

OLD WILLAMETTE'S BEAUTIES TOLD IN QUAIN FASHION

Mrs. Wilkinson's Book of Memories, "The Dingbat of Arcady," Is Charming Volume.

Singing rivers and blue bays the world around yield their beauties and their adventures in pleasure to the poetic word painting that has been bound into "The Dingbat of Arcady," a book of memories that constitute "a most personal record," by Marguerite Wilkinson, vagabond and versifier.

To Oregon folk who have found in the Willamette river only a channel of prosaic commerce, Mrs. Wilkinson's narrative of quaint travels in the MacMillan company, New York, will prove especially interesting. For this noted woman, ranked as one of the best known poets among American women, author of "New Voices" and "Bluestone," launched the little flat-bottomed Dingbat of Arcady on the Willamette and traveled the coast through sunshine and shadow around the world.

"The Dingbat of Arcady" proves Mrs. Wilkinson's claim to a reviewer of small, but sprightly adventures, done in an intimate and personal way among fine people and in fanciful places.

Mrs. Wilkinson had prepared herself for the cruise of the Dingbat by spending the winter in Oregon, where, instead of the schools or colleges, her husband had been teaching in the spring, with text books closed, this couple, who seem to know every line of nature's lore, went to Albany and there in the shadow of a sawmill on the river's bank, where "a noble old Titan" held away with a family of stalwart sons, the Dingbat of Arcady, flat-bottomed and slow, came into being under the ministrations of hammer and nail applied by the voyageurs.

Finally launched into the current, the Dingbat was put into the colorful, whimsical voyage around the world.

POET WHO FOLLOWED WILLAMETTE'S FLOW

Marguerite Wilkinson

The thrill of it all is revealed by this poetic woman when she says: "And so we pass mankind in review on the open road and are reviewed ourselves in each new corner is a sentry who cries out to us to hold that he may learn our untold braveries, our hidden renunciations, our latent graciousness from a personal radiance evident to him, unsuspected by ourselves. That he can find these things in us is a cause for great good cheer. That we can find them also in him is a reason for the glad laughter that rises out of faith."

Crossing Danger Is To Be Investigated

Salem, Sept. 2.—The Oregon Electric crossing near Livesley station, south of Salem, at which Frank Reddig and Edward Arrance were killed Wednesday afternoon, will be investigated by the public service commission at a hearing here Tuesday. The railroad company and the county court have been made parties to the investigation. The crossing, although rated as private, is said to have been used by the public for several years.

Five Attorneys Ask Permits in Oregon

Salem, Sept. 2.—Five attorneys from other states have applications on file with Arthur S. Benson, clerk of the supreme court, for permission to practice law in Oregon. They are C. E. Rusk, Grants Pass, on a Washington certificate; George P. Jones, Roseburg, from Montana; Myer C. Rubin, Portland, from California; Ernest E. Baker of St. Louis, Mo., formerly of California; and Heracle Lay of Yreka, Cal., who seeks the right to cross state line and practice his profession in Oregon.

Nehalem-Wheeler Bridge Job Is Let

Nehalem, Sept. 2.—A contract for the construction of a steel drawbridge across the Nehalem river between Nehalem and Wheeler was let Friday by the county court of Tillamook county to the Portland Bridge company for $76,000. The draw span will be 234 feet in length. This eventually will become a link in the Roosevelt highway.

Astoria Kiwanis to Get Fish, All Right, On Washington Side

Astoria, Or., Sept. 2.—Though the Oregon fishing laws will not permit fish caught during the closed season to be brought into the city or state, it appears that Washington state fishing laws are not so strict.

At least, Ernest Seaborg, Washington state supervisor of fisheries, has advised members of the Kiwanis club of Astoria, which is sponsoring a three-day sport salmon fishing tournament, that their plans need not necessarily be abandoned because of the Oregon law, as those who desire to participate in the tournament can do their fishing, without a license, in salt water over which the state of Washington has jurisdiction, and can ship the fish so caught to their homes, provided the fish is shown to be for the use of an individual or his family.

Three Crossings in Grant County Asked

Salem, Sept. 2.—Application for permission to construct three crossings—two overhead and one grade—over the tracks of the Sumpter Valley railroad in Grant county, was filed with the public service commission here today by the United States department of agriculture, department of public roads. One overhead would be located near Dixie and the other near Prairie City, while the grade crossing is to be located near Austin. An application for permission to construct two industry tracks across a county road near Knudson in Tillamook county, has been filed with the commission by the Hoedet Logging company.

Aberdeen, Wash., Sept. 2.—Following the announcement that Williams line steamers will make regular calls here and will use the port terminal for unloading and taking cargoes, an agent of the North Atlantic & Western Steamship company which operates in the intercoastal trade, stated today that this line will send two ships a month to Grays Harbor. These ships will carry freight to harbor as well as take lumber and other cargoes from the port.

