

SCHOOL BOARD TO SELL $300,000 OF BONDS AUTHORIZED

Building Program Deviates in Part From Pre-election Plan Outlined.

Although none of the $3,000,000 bonds authorized at the last school election has been issued and although no part of the $1,000,000 special school tax voted at the same time has been collected, the school board has already purchased three pieces of property as school sites.

It has paid $4,250 for the site of the new North East school. The printed pre-election program used by the board in its plea for more funds listed the price of a site for the new high school at $15,000.

It has paid $8,000 for property at Erroll Heights and $10,000 for property at Kenton. The printed pre-election program proposed grade school sites only for Chapman, Linnton, Oberlin and Sunnyside schools.

The aggregate of $58,000 has been advanced from the general fund of the school district and is to be repaid with interest at 6 per cent when bonds are issued.

The school board's plan to sell a $300,000 block of the recently authorized school bonds about November 1, the securities to be serial in character and drawing interest at 6 per cent. A price considerably better than par is anticipated.

Among the most conspicuous items of cost increased over the pre-election program is the plan for Holladay school. The pre-election program listed Holladay among the cottage type structures which come at about $6000 a room. Plans are now being drawn for a two-story building which will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 a room. The excess will be about $48,000 for a 12-room building.

The school board plans to remodel the old Holladay school building which was partially destroyed by fire and use it as an administrative building. It has agreed to pay the Larrabee estate through the Oregon Real Estate company $37,000 for three adjoining blocks, which will be available for school purposes when the intervening streets are vacated.

Convicted three times for burglary and pleading guilty to being a habitual criminal, Harry Floyd of Seattle has been sentenced to life imprisonment.

PASTOR RETURNS WITH BRIDE

The Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd R. Carrick

The Rev. Lloyd R. Carrick, pastor of Forbes Presbyterian church, has returned to Portland with his bride, after a month's vacation and honeymoon trip at Newport, Or. He will resume his pulpit today. The Rev. Mr. Carrick married Miss Alice Davis, a well known Southern Oregon Christian Endeavor worker, on August 2. He accepted the call to the local pulpit on May 6.

The Rev. Mr. Carrick graduated from Washington high school, Reed college, University of California and San Anselmo seminary, and had some experience in supplying California pulpits while attending the seminary. Mrs. Carrick also attended the denominational schools in California and took a course to prepare herself for church work.

The Rev. Mr. Carrick is prominent throughout the state, having been identified with Christian Endeavor work while attending school in Portland. Before going to California to college he was Multnomah county president and state Christian Endeavor president.
