

ODGEMEN GREET ASTORIA WITH DIN GOING TO SEASIDE

Astoria, Sept. 8.—With sirens shrieking and automobile horns tooting, approximately 50 automobiles carrying additional delegates from Portland to the Elks' convention at Seaside, passed through Astoria at noon today. Both the Portland and Salem contingents stopped en route for a short time at Clatskanie, where members of the Jackson Hole club, composed of about 40 members of the Astoria lodge of Elks, entertained them. The visitors reciprocated with band concerts. Astoria Elks attending the convention, were saddened by the news received here from Eugene this morning announcing the death in that city at 4 o'clock of E. C. Hughes, a former Astorian, charter member and past exalted ruler of Astoria lodge No. 180, who left here a number of years ago on account of ill health. Mr. Hughes is survived by his wife and a son, Matt Hughes, an attorney.

MANY ARE PRESENT

With George T. Collins of Medford lodge, president, presiding, the annual convention was formally opened in Seaside Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Every one of the 20 Oregon lodges of Elks is represented by a large delegation. Thursday was devoted principally to getting the visitors housed in quarters reserved for them in the hotels and rooming houses at Seaside. Trains and automobiles brought approximately 500 delegates and their ladies to the beach Wednesday night, and additional delegates arrived Thursday.

The usual formal opening exercises, appointment of committees and like activities on the part of the officers and delegates marked the initial business session of the convention. Business sessions will be held each morning from 10 to 12 o'clock and each afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. Street and stores in Seaside are elaborately decorated with the official purple and white, colors of the B. P. O. E., and American flags. Portland lodge of Elks sent a large delegation, including its band, drill team and members of the minstrel show of the lodge, all of whom will help provide entertainment. Albany lodge is numbered among those bringing uniformed marching clubs, while McMinnville and Salem delegates also have their bands with them.

NORBLAD IN RAGE

A great parade is scheduled for tonight. Two dances for Elks and their ladies and minstrel shows by the Portland Elks will be held each night. A ritualistic contest occurred this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with memorial exercises honoring departed members of the order on Saturday morning. Election of officers and selection of the next convention city is slated for Saturday afternoon. The Rev. John B. Dybart of Dubuque, Iowa, grand chaplain of the order, will be one of the distinguished visitors and will speak Saturday, the closing day. Members of various committees were appointed. H. Jamison, McMinnville; Joe Mauck, Portland, and Roger Kay, Pendleton, were appointed on the credentials committee. A. K. McMahon, Albany; C. W. Robinson, Astoria and Ben F. Dorris, Eugene, were named on the committee on constitution and laws.

Second Victim of Typhoid Reported

The second death from typhoid fever in the city this fall was reported Thursday to the city health bureau. G. Paesadore, No. 302 East 11th street, was the second victim and the report said that the fever was contracted at a resort. The first death and the cases now reported at city hall were the result of fever being contracted outside of the city, according to the reports of the bureau.

The Industrial Labor party is connected nationally with the organization known as the Socialist Labor party, and from present indications it will be the only labor organization to appear on the ticket in the Third congressional district, announced F. T. Johns, chairman.

ALLEGED STOOL PIGEON SUSPECT IN MURDER PLOT

Indications that the killing by Philip Warren of Glenn H. Price and Grover C. Todd, federal prohibition agents, last Saturday night at Grand Ronde was premeditated and that J. E. Perry, alleged bootlegger and stool pigeon was an accomplice, have developed in an investigation being conducted by Dr. J. A. Linville, prohibition director, and information furnished by Father Felix Bucher of the Catholic parish of Grand Ronde. Perry is now lodged without bail in jail, pending a complete investigation.

NO WARNING GIVEN

Officers recall that Price left Warren in charge of Perry while he went after the other federal officers who were watching for a truckload of liquor expected to arrive, and that it was from Perry that Warren escaped. They also recall that Perry first saw Warren returning with his gun but did not warn them until he was 30 feet away and had covered them with his rifle. Father Bucher's story, related to Dr.

