*No market.

An advertising campaign in which the food value of eggs will be emphasized, was considered by the Oregon Egg Dealers' association, assembled in regular session Friday afternoon. The association considered spending $3000. The organization felt that such a campaign had become necessary, as egg production in this state had increased beyond consumption. In the advertising campaign the dealers will show that eggs are one of the cleanest products delivered to the door of the consumer, because they are encased in a dirtproof shell.

The association also accepted the resignation of E. J. Dixon as president. Dixon resigned because of the acceptance of the position of general manager of the Pacific Cooperative Poultry Producers. A. W. Ellis of the Sinclair Provision company was elected to fill the vacancy and J. W. Savinar was named vice president.

Local egg market was in good shape Saturday, with buying prices a little firmer. Selling prices, however, remained unchanged, 34c being asked for selects and 32c for current receipts. Buying price on selects was raised to 29@30c, and on mixed colors to 27c.

Butter market tone is improving, there being a fairly good demand for fancy cubes. Good quality butter is getting scarce again. A smaller amount of off-score butter is arriving since the weather cooled off.

Persons desiring information regarding any market should write the Market Editor, Oregon Journal, inclosing stamp for reply.

FRONT STREET CLOSED MONDAY

Wholesale fruit and produce houses along Front street will observe Monday, labor day, as a holiday. All houses will be closed all day.

BAD CANTALOUPES GLUT MART

Bad cantaloupes continue to glut the market. So much of this stuff has been received this year that salesmen are getting weary of it, and will welcome the day when the last crate of this mouldy stuff arrives. Price on stuff that looked good from the outside was around $1 per standard crate, while fruit that showed mould sold from 75c down to nothing. Hundreds of crates have been given away during the past few days to hog men for feed, and hundreds more too far gone for feed have been hauled to the incinerator. The cantaloupe receipts have been light for the past few days, conditions are expected to improve next week.

PEACH PEAK EXPECTED SOON

Peak of the Yakima Elberta peach crop is expected after the middle of next week. Brokers look for heavy shipments beginning Tuesday, and for the peak of the crop about next Thursday or Friday. Portland market will also see some very cheap peaches this year, as under present quotations before the crop has really started to move, the fruit is selling at 70@80c.

NO DEMAND FOR DRESSED HOGS

Demand for dressed hogs is lacking. Call for fancy veal is good because nothing is arriving. Market has too much poor veal.

LIGHT HENS IN OVERSUPPLY

There are too many light hens on the Portland market at present, and as a result prices are being shaded. Most of these hens are offering 12c, but at the same time are not advising their shippers to send anything this way. One house went out with a 10c price because it did not want anything more of several days. Heavy hens are steady and continue to sell for 22c.

SHIPPERS' WEATHER NOTICE

Weather bureau advised Saturday: Protect shipments during the next 36 hours against the following maximum temperatures: Going north to Seattle, 75 degrees; northeast to Spokane, 85 degrees; east to Baker, 85 degrees; and south to Ashland, 85 degrees. Maximum temperature at Portland tomorrow about 78 degrees.

PORTLAND, OR.

Early next week the housewife should make preparations for canning peaches, as prices will probably be the lowest this year within the next four to 10 days. Peak of the Elberta crop from Yakima is expected about the middle of next week. Peaches will be about 10c a box cheaper this season than last year, as the growers will have to unload all their stock on the Pacific coast markets instead of shipping it East, due to railroad strike conditions. The peach crop is also heavy this year. Many consumers, who anticipate a peach shortage next season are planning on preserving enough of the fruit to last for two years.

Pickling cucumbers and pickling onions are now on the market in liberal supply and should be secured at once.

Next week will also see plenty of tomatoes, and will probably be a good canning week for this product.

Corn prices have dropped to 20c a dozen, so the consumer can afford to buy this vegetable liberally. Mouldy cantaloupes continue to arrive in the city, so great care should be exercised in purchasing this fruit.

Retail prices generally show:

Shortage of Export Demand Is Cause of Chicago Wheat Drop

Chicago, Sept. 2.—The wheat market declined in the late trading owing to the reported lack of export demand, a break of ⅝c in premiums and prospects for liberal receipts here and at all points the next few days. Light offerings and with some short covering put the price up to the best level of the day in the first hour. An estimate of a Western Canadian crop of 372,000,000 issued by the Winnipeg Free Press, was a weakening feature, especially as Winnipeg had 586 cars against 604 cars a year ago. Export demand was reported at a standstill at the seaboard and Montreal reports were discouraging, there being no bids for the third winter. Deliveries were 55,000 and there were sales to store of 25,000 bushels. The close was ⅞ to 1¾c off, with September at 99c, December $1.01@1.01¼ and May $1.06¾@1.06⅞.

In corn the market was steadier than in wheat, but there was profit taking and evening up prior to the holiday. Country sales on the rallies also intensified the pressure. Receipts here were 275 cars and primary receipts were 1,852,000 against 1,131,000 a year ago. Commission houses were buyers on the break. The close was ¼@⅝c off, with September at 59¾c, December 55⅞@55⅝c and May 59¼@59¾c.

September oats were in good demand and there was small offerings, receipts of only 45 cars being a strengthening influence. The Canadian crop was estimated by a Winnipeg authority at 413,000,000 bushels, against 284,000,000 bushels a year ago, this covering only the prairie provinces. The close was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with September at 32¾c, December 34@34⅛c and May 37⅝@37¾c.

In provisions there was free selling, influenced largely by the weakness in hogs. Receipts of the latter were 6500 here, with prices 15@25c lower. Lights declining the most. Lard closed 5@15c higher and ribs nominally unchanged.

North Portland livestock market will be open Monday as usual, in spite of a rumor to the contrary which has been circulated. This announcement was made today by the management.

There was absolutely no demand for hogs, and the 118 head arriving had to be held over until Monday. Market tone was nominal.

WALL STREET STOCK QUOTATIONS

Reported by Overbeck & Cooke Co.

(Wall Street Journal Financial Review)

New York, Sept. 2.—(U. P.)—Although price movements in the two hours of trading on the stock exchange today were characterized by considerable irregularity, the undercurrent of market strength, Mexican Petroleum was under pressure because of the belief in financial circles that speculative expectations of extra dividends at the next board meeting were destined to be disappointed.

But many sections of the market reflected steady accumulation. Motors were particularly buoyant in response to the extraordinary manner in which sales are holding up. Studebaker reached a new high on the present movement while Chandler, General Motors and Overland were in demand.
