Tax Investigators To Meet Portland Owners Monday

The tax investigating committee now engaged in the compilation of its report to the governor and the coming legislature, will hold an open meeting Monday next at 10 o'clock in the green room of the Chamber of Commerce for discussion of taxation matters with those residents of Portland who desire to be heard.

The committee some months ago made a trip through Eastern Oregon holding hearings at the principal points on the railroad from Baker to The Dalles, to which all those interested in the reduction of taxation were invited. A second tour of the Willamette valley and Southern Oregon, commencing at Medford, was planned but abandoned. The Portland meeting is to give an opportunity to all those taxpayers who may have suggestions to make to present these to the commission.
