Mrs. Ollie Blowers Is Held in Connection With Slaying of Mexican Near Her Roadhouse

Klamath Falls, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Ollie Blowers, charged with first degree murder in connection with the death near her roadhouse near Crescent, September 1, of Tom Montoya, a Mexican sheepherder, was bound over to the grand jury at a preliminary hearing here today. She was admitted to bail of $10,000.

Two pairs of shoes, one missing, and a piece of rope may figure in the case. It appeared today when it was brought out that no shoes were found in Mrs. Blowers' house to correspond with tracks leading to the spot where Montoya's body was found, and that the shoes found on Montoya were unfamiliar to Dan Riley, a sheepherder, who had seen Montoya earlier in the day. An attempt was made to show that the tracks on the road accompanying the woman's tracks were those of a man other than Montoya, and who may have fired the fatal shots and then changed shoes with the dead man.

Testimony brought out that Mrs. Blowers, in the presence of officers, had pointed to a rope saying, "That was what started the whole business." It was alleged that Montoya had had an argument with his employer, John Blowers, of Lakeview, over the question of borrowing a horse, into which a question had arisen concerning the rope. Montoya, it was alleged, declared that he would "get" Blowers. The state introduced evidence purporting to show that Mrs. Blowers had burned in her fireplace the shoes she wore during the time she was alleged to have been with Montoya.

Spokane Fair Has Large Deficit, Due To Small Crowds

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 9.—The Spokane Interstate Fair and Livestock show showed a deficit of $20,000 when the gates closed on the 25th annual exhibition tonight. This statement was issued by Thomas S. Griffith, president of the fair association.

To stage a fair next year it will be necessary to raise the amount of the deficit through a financial campaign," Griffith said. Fifty per cent of this deficit represents the losses on the 1921 fair, the remainder on this year's fair, due to lack of attendance. Although the gate receipts this year considerably exceed those of last year, the expenses have been heavier.

Blood Hounds Are Trying to Find Trail Of Unknown Fiend

Olympia, Wash., Sept. 9.—Belief that the unknown fiend who terrorized and brutally assaulted Mrs. Kate O'Hare and her two daughters and beat her son and another youth Thursday night in her home, eight miles west of Olympia, is still in that vicinity was strengthened by the report today of Matt Twoby, a farmer living within a mile and a half from the O'Hare home. Twoby, who had been away from home 80 days, found upon his return late Friday night that his cabin had been entered and food taken. It is believed by county and police officials that the fiend was an intruder and is still in hiding near the scene of his crime. Matt Starwich's bloodhounds were again put on the hunt.

County agent work will be dispensed with, no extra help will be paid for at the auditor's office, cars furnished county officials may be used for county business only, and the auditor will no longer be allowed an office deputy. Levies for road districts will be reduced in every case from two to four mills, and the first of October the salaries of all deputies will be materially reduced.

MISSING VOTES FOUND; DO NOT CHANGE RESULTS

Lost Ballots Are Discovered in Sealed Envelopes in Unlocked Drawer of County Courthouse

The missing ballots of the primary election in precinct 197, for which diligent search was made for several days, have been found. They were discovered Saturday afternoon by Deputy County Clerk James Gleason, in charge of the registration and election bureau, and immediately thereafter were taken into Judge Knowles' court and recounted in connection with the Coffey contest case. They made no material change in the figures as given by the election board, some two or three minor mistakes being discovered.

Gleason Saturday afternoon began a systematic search of all the drawers in the registration bureau, and eventually was rewarded by discovering the missing ballots in a sealed envelope, in an unlocked drawer at the northerly end of the long counter. With them were some blot stubs of precinct 258. Gleason says he recalls the placing of the stubs within this drawer, but has no recollection of the envelope of ballots having been placed there, or believes that they were brought to the court house in the canvass bag containing other election papers, instead of within the wooden box supplied for the registration bureau, and eventually the work they were tucked into the drawer where they were discovered by him.

DEDICATES HER LIFE TO WORK AMONG LEPEERS

solate disinfectant since the remotest ages. We keep our powder dry, and we believe, by constantly using this water, and trust for the rest. We workers associate with the lepers conscientiously, but the work is so rigorous that it is worth it.

"These waters also work wonders in allaying leprosy and venereal diseases. Directly above our leper village there is another village inhabited mostly by syphilitics and by those suffering from rheumatism. Aside from the bathing in the spring water, leprosy is treated by various uses of chamool-ogra oil, the only thing that is known to allay the disease. It is so difficult to digest that physicians frequently use it with the aid of a hypodermic needle.

"Kusatsu is located 4000 feet above the level of the sea and is frightfully cold in winter, everything freezes tight and it is difficult for us to be comfortable. Our houses are just the ordinary little Japanese house. Its distance and climate make living there very high, but the presence of the springs must be considered, and so we stay.

"Not only do the lepers display wonderful Christian fortitude, but we occasionally have people come to their lives to the work, who are not afflicted, such as Sugi San, who dropped down from the skies upon us, a very small and very smiling man of 40, who came to the church one day and after the service told us that he had felt called to Kusatsu, had borrowed a little money from his mother and saved his house and come to spend the rest of his life among the lepers. Of talents he has about one and an eight, but of good will and desire to help the lepers he has a great deal. He receives no wages, just his keep and one yen a month for pocket money. He chose of his own accord to live and earn among the lepers.

"Miss Cornwall-Leigh has a small personal income and she receives a small stipend for her services, all of which she turns back into the work, considering it a privilege to work among these wretched people.

VERNONIA HAILED AS FUTURE CITY

30-year supply of standing timber, tributary to the valley, so the citizens sold the visitors.