Prosser Celebrates 'State's Day' Gayly

Prosser, Wash., Sept. 2.—The States day celebration held here Tuesday brought to Prosser the largest crowd in the history of the town, more than 5000 attending. Minnesota led with 169, with Missouri and Iowa following close with 163 and 158 respectively. Washington registered 570. The high school lawn and city park were crowded. Senator James P. Fox and Congressman J. W. Summers spoke. Prizes were awarded as follows: Oldest woman registered, Mrs. Caroline E. Smith, born in Pennsylvania. Oldest man registered, Elder J. E. Fitch, born in New York. Oldest native of the state, E. E. Plummer, born in 1825.

BIG CANNERY LEASED
Nehalem, Sept. 2.—The large fish cannery and property of the Elmore Packing company, located at Nehalem, has been leased to William Penter of Cloverdale and will be put in shape for canning this season's catch. The repairs necessary will probably consume two weeks.

ROAD WORK PROGRESSES
Jefferson, Or., Sept. 2.—Work on the Pacific highway is progressing slowly, being confined to scarifying the road-bed and getting ready for concrete. A considerable force is working at the sand and gravel pit across the river getting material ready for the mixer.

Dubois and Noyes Organize $500,000 Logging Company

Salem, Sept. 2.—Capitalized at $500,000, the Bridal Veil Timber company, with headquarters in Portland, filed articles of incorporation with the state corporation department here today. The incorporators are W. E. DuBois, Robert H. Noyes and Robert Treat Platt.

Articles of incorporation for the Bridal Veil Timber company, capitalized at $500,000, were filed Saturday. Incorporators are W. E. DuBois, Robert Warren, Harry Farr, Mrs. N. A. Frost and Richard Holscher.

Astoria Given Two Chances to Save

Astoria, Sept. 2.—Citizens of Astoria are anticipating with enthusiasm the coming of unlimited $1 a week street car passes and a reduction in gas rates, both effective Monday and both put into effect by the Pacific Power & Light company. The streetcar passes are without restrictions, except that but one person may ride on each at a time. The gas rate has been cut 15 cents a thousand to patrons using in excess of 200 foot monthly minimum up to 3000 feet a month.

Vocational Program To Be Finished Soon

Salem, Sept. 2.—Because of the limited funds at the command of the state board for vocational education it will be impossible to meet all requests for the part time and evening classes which have been filed by schools throughout the state, J. A.

State Will Amend Interest Complaint

Salem, Sept. 2.—An amended complaint is to be filed in the suit instituted in the Marion county circuit court to enjoin Secretary of State Kooser from placing the interstate measure on the November ballot. It was learned here today. The amended complaint, it is understood, will charge that none of the notable public who certified to petitions filed with the initiated bill were personally acquainted with any of the alleged electors to whose signatures they certified as those of qualified voters. It will also set out that Secretary of State Kooser had no means of knowing whether the certificates filed with him were true or false.

Vernonia Prepares For Big Celebration

Vernonia, Sept. 2.—Success appears assured for Vernonia's big celebration next Saturday of the completion of the Portland, Astoria & Pacific railroad into the Nehalem valley and entrance in the Oregon lumber field of the Central Coal & Coke company of Kansas City. This company is building at Vernonia one of the largest sawmills of the Northwest. A tree falling contest at Beaver mill, two miles east of Vernonia, baseball, wrestling, band concerts and talks by Mayor Baker of Portland, Judge Cornelius, Senator W. G. Hare, Judges Carey and Omar C. Spencer will form the program here. A special train will come from Portland.

SHOTS HALT FUGITIVE

Aberdeen, Wash., Sept. 2.—While trying to escape in an automobile from officers who held federal warrants for his arrest on charges of transporting liquor, George Wikstrom was captured this morning after a hair-raising chase, during which several shots were fired at him. His wife was in the automobile. Wikstrom was bound over to the United States district court at Tacoma.

A person can whisper into a new telephone transmitter and be heard as plainly as if using his full voice.

Marion Poultrymen Decide to Stand by Cooperation Plans

Salem, Sept. 2.—A meeting of the Marion county local of the Pacific Cooperative Poultry Producers, held here this afternoon to consider steps for dissolution of the association, closed by adopting a resolution assuring the board of directors and management of the association of the readiness of the members to lend their fullest cooperation in making the organization a success.

Kerrigan Files His Nomination Papers

Salem, Sept. 2.—The certificate of nomination granted to T. M. Kerrigan as a candidate for public service commissioner by an assembly held in Portland August 17 was filed with the secretary of state's office here today. The certificate is signed by E. E. Brackley and Amy Harbour, chairman and secretary of the assembly. Kerrigan, who was elected to the commission on the recall ticket, is a candidate to succeed himself, his present term expiring January 1. His slogan reads: "Kerrigan enforces contracts."

SCHOOL COSTS RISE

Clatsop, Wash., Sept. 2.—The school board of consolidated district 100 has completed its budget for next year, with estimated expenses of $18,208 and estimated receipts of $7309. The former is much greater than last year, due to added expense of transportation and school buses, as well as additional cost of instruction.

JAMES G. CHERRY

Dallas, Or., Sept. 2.—James G. Cherry, 67, died suddenly August 26, just five days after he had moved to this city from Vancouver, Wash., where he had resided several years. He was a pioneer of the Luckiamute section of Folk county, but left here 40 years ago, residing for several years at Albany, where he operated an iron foundry.
