Umatilla Wool Brings Top Price—A 100,000-pound clip of wool grown by the Cunningham Sheep company of Umatilla county brought 45 cents a pound in the Boston market recently, according to word received in Pendleton by the secretary of the company. The price is the highest paid an Oregon grower in the Boston market this year, and was pronounced the best Oregon clip. The company, which in addition to raising wool for the market deals in thoroughbred sheep, anticipates a good market this year for Rambouillets and cross-bred Lincoln. Some 700 have already been sold.

Hood Pear Crop Large—The Hood River valley pear crop, according to latest reports of growers, will be of greater tonnage than anticipated following the failure of the season's record bloom to pollenize. The season's weather conditions have caused the fruit to grow rapidly, and the pears will be of good size. The Bartlett yield will be one of the best ever harvested. Gathering of this variety is now in progress and canners are paying from $40 to $60 a ton.

Corvallis-Eugene Road Paved—When the concrete paving which has been laid on two short stretches of previously unfinished highway south of Corvallis hardens, pavement will reach unbroken from Corvallis to Eugene. Concrete re-enforced with steel has been laid between these two places by Kibler & Bartlett of Portland. At present two short detours are necessary, but in 30 days the highway will be open for travel.

Aimed at Secret Bodies—Because of the activities of certain secret organizations in Oregon, the legislature will be asked at its next session to enact legislation providing that the bylaws and membership of any secret organization, lodge or society shall be filed with the secretary of state. This was announced in a letter received at the state house in Salem last week.

Mail for Governor Lord—There was received at the postoffice in Salem last week a card from the navy department in Washington addressed to W. P. Lord, governor, in care of James Putnam, state librarian. The card requested certain information in connection with the distribution of the "official records of the Union and Confederate navies in the war of the rebellion." As Governor Lord left the executive chair 23 years ago and Putnam was state librarian only during his administration, it is evident that the navy department's mailing list is sadly out of date.

Record Roll Expected—From the number of applications for admittance and inquiries concerning next year's courses, indications point to the largest attendance in Pacific university's history when the doors open September 12 for the 73d year of its career. President Weir states that he thinks the university will have all the students it can handle efficiently.

Bell Buys Yaquina Electric—Seymour Bell of Portland was the successful bidder on the real and personal property of the Yaquina Electric company, which was sold recently at sheriff's sale at the Lincoln county courthouse. Bell's bid was $14,500 for the personal property of the company and $7500 for the real property. He states that considerable improvements will be made in the electric plant in the near future.

Labor Day Plans Laid—Plans for the big Eastern Oregon celebration of Labor day in Pendleton are being laid by a special committee of the Pendleton central labor council. National Officers Of Vets Auxiliary Enjoy Stop in City

National officers of the woman's auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who passed through Portland Sunday afternoon, enjoyed their stop over very much, and made the fact known to their hosts in certain terms. The visiting officials were met at the train by members of the local committee of Veterans of Foreign Wars, headed by Mrs. George L. Williams, Mrs. Winifred Reinig, Mrs. Margaret Reed and Mrs. Mary Kinney. After a drive over the city, the guests were entertained at dinner at the Hotel Portland. They left early in the evening for San Francisco.

Mrs. Kate Hutchison of Oakland, the new national president of the auxiliary, was unable to stop over in Portland, but those who did enjoy the stay were: Mrs. C. A. Raffensberger of Harrisburg, Pa., treasurer; Mrs. George Armstrong of Pittsburg, secretary; Miss Margaret Hall of Pittsburg, color guard; Mrs. Eugene Richards Baltimore, vice president.

TWO DELEGATES ON WAY

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 21.—Democratic delegates to the Idaho state convention at Hailey gathered here Saturday and left in a special sleeper Sunday morning. They will reach Hailey this evening. Republican delegates from Southern Idaho will go to the Wallace convention of that party in a nine-car sleeper special that will arrive in Wallace tonight.

HARRY TREGASKIS, SPORT, GAMBLER, LOSES LAST TOSS

Harry Tregaskis was an adventurer and gambler to the end, and the last time he cast the dice with fate and lost he didn't squeal, his heart just naturally broke. And he went out smiling.

So say those who knew him—men like Seneca Fouts, Manager J. A. Johnson of the Pantages theatre and Judge Henry E. McGinn.

Tregaskis, 49, a miner, prospector, saloonkeeper and hotelkeeper, died of heart trouble Saturday night at 11 o'clock at Oak Grove, where he and Mrs. Marie L. Hubbard had been running a beach resort for the last two years.

A short time back they had trouble with the authorities, and limitations put on them kept the crowds away. Few besides the orchestra came to the Saturday night dance, and Tregaskis, thinking of the free old days, died in that near solitude.

LEADER IN SPORTS

"Harry was a leader in sporting circles in the city," Seneca Fouts said this morning. "He was always taking a chance—winning, then losing. But his hand was always open; and if he had a dollar in his pocket he would divide it with any man who came to him hungry or cold.

"He was 49 years old, born in Pioche, Nev. His father was a wealthy miner and freighter. He joined in the Klondike rush in '98, and was in the northland for years, covering it from the rim of the Polar sea to Sitka, and he made a good stake. Then he returned to the states and later joined in the rush to the Nevada gold fields, where he went broke.

