

WOMAN LABOR IS DECLARED SCARCE DURING AUGUST

There is a scarcity of woman labor in Portland, according to figures shown by the August report of the public employment bureau. This sets forth, in a report filed with the city council today by Arthur W. Jones, director of the bureau, that during the month there were 927 places available for women, while but 330 were reported placed in positions.

In the men's division the help wanted totaled 2870 positions, and the men referred to positions numbered 2850. The largest number, 1331, was for common labor. Next followed salesmen, 257; then cement and concrete work, 157; and painters and halmisners, 107. Garden and lawn work provided 162 jobs, and the other work covered a wide range.

In the women's division there were placed 13 chambermaids, 136 domestics, 3 clerks, 74 day workers, 101 in industrial work and 12 as waitresses. During the month 1079 ex-service men were included in the placements.

Turner for 15 families on East 17th street between Schuyler street and East Broadway.

TO REDRAFT ELKS PLANS TO PROVIDE FIRE ESCAPE

Through some inadvertence, the city building bureau has allowed the plans for the Elks temple, now under construction at 11th and Alder streets, to receive its O. K. without provision having been made for fire escapes on the two street frontages. Immediately re-drafting of plans to provide for these will be required by H. E. Plummer, chief building inspector.

ing the war too late and quitting too early."

Clemenceau makes plain he does not agree with Kipling, but believes the United States should resume its war partnership with Great Britain and France for the purpose of putting world peace on a stable foundation.

FEARS NATIONAL COLLAPSE

Clemenceau's decision to emerge from retirement and go on his personal mission to America was made as a result of recent European developments which made a collapse of some nations and possible resumption of hostilities over the question of reparations seem imminent. Until recently he has reiterated to his friends the statement that he had abandoned world politics forever.

"America wants my opinion and I'll give it," Clemenceau declared, in an interview given the Petit Parisien.

"I don't need documents. I don't intend to make a triumphal journey, but a useful journey. I am going to make four speeches, that's all. I am going as a member of a mission and won't accept invitations to banquets and receptions. I'll speak in my own name. America wants my views and I'll give them."

"I will speak with regard to the war, demonstrating, that if the allies had remained in peace time as they were in war time the world would not be poverty stricken and facing endless difficulties."

TO GIVE FACTS

"I'll speak much about America and little about England. What I've got to say I'll say simply because America is a country of simple, straight facts. I'll say it in a gentlemanly way because the Americans are our great friends."

"Nobody is speaking for France, but now is the time to speak, to tell Americans they are wrong—that we are not militarists and imperialists. The French people deserve the enthusiastic confidence of their friends, the free people of America."

"Kipling is wrong, too. I like Kipling, he is a great writer who the war struck hard, but his diatribe seems to me unjust. Of course, I'll speak about the treaty. It is necessary to say clearly that the treaty deprives Germany of every pretext for revenge. If we had wanted to make an imperialist peace, if we had had in the chamber certain deputies such as Germany had between 1870 and 1914, it would have been different."

Senate Passes Bill For Improvement of Harbors in Oregon

Washington, Sept. 11.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL.) New project river and harbor bill was passed by the senate today. As it is a house bill, amended by addition of further items in the senate, it will next go to the conference committee. Oregon projects carried in the house bill and agreed to without amendment by the senate are:

"I will take this question under advisement and in the meantime the government will proceed," Judge Wilkerson ruled.

EVIDENCE PRESENTED

Attorney General Daugherty and his special assistants then presented a mountain of documentary evidence in an effort to bear out charges that widespread sabotage has occurred in the course of the strike.

A ruling on the government's motion to make the injunction permanent is expected today as the temporary restraining order expired with the hearing.

Assistant Attorney General Easterlin read a list of 30 closely written type-written pages giving a list of killings, sabotage and violence which he declared was the result of the "conspiracy" of the strikers.

"The confidence of the court has been betrayed by the chief law enforcing officer of the nation," Richberg declared, in support of his motion for dismissal of the injunction case.

Second Girl's Body Found in Missouri River; Father Held

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 11.—(I. N. S.)—The body of a young girl, a hole crushed in the back of her head, was found floating in the Missouri river at Napoleon, 13 miles from here, today. She was about 11 years old.