Linville Thursday afternoon, was that a prominent Indian bootlegger had said that 15 men were armed and out to "get" Price Saturday night, that several parties were lying in ambush and had complete information as to the officer's movements. Bucher told of constant lawlessness and said that his own life had been threatened several times.

ASSISTANCE OFFERED

"I am receiving letters from all over the country offering funds and assistance, both for the widows of the murdered men and for the cleaning up of the situation on the Grand Ronde reservation," said Dr. Linville this morning. "Some of our best investigators have offered their services to go out on this matter."

Among the contributions received by Dr. Linville for Mrs. Price and her three babies the morning were $28 from W. T. Benton and Walter L. Toose Jr. of McMinnville, $10 from the Porto Fruit Products company, $2.50 from J. H. Vandereis of Forest Grove, $1 from George B. Smith of Portland, $10 from W. C. Winks of Portland, $20 from C. O. Bots of Wauna, $5 from John A. Beard of Portland, $5 from Max Friedenthal and $10 from the Johnson Contract company.

Oscar L. Bussell of Milton, Or., sent a check for $10 for Mrs. Price to Mayor Baker. "This check isn't large," said the mayor, "but it will help her a little at a time when she certainly needs it." Tickets are being sold rapidly at the Liberty theatre for the benefit performance to be given at the Peoples theatre on Tuesday night. Various civic clubs are cooperating through purchase of seats, selling programs and furnishing entertainment. The police force is handling a large part of the ticket sale. Although tickets will be on sale at the Liberty, the show will be at the Peoples.

John W. Andrews' Address Is Wanted

Friends of John W. Andrews who know of his whereabouts are asked to notify his father, J. A. Andrews, at Sellwood 2208, or Automatic 627-92, as soon as possible. Andrews' sister, Mrs. Thelma Smith, died at the family residence in this city 4:30 o'clock Thursday, and her father is anxious to reach his son immediately. Andrews left Portland about two years ago. Friends say he has been living at Maupin, where he has been known as Wood Andrews, but two weeks ago he left that place, and his address is not known.

TEACHERS' ANNUAL MEETING IS TO BE HELD ON SATURDAY

The annual Portland teachers' meeting will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in Lincoln high school auditorium. Superintendent D. A. Groat will preside, and five minute talks will be made by members of the school board, the superintendents, B. A. Thaxter, president of the Principals' association, and Julia Spooner, president of the Grade Teachers' association.

"The teaching of American history will be emphasized in Portland schools this year," Superintendent Groat stated this morning. "So much depends upon the point of view and we want to get the teachers to think about it in the same and right way. Proper teaching of American history will be the dominant topic in education this year." Groat is making this the keynote of his talk to the teachers Saturday, and is having printed in the school bulletin extracts from the current issue of World's Work on history teaching to the effect that children are interested in romance rather than statistics and that history should be positive and constructive, not misleading nor filled with propaganda, but with outstanding episodes and outstanding men emphasizing facts that are agreeable to the nation.

An extract from a speech by Roosevelt will also be contained in the bulletin: "We read the Declaration of Independence every Fourth of July because, and only because, the soldiers of Washington made that message true."

Now the big surprise comes when it's least expected

SUNDAY is mother's day off; so anything at all used to be good enough for Sunday's supper.

But now mother pulls the biggest surprise each Sunday night.

Just before mealtime she slips away for a little book on the pantry shelf and a bottle of Premier Salad Dressing alongside of it. Then the miracles begin. With the least amount of effort mother's Sunday suppers are the greatest feasts of the week.

The little book she guards so carefully is full of suggestions for novel Sunday suppers. It is called "Salads, Suppers, Picnics," and a copy will be sent you free, if you will write for it. In the meantime, be prepared with a bottle of Premier Salad Dressing.

Its flavor has placed it on a Million tables