RAN SALOON HERE

"After that he came to Portland, where he was a saloonkeeper and hotel man. He ran the Alton, and when the country went dry he had the hotel and bar of the New Foster. He had been in poor health for several years before his death.

Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Barbara Cornwall, No. 424 Brazee street. The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2:30 from the Holman parlors, with final services at the Portland crematorium.

CITY HALL BRIEFS

City Auditor Funk today notified the property owners within the assessment district for the improvement of Seneca street, from the northerly line of Oak Park addition to Fessenden street that the assessments totaling $5309.50 have been apportioned and the roll is now open for inspection. Any objections must be filed by August 28.

Three hundred and thirty-four quarts of whiskey, gin and brandy, seized in recent raids, were poured into the sewers at Davenport last week by Sheriff Rennie and his deputies.

Widow of Soldier Of Civil War Dies At Cottage Grove

Cottage Grove, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Jennie Garoutte Gross, 76, died Saturday morning, following an operation at Mercy hospital. In 1865 she married John B. Gross, a Civil war soldier at home on a furlough. Of her eight children, four survive — Gus Gross and Harvey A. Gross of Bandon, Fred Gross of Stockton, Cal., and Mrs. Kittie Kime of Cottage Grove. Lelia Stephenson of Arlington, May Hart of Portland and Roy Garoutte, Verne Garoutte, Mark Garoutte, Alex Garoutte and Mrs Jessie Kelley, all of Cottage Grove, are half brothers and sisters. The funeral was held Sunday from the Christian church.

House Ransacked; Burglars Manifest Peculiar Tastes

G. E. Weller, No. 1252 East Broadway, reported to the police Sunday one of those rare house burglaries that differ from the ordinary run of such things. Weller took his family to the beach Friday and returned Sunday afternoon.

His neighbors told him something looked peculiar about the house and he investigated only to find that the place had been ransacked from garret to basement. The pworler or prowlers showed queer taste in picking out goods. Several high priced silk shirts were passed up while old patched clothing appealed to the burglars. An old sewing machine was taken while an almost new electric sewing machine was untouched. One phonograph was stolen while a better one was given the go-by.

On the other hand, a silk dress was stolen as well as some costly lace of rare kind. And so it went throughout the whole performance of the burglars. Great care, though of an odd nature, was apparently taken to pick out just those things which held the most appeal. The police say it is one of the most peculiar burglaries that has been reported for some time.

Entrance was gained by breaking the glass from a rear door, but when the job was finished, doors and windows were left unlocked.

Girl Says Man, 64, Annoyed Her and Causes His Arrest

With the arrest late Sunday night of O. E. Wilson, 64, in Kenilworth park, the police believe they have found one more of the men who have been annoying women and girls about the city to such a great extent recently.

Recently a young girl, whose name was withheld at the request of police officials, placed an advertisement in a local paper for a position. Immediately, according to the police, the girl was called by Wilson who told her he would give her a job. When he could not satisfactorily answer the kind of a job he had for her, she dropped the matter. He continued to call, she said, until he grew to be such an annoyance that she notified the police.

After she called the officials, Wilson called her again and this time she made arrangements to meet him at Kenilworth park. Instead of just meeting the girl, however, Wilson faced Patrolmen Fair and McGrath of the morals squad.

The police state Wilson's system was to answer all the advertisements he saw placed by women wanting positions. On various occasions, the authorities say, he has made insulting remarks to women whom he called in answer to advertisements. On searching Wilson, Patrolman McGrath found scores of telephone numbers with explanatory notes such as "housekeeper," "young," "married woman" and "single."

Burns Suffered From Fall Into Hot Spring Fatal

Klamath Falls, Aug. 21.—As a result of falling into a hot spring known as the Devil's Tea Kettle, on the outskirts of this city Sunday, while attempting to dip out water, Frank Albert, 50, was so badly scalded that he died in a hospital later in the day. Albert had been living near the city garbage dump, where he conducted a salvage business. The nearest water being the hot spring, he had been accustomed to fill a barrel there daily. In doing so this time he slipped from the plank across the spring and plunged into the water, the temperature of which is 197 degrees. His cries attracted W. H. Snow, city band director, who grasped the man's hair and pulled him out, but not before his body was so badly scalded that it was virtually one big blister from head to foot.

Four years ago the body of a sheepherder was found in the Devil's Tea Kettle, and last year during the presence of a circus several people were badly scalded when in the darkness they stepped into the stream running from this spring.

Unidentified Man Died of Starvation, Belief of Coroner

"Probably starved to death," said the coroner this morning, when he looked at the body of a man lying in a little glade in the woods near No. 1710 Macadam street.

No papers or anything for identification could be found on the body or in the pockets of the clothes. The clothes were in fairly good condition, but ill fitting, as though they had grown too large as the man starved.

"I saw him around here about six weeks," broke in S. S. Mohler, No. 1710 Macadam street, who found the body at 7 o'clock this morning and notified police. "He wandered around in the woods, looking hopeless. Once I saw him drinking the dregs from a coffee can left by some campers."

The man had been dead about 10 days, according to the coroner. He was approximately 55 years old. His fate bids fair to be in the pauper's field, in a grave marked only by a white cross.

The case of Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian, against the state of Washington for $25,000, has been thrown out of court by District Judge E. E. Cushman at Tacoma.
