

PLAN TO RESIST INTERVENTION IN TELEPHONE CASE

A verbal complaint delivered to presiding Judge Evans by W. E. Richardson, attorney for Robert Duncan and others who are fighting the present increased telephone rates, caused the court Tuesday afternoon to agree to hold up until Thursday an order of intervention which when regularly entered in court record permits the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company to assume the defense of a suit brought against the public service commission by Duncan and his associates for the purpose of attacking telephone rates.

Richardson was in court when the motion for the order was read and approved, and at that time made no objection, but later came before the judge and claimed the company's motion was trying to put something over on them. Although the order was already signed, Evans announced that he was willing to hear the objections of the plaintiffs, and announced that the order would be held up until a hearing at 9 o'clock Thursday.

The telephone company in its motion asked the right to defend the suit which was brought by four subscribers some time ago against the old public service commission when they granted an increase in rates. The original suit was not heard. An answer filed by the old public service commission was withdrawn at the request of the new public service commission, which virtually meant that the suit would succeed by default unless it was defended by some one. Charging that the present public service commission was not fair to both sides, and was really a tool of the old commission, the subscribers asked the right to defend the suit themselves.

Shortly after the granting of the intervention order, the company filed notice they would ask that the suit be transferred to the federal court.

Postal Clerk Held For Mail Thefts

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 23.—(U. P.)—Carl Bergstrom, 25, postal employe who was arrested here last night on a charge of rifling the mails, was to be given a hearing today before United States Commissioner Thomas W. Hammond. It was reported that Bergstrom's arrest might clear up the loss of several sums of money from the mails here. He was taken into custody today after three decoy letters, all containing money, were found in his locker. It was stated Bergstrom had been in the postal service for about 20 months.

Australian Here to Study Problem on Engineering Basis

Methods of road construction in America are the subject of a thorough study which is being made in various parts of this country by R. B. Bennett, construction engineer for the shire of Otway, Victoria, Australia. He is spending several days in Portland, observing paving projects.

The development of new lands in Victoria and the opening up of new roads are the subjects of his study. We have plenty of work and plenty of room for men who want to work," Bennett said.

Bennett served overseas as lieutenant of engineers in the Second Australian Division, until he was made adjutant of the Fourth Australian flying squadron, and later adjutant of the Australian Flying school.

He is making his trip at his own expense in hope that he may acquire sufficient knowledge to assist in the development and improvement of his country. He will travel to California by automobile in order to make a study of the roads on the coast, and after touring California he plans to go east before returning home.

Want Bridge Bond Issue Put Up at General Election

The major sentiment at Tuesday night's meeting of the bridge committee representing improvement clubs south of Hawthorne avenue was in favor of getting a $1,000,000 bridge bond proposition before the people of Multnomah county at the next general election. Some of the committee members, however, expressed grave doubts as to the advisability of such action, declaring their belief that the voters are in no mood at this time to endorse any bonding proposition.

The plan to create assessment districts on each side of the river to pay for the bridge approaches also was discussed, and some of the speakers said this would be opposed by property owners in South Portland.

Plans for a general campaign to create sentiment for the proposed new bridge are to be further considered at a meeting to be called soon by the chairman, Harry Hall, and the county commissioners will be invited to be present.

Coal Production Is Below Normal

Washington, Aug. 23.—(I. N. S.)—Officials of the labor and interior departments estimated today that coal production in the United States this week would approximate nearly 5,000,000 tons, or about 2,000,000 below normal. The average weekly production during the last weeks of the bituminous strike ranged around 4,000,000 tons.

URGE LOWERING AND EXTENSION OF SEWER OUTFALLS

A five-year program for extending and lowering the outfall sewers to low water mark in the Willamette river, and yearly expenditure of $25,000 on this work will be recommended to the city council by the waterfront committee which met Tuesday afternoon at the city hall. It is felt that this is required before the general permanent improvement of the waterfront is made.

The committee decided to ask the council to include in the budget an appropriation for waterfront work during the ensuing fiscal year, but no definite amount was determined upon.