It was the second girl's body found in the river in the last week. The mutilated body of a girl, about 14, was found last Monday in the river near Kansas City.

Immediately after the finding of the second body, the police put Tony Nello, 47 years old, under arrest at Kansas City, Kan., through a severe grilling. His two daughters, Ellen and Florence Nello, 11 and 12 years old, respectively, have been missing since a week ago last Friday, according to information in the hands of the police.

INJUNCTION FIGHT FORMALLY OPENED IN RAILROAD CASE

Chicago, Sept. 11.—(U. P.)—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today declined to grant immediately the pleas of attorneys for the striking shopmen that the temporary injunction against the strikers be dismissed. The court ordered Attorney General Daugherty to go ahead with his arguments upholding his request that the injunction be made permanent.

The court did not refuse to consider the argument of Donald R. Richberg for strikers to dismiss the motion to make the injunction permanent.

"I will take this question under advisement and in the meantime the government will proceed," Judge Wilkerson ruled.

Frank L. Mulholland, Thomas Stevenson and Oscar Thorne, all of Cleveland, DISSOLUTION ASKED

Following Esterlin, arguments for dissolution of the injunction were started by Richberg.

"The workers are under no legal obligation to obey the decisions of the United States railroad labor board, as the attorney general has attempted to claim before the court."

EARLY HEARING ASKED

"We should at least be entitled to an early hearing."

Blackburn Esterline, assistant to Attorney General Daugherty, who was in the courtroom, then made his statement to the court asking that the injunction be made permanent.

He told of the steps which had been taken to serve notice on the shopmen's officials of issuance of the writ.

Besides Richberg, representing the shop crafts, attorneys were in the courtroom in the interests of the Big Four brotherhoods. They announced, however, they would take no active part in the conduct of the case.

Alleged Plot to 'Buy Protection' Of Police Is Bared

With the resignation today of a reporter employed for a number of years by a morning paper, full details of a plot to furnish police protection to a syndicate of disorderly houses were made public.

The reporter and a police court attorney are accused of attempting to bribe Inspector Klingensmith, the chief of police, for the purpose of preventing the police from raiding the disorderly houses. According to the story told today at police headquarters, the attorney, whose practice is made up largely of cases involving such disorderly houses, received $1000 with which to obtain protection for his clients. It was reported he divided this money evenly with the newspaper man and that he later offered Klingensmith $250 for his influence in preventing the disorderly houses from being disturbed. Klingensmith reported the affair to his superior officers, who informed the employers of the reporter, District Attorney Stanley Myers.

"If my investigation develops sufficient evidence, I will present the entire matter to the grand jury at once," said Myers.

Bridal Veil Mill Resumes Operation; 150 Men Employed

The mill of the Bridal Veil Timber company, near Bridal Veil Falls, resumed operations this morning, after being closed down for about a year. The mill has a daily capacity of about 100,000 feet, and 150 men are employed.

At the plant and in the company's logging operations on Larch mountain, the mill at Bridal Veil Falls and a large area of standing timber along Gordon creek were acquired recently by the Bridal Veil Timber company from the Bridal Veil Lumbering company.

The new corporation is capitalized at $500,000, and is headed by W. B. Dubois of Vancouver, Wash. The new company has timber, enough in its holdings to keep the mill in operation about 10 years, it was stated.

3 Bridge Projects Are Presented to County Commission

Three committees with separate proposals for bridges across the Willamette river appeared before the county commissioners today. H. E. Sellwood and Kenneth Brown of the Sellwood board of trade spoke in favor of a $450,000 bond issue for a bridge near Beacon street to replace the Sellwood ferry.

A committee from the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce urged the placing of a high bridge from Fessenden street on the east side to Germantown street and St. Helens road. The bridge would cost $2,000,000.

The Burnside street association presented a formal petition asking for a bond issue of $3,000,000 to replace the Burnside bridge.

The Commissioners have expressed themselves as favoring the building of a new Burnside bridge and the Beacon street bridge. They are now considering the necessary steps to have measures for a bond issue to cover these two projects placed on the November ballot.

