BREAKING PROGRAM

The program at 3 o'clock at the ground breaking: Pi Beta Phi... Regimental Band Invocation... Lieutenant Colonel W. S. Gilbert... Captain Calvin Coolidge... Chairman S. C. Pier... Breaking of ground for statue base... Song—America—Led by J. W. Palmer, director of religious and social work... Selection... Regimental Band... Star Spangled Banner... Regimental Band

Opinion Sought on Merging of Dock and Port Boards

Business interests of the city will be given opportunity Tuesday morning to express their opinions in regard to the consolidation of the Port of Portland commission and the commission of Public Docks. The program will be held by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce composed of A. L. Mills, chairman; Ben Selling, W. B. Ayer, J. W. Ganson and Cartrack, has been assigned.

The chamber directors recently requested the foreign trade department to gather opinions on the consolidation of the two commissions. The legislation at its 1921 session with the provision that the port commission acquire the property of the dock commission and that the consolidation be effected before January 1, 1922.

The hearing will begin at 10 o'clock in the Green room of the Chamber and will be open to the public.

TO ASSIST COL. WHITWORTH

Lieutenant Colonel Arthur W. Brantberry, since last September stationed at Vancouver, has been assigned to assist Colonel Whitworth with the 26th division, reserve corps, the headquarters of which are in the new postoffice building. Colonel Brantberry will assist Colonel Whitworth with the 26th division, reserve corps, the headquarters of which are in the new postoffice building. Colonel Brantberry will assist Colonel Whitworth with the 26th division, reserve corps, the headquarters of which are in the new postoffice building.

LEGISLATION
MAYOR BAKER FOR

Establishment of a state institution, along the lines of a hospital rather than a jail, for the treatment of narcotic addicts may be properly treated and cured, was advocated at a meeting of 25 leading social workers held in the Y. C. A. cafeteria this noon.

Representatives of the city, district and city attorney's offices, community chest, municipal court, various health boards, council of churches and various social uplift societies were in attendance.

Dr. F. D. Stricker of the state board of health, Dr. George Parrish of the city health bureau, Miss Martha Randall of the Women's Protective association, Mrs. F. D. Frank of the White Cross league and W. G. MacLaren of the Oregon Prisoners' Aid society were appointed a committee to form a plan for the establishment of such a home and report to a subsequent meeting.

"For a long time we people out on the world without any money, after they have been confined for a year or longer, they will run right back to the old friends and we will have the job to do all over again," he declared.

Miss Randall spoke of the need of a more charitable feeling between the general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals.

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

LEGISLATION
MAYOR BAKER FOR

Establishment of a state institution, along the lines of a hospital rather than a jail, for the treatment of narcotic addicts may be properly treated and cured, was advocated at a meeting of 25 leading social workers held in the Y. C. A. cafeteria this noon.

Representatives of the city, district and city attorney's offices, community chest, municipal court, various health boards, council of churches and various social uplift societies were in attendance.

Dr. F. D. Stricker of the state board of health, Dr. George Parrish of the city health bureau, Miss Martha Randall of the Women's Protective association, Mrs. F. D. Frank of the White Cross league and W. G. MacLaren of the Oregon Prisoners' Aid society were appointed a committee to form a plan for the establishment of such a home and report to a subsequent meeting.

"For a long time we people out on the world without any money, after they have been confined for a year or longer, they will run right back to the old friends and we will have the job to do all over again," he declared.

Miss Randall spoke of the need of a more charitable feeling between the general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals.

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

LEGISLATION
MAYOR BAKER FOR

Establishment of a state institution, along the lines of a hospital rather than a jail, for the treatment of narcotic addicts may be properly treated and cured, was advocated at a meeting of 25 leading social workers held in the Y. C. A. cafeteria this noon.

Representatives of the city, district and city attorney's offices, community chest, municipal court, various health boards, council of churches and various social uplift societies were in attendance.

Dr. F. D. Stricker of the state board of health, Dr. George Parrish of the city health bureau, Miss Martha Randall of the Women's Protective association, Mrs. F. D. Frank of the White Cross league and W. G. MacLaren of the Oregon Prisoners' Aid society were appointed a committee to form a plan for the establishment of such a home and report to a subsequent meeting.

"For a long time we people out on the world without any money, after they have been confined for a year or longer, they will run right back to the old friends and we will have the job to do all over again," he declared.

Miss Randall spoke of the need of a more charitable feeling between the general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals.

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

LEGISLATION
MAYOR BAKER FOR

Establishment of a state institution, along the lines of a hospital rather than a jail, for the treatment of narcotic addicts may be properly treated and cured, was advocated at a meeting of 25 leading social workers held in the Y. C. A. cafeteria this noon.

Representatives of the city, district and city attorney's offices, community chest, municipal court, various health boards, council of churches and various social uplift societies were in attendance.

Dr. F. D. Stricker of the state board of health, Dr. George Parrish of the city health bureau, Miss Martha Randall of the Women's Protective association, Mrs. F. D. Frank of the White Cross league and W. G. MacLaren of the Oregon Prisoners' Aid society were appointed a committee to form a plan for the establishment of such a home and report to a subsequent meeting.

"For a long time we people out on the world without any money, after they have been confined for a year or longer, they will run right back to the old friends and we will have the job to do all over again," he declared.

Miss Randall spoke of the need of a more charitable feeling between the general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals.

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

LEGISLATION
MAYOR BAKER FOR

Establishment of a state institution, along the lines of a hospital rather than a jail, for the treatment of narcotic addicts may be properly treated and cured, was advocated at a meeting of 25 leading social workers held in the Y. C. A. cafeteria this noon.

Representatives of the city, district and city attorney's offices, community chest, municipal court, various health boards, council of churches and various social uplift societies were in attendance.

Dr. F. D. Stricker of the state board of health, Dr. George Parrish of the city health bureau, Miss Martha Randall of the Women's Protective association, Mrs. F. D. Frank of the White Cross league and W. G. MacLaren of the Oregon Prisoners' Aid society were appointed a committee to form a plan for the establishment of such a home and report to a subsequent meeting.

"For a long time we people out on the world without any money, after they have been confined for a year or longer, they will run right back to the old friends and we will have the job to do all over again," he declared.

Miss Randall spoke of the need of a more charitable feeling between the general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals.

"We have many cases today which we simply cannot handle because we have no place to put the women," she said.

Dr. Stricker was very much in sympathy with the movement, and said professionally that he believed many cases could be cured. He suggested that some action be taken looking toward the curtailing of the manufacture of the drug, stating that 10 times the amount of medicine for narcotics is sold in this country alone, outside of the large amount imported.

Superintendent MacLaren said that it might be necessary to force inmates of such an institution to be without visitors during their confinement.

"The general public and the persons addicted to other habits, who needed medical attention and a little restraint, provided the persons were not criminals."