A general cleanup of the waterfront is to be insisted upon, and the dock commission is to be asked as to its purpose regarding the old buildings and wharves which the waterfront committee condemned more than two years ago, but which were given an extended lease of life by the dock commission. Whether this is to be extended is the question, as the waterfront committee plans an extensive survey of the entire waterfront at low water stage, and its recommendations may be governed to a considerable extent by the action of the dock commission in this matter.

It was decided to urge the harbor master to use his jurisdiction to prevent the mooring of houseboats, etc., adjacent to the bridges and to report to the committee if he finds he has not sufficient authority.

The dock commission, city council and city engineer are to be notified that the committee considers the old Taylor street dock site in hazardous condition and it should be remedied. The report showed that in wrecking the old dock the front row of piling was allowed to remain, the site is covered with rubbish and the sidewalks are in dangerous condition. Agents of the property have been notified.

The committee went on record as opposing a permit to cut curbs on bridge approaches to make driveways to private property, holding that this was an obstruction to traffic. The city attorney will be asked as to where jurisdiction lies for sidewalk areas in such cases—whether in the city or county.

French Mayor on European Tour to Fight Prohibition

Paris, Aug. 23.—French wine growers are becoming alarmed lest Sweden and other Scandinavian countries go dry. They are so alarmed, in fact, that Mayor Gerard of Dijon has undertaken an anti-prohibition campaign all over Europe.

The honorable mayor has just finished preaching of the glories of good old burgundy in Switzerland, Belgium and Holland. He is now in Sweden and from there will proceed to Norway and Denmark.

"I am not paid by any organization to make this tour," the mayor declares in his talks, according to word coming from the dock site. He would like to come merely as the mayor of a burgundy city to seek to prove that prohibition is a psychological error, defeating its own aims."

Fire at Signboard; Painters Make Run

Because two men wanted to make a bulls-eye on a signboard on the Vancouver fill road Tuesday afternoon, two others were forced to do some fast work to avoid being shot. Charles Miller and D. Questberry, employes of the sign company owning the board, were painting the board when two men drove up beside the road in a coupe. They began firing and the sign painters began to jump. Out of half dozen shots fired, only one struck the board. It appeared the would-be marksmen were under the influence of liquor.

On a charge of impersonating a federal agent and extorting $120 from Mrs. Una Paris, who runs a lodging house at 251 1/2 Stark street, John T. Sullivan was bound over Tuesday to the grand jury by Kenneth Fraser, U. S. commissioner. Sullivan is charged with having entered the house with a companion on July 23, and to have taken $100 for a promise of "protection" and with having returned the next night and secured an additional $20. The third night the men returned, according to the woman, and when refused more money, held her up with a pistol and took $200, a diamond ring and a watch.

Foreign Office at Peking Keeps Eye on Bolshevik Agent

(Special Correspondence of The Journal and Chicago Daily News) (Copyright, 1922)

Peking, Aug. 23.—The foreign office is taking notice of the activities of A. Joffe, the Bolshevik emissary to Peking. Assisted by a large staff, supplied with plenty of funds and living regally, he is concentrating his propaganda energies on work among the Chinese students. This is considered dangerous at the present time because of the fiery nature of the radical students, many of whom are converts to communism, and because of the precarious condition of the Peking government.

Thus far Joffe's propaganda speeches have centered upon extolling revolutionary methods and in praising the free thinkers among the Chinese students.

FOUR BIG STILLS SEIZED; TWO MEN HELD BY POLICE

Two liquor raids staged Tuesday by prohibition agents working under the direction of Dr. J. A. Linville, resulted in the capture of four huge stills with intricate devices for the manufacture of moonshine whiskey, a large quantity of mash and various ingredients, and the arrest of Ernest Johnson, 1551 East Burnside street, and C. C. Franchell, 614 Woodward avenue.

The stills and equipment are said to be the most complete and scientific ever discovered by prohibition officers, and the surroundings the most cleanly. The moonshiners, themselves, openly boasted of the quality of their output.