CHINESE IS ACCUSED

Arrested by federal agents, while smoking opium, Moy Ham, Chinese merchant of Portland, is out on $1000 bond and will have his hearing before Commissioner Fraser next Friday.

Clark, Kendall Co. Employ C. Close

Carlos C. Close, for the past two years secretary and treasurer of Clark, Kendall & Co., Inc., was elected vice president of the company at a meeting of the board of directors last week, according to announcement today by Harry C. Kendall, president of the concern. Prior to his connection with Clark, Kendall & Co., Close was for several years secretary of the Lumbermen Trust company. He will retain the office of secretary of the Clark, Kendall & Co. As vice president, he succeeds Walter M. Kendall, resigned.

FIRE DOES $50 DAMAGE

CERTIFICATION OF PETITION IN BLANK FORM IS ADMITTED

Salem, Sept. 11.—That as a notary public he certified to names on initiative petitions of which he had no personal knowledge and also to names of persons whom he did not even see, was the voluntary testimony here today of Paul Turner of Portland. Turner was a witness in a suit to enjoin Secretary of State Koser from placing the interest rate amendment on the November ballot.

Initiative petitions, he asserted, are frequently certified to by notaries in blank form before signatures of voters are secured.

"Do you mean to say that you never saw the signatures—that you put your name and seal on blank pieces of paper?" asked Circuit Judge Kelly.

"Yes," Turner admitted. "However, I had an understanding with Green that I would be allowed to check over the names. I never got the chance."

Prior to this revelation Turner had testified as to his "acquaintance" with the persons he had certified as registered voters. In one group of 38 names, he admitted, there was only one person whom he believed he knew personally. Turner admitted that most of the signatures secured by him had been secured from persons met by chance on the streets of Portland, although insisting that he had put the customary questions to them regarding their status as legal voters and had received satisfactory answers thereto before accepting the signatures.

W. H. Carter, also a Portland notary public, testified that his "acquaintance" with most of the signatures on the petitions circulated by him had been made at the time their signatures had been solicited on the streets of Portland.

Other notaries here to testify are Caroline Hermann, B. L. Carter, Otto Newman, Charles Lorati and L. Maud Stiles.

The complaint attacking the right of the proposed amendment to a place on the ballot alleges that more than 8000 of the signatures on the initiative petition were irregular and not properly certified to.

For Dainty People

For careful people—A new way to brush teeth

This is for people who want prettier teeth, cleaner, safer teeth. It has brought those results to millions, the world over.

It is fast displacing old and ineffective methods. Dentists everywhere are urging its adoption. In some fifty nations careful people use this method now.

Find out what it means to you and yours. There are few things more important.

The war on film

Dental science is conducting a worldwide war on film. This new method is the way employed.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. It becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That is why teeth lose their luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

49 in 50 suffered

The ordinary tooth paste does not effectively fight film. So, despite the tooth brush, all these troubles were constantly increasing. About 49 in 50 suffered. And glistening teeth were seen less often than today.

Dental science has long sought ways to fight that film. Two effective methods have been found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it. And this without an ill effect or use of harmful grit.

Able authorities, by many careful tests, proved these methods effective. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Then those two great film combatants were embodied in it. The name of that tooth paste is Pepsodent.

Two great mistakes

It was also found that old-type toothpastes involved two great mistakes. They were due to soap and chalk. They decreased the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids. They decreased the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

Pepsodent corrects those mistakes. It multiplies the starch digestant, multiplies the alkalinity. Thus every use gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting forces in the mouth. In five important ways, Pepsodent is bringing users a new dental era.

It also polishes teeth so film less easily adheres.

New Beauty Appears

Delightful results appear quickly to people who use Pepsodent. First clean teeth, then whiter teeth. The glistening teeth you see everywhere now are largely due to Pepsodent.

You should use it always, for beauty's sake and safety's sake. And you will when you know what it does. Then teach your children to employ it, to avoid the troubles you may have suffered.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Then decide your future course by what you see and feel. Cut out the coupon now.