According to the plans outlined to residents of Vernonia, is to be unique in the milling business of the Northwest. It is to be of steel and concrete construction and is estimated to cost $3,000,000.

In addition the visitors heard of the plans of the Inman-Poulsen Lumber company to carry on operations on a 25,000-acre tract of timber, with Vernonia as the center. Plans of California Barrel company and other industries were detailed, all combining to throw out a lure of promise which attracts the Portland people.

The trip over the new rail line would have been a tedious one for the Portland people, had it not been for the inspiration they received from the visit to the embryo lumber town and industrial center.

Leaving Portland at 8:30 a. m., the special train traveled to Linnton and then over the United Railways to Wilkesboro, where the new line has its northerly terminus. The special arrived at Vernonia at 1 p. m.

Included in the party were city officials and rail executives, as well as business leaders of this city.

Mayor Baker was head of the city representatives and the party of railroad officials included heads of the P. & O., with which the P. A. & P. is affiliated, as follows:

William F. Turner, president W. D. Skinner, vice president and traffic manager A. J. Davidson, general manager; A. J. Witchel, chief engineer; G. V. Lintner, construction engineer; Dr. James C. Zan, chief surgeon; Judge C. H. Carey, general counsel; James C. Spencer, general counsel; G. E. Votaw, superintendent, and R. W. Pickard, assistant general freight agent.

In addition to the Portland special there was one from St. Helens with 165 people aboard. The Portland special picked up at the new line passengers at Banks and Wilkesboro, so that the trains carried in excess of 500 visitors to the Jubilee city. A thousand more visitors gathered from the countryside and distant points by automobile.

At the Nehalem valley city, the excursionists were met by a special reception committee composed of Lester Sheeley, D. W. Keasey and C. D. White. Another committee headed by H. E. McGraw had started from Portland with the special train and the Portlanders fully informed as to the reception plans.

What was brought by the Portland special, the visitors marched up the main street to the civic center, where a luncheon was served by the Vernonia Chamber of Commerce. E. B. Andrews, vice president of the chamber of commerce, addressed the meeting.

Following the luncheon, all gathered in the city park and there heard addresses from Lester Sheeley of Vernonia, Mayor Baker, Judge Carey and Spencer of Portland and Judge Cornelius of Clatsop county.

The special left Vernonia at 5 o'clock for the return trip and arrived in the North Bank station at 9 o'clock.

The Portland, Astoria & Pacific railway is 33 miles in length. Vernonia is 48 miles from Portland and beginning about October 1, a regular train service of about two and one-quarter hours' run will be inaugurated. Beyond Vernonia the new rail line runs 14 miles to a point on Rock creek about two miles beyond the town of Keasey.

On the outward bound trip the special trains stopped at the Beaver Lumber company operations to view a tree felling contest and to see a high climber "top" a tree.

No Trace Found of Victims of Wreck

Aberdeen, Wash., Sept. 9.—The south Grays Harbor beaches are being patrolled today in the hope of recovering the bodies of William Bennett and Lloyd Conner, Aberdeen fishermen, who it is feared lost their lives Thursday night when the launch The Spray, was wrecked on the beach near Grayland, south of Westport. No trace of the two men has been found.

Salem Prisoners Had Loot Stolen From Oregon City

Salem, Sept. 9.—Jewelry found in the possession of Ed Davis, Dick Morgan and John Augustine when they were arrested here Wednesday was today identified as member of the Boland family of Oregon City as a part of the loot taken from the Boland home on the night of September 1. The identification strengthens the suspicion of Chief of Police Moffitt that the three men may have been responsible for several burglaries committed in valley towns recently.

Jewelry valued at $400 was taken from the Boland home, it is said, but only a part of it was found. At the time of their arrest the men were peddling seemingly valuable jewelry to Salem residents at suspiciously low prices.

Chief Moffitt suspects that Morgan is wanted in either Oklahoma or Kansas for breaking jail and that Davis is an escapee from Leavenworth prison. Early this morning the men were detected in an attempt to break jail by picking the lock to their cells with a piece of wire. In a demonstration this afternoon Morgan picked every lock in the city hall with simple tools in a kit found on his person when arrested.

SUITS ARE FILED ON STOCKHOLDERS OF THE STATE BANK

Fifty Are Cited to Compel Payment of 100 Per Cent Stock Assessment Made in April.

Suits were filed Saturday in the circuit court of Multnomah county against 50 stockholders in the State Bank of Portland to compel payment of a 100 per cent assessment levied on the stock of the bank in April. Suits were filed by Bowerman & Kavanagh, attorneys for the state banking department, and the State Bank of Portland and Frank C. Bramwell, state superintendent of banks, were named as plaintiffs.

The State bank suspended operations February 16. The concern had $300,000 in stock outstanding, distributed among 260 shareholders. Investigations by the state superintendent of banks showed an excess of liabilities over assets amounting to $639,588.31.

Bowerman stated that approximately $81,000 of the stock assessment had been accounted for by full payment in cash or by payment on the installment plan. Four stockholders with shares aggregating $21,500, settled their obligations to the bank Saturday. Bowerman stated. No extensions of time will be allowed, according to the bank's attorneys, except where installments are actually paid.

Names of the 50 defendants were taken in alphabetical order, according to Bowerman. Among the larger stockholders against whom suits were started are Victor Brandt, $12,300; Arthur Eckersley, vice president of the bank, $5000; M. A. Brandes, $4000; W. C. Buffington, $2000; F. M. Brandes, $3000; C. W. Roland, $5000; R. S. Coe Jr., $1000. Suits would be pushed through as rapidly as possible, Bowerman stated.

Liquidation of notes, bonds, real estate and other assets of the bank would result in the payment of 80 cents on the dollar to depositors, according to an estimate by State Superintendent of Banks Bramwell.