TWO STILLS FOUND

The Johnson distillery was operated in the house where Andrew Weir recently murdered his mother. It was on the second floor. Linoleum covered the floor, the two stills, with 50 gallon capacity each, were mounted on brick furnaces with an intricate plumbing system connecting them with the cooling tank. There was a barrel of charcoal for filtering purposes attached to the stills. Both stills were constructed of copper and were said to be very clean. Officers found 400 gallons of mash, a large supply of cornmeal, 40 gallons of finished moonshine, coloring matter, a special kind of sugar used by distillers, two pressure tanks for supplying gas to the furnaces under the stills, and a supply of charcoal.

OUTFIT COST $400

Johnson told officers that his apparatus had cost him $500 and that he had been operating three weeks. He boasted that he could make better liquor than any other moonshiner in Oregon.

Franchell's establishment, while not so large, was complete in nearly every detail. A special feature was a sacrometer, a scientific instrument for indicating the time when the mash is ready for distillation. Two stills with 30 and 25 gallon capacity, 150 gallons of mash and a small supply of moonshine were found. Franchell claimed his moonshine was the best in the state.

The sacrometer was the first ever found in Oregon, and is used only by experienced distillers.

Both Johnson and Franchell were placed in jail, pending their preliminary hearings.

Gypsy Is Fined $25; Policeman Testifies

Ruby Nicholas, gypsy, charged with palm reading, was fined $25 in municipal court Tuesday on the testimony of a policeman that she gave him a reading. According to the police, the gypsy devised a scheme for avoiding the city ordinance that had not heretofore come to the attention of the officers. The patrolman, who arrested the woman, said a large sign was posted in her room at No. 244 1/2 Washington street reading "American Gypsy church readings." After the reading the gypsy offered a slip of paper stating that the customer had donated his fee to the "gypsy church," the policeman said.

Agrees to Divorce Her Husband; Hopes To Win Him Back

Santa Rosa, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Muriel R. Shaw today sorrowfully left the pruned ranch south of this city, where she and her husband, Earl B. Shaw, son of former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, had been residing for the last two years, and went to San Francisco alone.

This followed her signing of a document today that she would not contest her husband's suit for divorce. She stated she intended taking up her residence in San Francisco and after her husband has secured his decree of divorce she hopes to be able to win back his affection before the year ends, when the decree can be made final.

"I certainly do not intend being treated as I have been and I am quite certain that if my husband had not been influenced by his father and mother, who seem to have taken a violent dislike to me, that this trouble would not have occurred," said Mrs. Shaw.

Mob Attacks Jews in Upper Silesia; Many Beaten Up

Berlin, Aug. 23.—Serious excesses against Jews have been taking place in Katowice, in the Polish part of Upper Silesia, since Monday afternoon, as the result of heavy increases in the cost of food. Following a demonstration against the exorbitant prices, a mob of several hundred persons invaded the Jewish quarters and stormed numerous shops, beating up the owners and customers and throwing them all into the streets.

At night the mob raided saloons and cafes, maltreating all the Jews found. The police finally dispersed the rioters, but outbreaks in various parts of Katowice still continue.

A GREAT Glasses and Education

Many children have eyes that are weak, nearsighted, farsighted, or have other defects. If they go to school too young for the tender structure of their eyes, they go into the kindergarten at from four to six years, and there do work which is ocularly very trying. There are plenty of kindergarten exercises and games that are not hard on the eyes, but the kindergarten teachers seem to prefer to give a lot of exercises requiring close ocular attention. In all the classes there is too much work for the eyes. One reason is that classes are large. The model method is small classes, but the expense generally prohibits this.

It is claimed that at least 20 per cent of the children who attend school need glasses to work to the advantage of their eyes. A very few of the extreme cases wear glasses. One result is that the children who need glasses do not wear them and are likely to be backward in their studies. Furthermore, the children with good eyes are held back unduly. Probably 50 per cent of the headaches of school children, which are far from uncommon, are the result of eye-strain caused by unsuitable efforts required in school work.
