

NEW CANON TO BE SUBMITTED ON DEACONESSES

"Parishes should pay the insurance premiums of deaconesses," says the report of the commission on adapting the office of deaconess to the present task of the Episcopal church. Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander of Pennsylvania is chairman of the committee which is to submit to the General Convention a new canon on deaconesses and a new service of ordination for them.

The report devotes much space to the subject of salaries. It finds that most of them not only are unable to save enough out of their earnings for a vacation, but that many are unable to pay for medical treatment. To save for old age appears to be quite impossible.

Yet the commission reports that it would be impossible to put these women under the pension system, but in its place the commission strongly recommends that parishes which are served by deaconesses pay the premiums in the insurance company recently inaugurated by the church pension fund, where insurance is given at cost.

NEEDS THEIR SERVICE
The commission feels that the church needs the ministrations of these women, as may be judged from the following paragraphs taken from the report:

"In presenting this report, your committee desires very earnestly to call to the attention of the General Convention the importance of the ministry of women at this present juncture in the church's history. It is imperative that, in the most effective way and with the least delay, we should recall to the work of the church, for the sake of humanity and for the uses of the Kingdom, the special and unique gifts of consecrated women. The church in earliest times adopted the principles of a specialized ministry. In theory we still maintain that principle, but in practice we have to a great extent abandoned it. The deacon has become simply a probationer priest, aspiring to do all that the priest does and enduring some impatience the year, or less, through which he must pass as an aspirant to the priesthood. The deaconess, whose ministry in the early church supplemented that of the deacon, was first allowed to sink into the position of a minor order, and then, for a long space, was lost to the church altogether. The effort to revive this primitive order, both in England and America, has been half-hearted and vaguely defined.

MAN OF ALL WORK

"The effect of this loss of specialization in ministry has been to make the priest a man of all work, quite as often compelled to serve tables as left free to give himself to prayer and the ministry of the word." On the other hand, those ministries which the deacon and the deaconess should fulfill have to a considerable extent been taken out of the hands of the church and given over to the "social service worker." This new profession is a very valuable one and has drawn to itself men and women of high character, patriotic devotion and large equipment for service. Probably it is well that the community as a whole should discharge many of the activities which formerly rested entirely on the church.

BOTH ARE NECESSARY

"Yet recognizing this, it is also true that, as the wisest and most experienced social service workers themselves admit, there is a ministry which the church can render and which they cannot, and that the church needs in the twentieth century both the deacon and the deaconess quite as much as it did in the first century. Whether or not it is possible to restore the male diaconate to its primitive use is very doubtful. But the opportunity is before us to develop a female

GRANGE BALLOT CASE SUBMITTED TO CIRCUIT COURT

Camp Fire Program Is Witnessed by 25 Women Enthusiasts

Twenty-five women, mothers, teachers and others interested in becoming leaders in the Campfire Girls' movement, gathered Monday evening in Central library for the first lecture in the training course being given by Miss Edith M. Kempthorne, the subject being "The Scope and Aim of Campfire."

Miss Kempthorne said: "The law of the Campfire is: 'Seek beauty, give service, pursue knowledge, be trustworthy, hold on to health, glorify work, be happy,' and the slogan is a combined contraction of the three foundation words, work, health, love, 'Wo-Ho-Lo.' The lack of trained leaders for campfire groups is always great, and this course is given in the hope that many new groups now waiting for leaders may be supplied and begin the winter's work at once."

The subject for this evening's lecture, which will be given at 7:30, will be "The Honor System, and How Campfire Does Its Work."

Miss Kempthorne will be honored with a luncheon at the University club Wednesday. Today Mrs. Elizabeth J. White, Campfire executive for Portland, will have as her guests at luncheon Elizabeth Shively, Ione Vede-meyer, Susanna Goodwin and Velda Feldman, the four girls who displayed the best spirit of cooperation and cheerfulness at the summer camp, and Jane Friedlander, who instructed the girls in a beautiful Indian dance.

Long-Bell Lumber Company Prepares For Big Expansion

Klamath Falls, Sept. 12.—A trust deed covering 86,418 acres of timber lands in Klamath county, Siskiyou county and in the Southern States from the Long Bell White Pine company to the Long Bell Lumber company was recorded here Monday.

The conveyance was made in connection with the proposed $30,000,000 bond issue of the Long Bell Lumber company. The proceeds of which, according to J. M. White of the Wood Lumber company, a subsidiary concern, will be issued to develop western products.

The deed bore revenue stamps in the amount of $1600.

Russian Deal Gives Britain Control of Lands and Railways

Arbitration Plan Is Urged by Head of Lumber Association

London, Sept. 12.—British newspapers tonight hailed with delight the agreement just signed between Leslie Urquhart and Leonid Kraasin, Soviet agent, whereby the British gain control of 2,500,000 acres of land and hundreds of miles of railway in Russia.

The London newspapers speak of the agreement as a deal which "may prove the most important step taken to open the Russian markets since 1917." Government officials deny that Urquhart was acting for them, but declare the government is familiar with his policy and is anxious to encourage him in any way.

Urquhart is expected in London today. Official circles understand that under the contract he will resume mining, chemical and railway operations, and also the development of immense platinum areas in the Ural mountains.

Arbitration of business disputes and standardization of manufactured products are two prime essentials to prosperity, according to Ben S. Woodhead of Beaumont, Texas, president of the American Wholesale Lumber Dealers' association, who was the guest of honor at a dinner given by 50 lumbermen at the Multnomah hotel Monday night.

Other guests at the meeting were L. R. Putnam, managing director, and Joseph E. Davies, general counsel of the association. Davies was formerly chairman of the federal trade commission.

Dwight Hinkley of Cincinnati, member of the Hoover commission for the standardization of lumber, and R. B. McLeod of Hattiesburg, Miss., also are members of Woodhead's party.

Injuries Fatal to U. S. X-Ray Expert

Walla Walla, Wash., Sept. 12.—Dr. A. B. Orshell, X-ray expert at the United States Veterans' Bureau hospital here, died Monday evening as a result of injuries suffered when his automobile slid off the road and plunged 300 feet to the bottom of the Tushnet river canyon, 50 miles north-east of here, Saturday night. The accident occurred while he was on a hunting trip with Dr. E. A. Montague and Dr. Oeschle. Dr. Oeschle came here recently from United States Veterans' hospital No. 67, Kansas City, Kansas.

COUNCIL ORDERS CITY BUDGET CUT

Woman Confesses Perjury in Fixing Slayer's Identity

Dedham, Mass., Sept. 12.—A confession of perjury by one of the state's "star" witnesses in the murder trial of Nicola Zacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, confessed communists, was contained in an affidavit filed with the clerk of the Norfolk superior court here Monday.

When the tabulation was made it was discovered that the grand total reached $4,925,390.85. Last year's authorized expenditures were $3,645,134. The commissioners debated the estimate and decided that the quickest way to solve the muddle was to require department heads to make the cut first, before submission again to the council and all prior to recheck by the tax conservation commission.

The budgets, it was stipulated, must be returned Thursday morning, after which the council will go over the items, striking out such as are not imperative.
