

BISHOPS VOTE TO JOIN FEDERATED CHURCH COUNCIL

By a vote of two to one the house of bishops of the Episcopal church decided Wednesday night to join the Federated Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Before the denomination actually joins, the house of deputies must concur with the decision of the bishops. The bishops' action was in response to a resolution introduced by the Rt. Rev. Charles H. Brent, bishop of Western New York.

The bishops spent considerable time Wednesday discussing the proposed concordat between the Episcopal and Congregational churches, but reached no conclusions. Unless some compromise is effected the question may not be settled at this convention, as there is bitter opposition to the concordat in its present form.

DISAGREE ON LEADERSHIP

The bishops also failed to reach an agreement as to whether the national executive head of the church should be the presiding bishop or whether the powers should be vested in the national council. The discussion started upon the receipt of a message from the house of deputies offering a revision of present canons. The presiding bishop and council had drawn up a revised canon which the joint commission appointed for that purpose failed to adopt. The commission offered the amended canon set up from the house of deputies.

The difference between the two canons is that the one adopted by the house of deputies places the executive authority in the national council, whereas the proposal of the present council places the authority in the presiding bishop, thus making the council more of an advisory organization.

FOUR ARE NOMINATED

The bishops held an election Wednesday afternoon at which they nominated four members of their body for positions on the national council. Those nominated were the Rt. Rev. Messrs. William C. Brown, bishop of Virginia; Theodore I. Reese, bishop of Southern Ohio; William T. Manning, bishop of New York; and Edward S. Lines, bishop of Newark. The other three on the ballot who failed nomination were the Rt. Rev. Hugh Burleson, bishop of South Dakota; the Rt. Rev. Charles Fiske, bishop of Central New York; and the Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, bishop of Massachusetts. Of the four nominated all but Bishop Manning have been on the council during the last three years.

Among Clergy And Laymen

The national council includes four bishops, four presbyters and eight laymen. The following have been nominated in the other orders for election this year: Clergy—The Rev. James E. Freeman of Washington, D. C.; the Rev. Alexander Mann of Boston, Mass.; the Rev. W. H. Milton of Wilmington, N. C.; the Rev. E. M. Stires of New York; the Rev. A. R. Goodwin of Rochester, N. Y.; the Rev. H. P. Silver of New York; the Rev. George Craig Stewart of Chicago, and the Rev. C. B. Wilmer of Atlanta, Ga. In the lay order: Stephen Baker of New York; John Stewart Bryan of Richmond, Va.; Barto Mansfield of New Haven, Conn.; Samuel Mather of Cleveland, Ohio; Frederick C. Morehouse of Milwaukee, Wis.; George W. Pepper of Philadelphia; Harper Sibley of Rochester, N. Y.; H. C. Wyckoff of Watsonville, Cal.; Morris Earle of Philadelphia; George K. Gibson of Chicago; Phillips S. Parker of Brookline, Mass.; and Blanchard Randall of Baltimore, Md. The first four names are above in the clerical order and the first eight named in the lay order have been members of the council for the past three years.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Mulisified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulisified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonsful of Mulisified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulisified.

CHRISTIANITY AND OVERALLS URGED FOR BUSINESS MEN

Acquisitiveness is the one outstanding characteristic of our age—the commercial age, declared Bishop L. C. Sanford of San Joaquin, Cal., who preached at St. Marks church this morning at the last gathering of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church during the present General Convention.

"The commercial world is almost untouched by Christianity," declared Bishop Sanford. "Ruskin pointed out that in his day the soldier fought for his country and the minister labored for the moral and spiritual betterment of mankind, but the storekeeper worked only for himself. That was true in Ruskin's day and it is true now."

"Let the man in the commercial world put on the overalls of humility and live a Christian life."

REJECT RESOLUTION
 The Rev. Wallace Everton of St. Marks, assisted by Father John Hatton, chaplain of Good Samaritan hospital, administered corporate communion.

An all-day session working at top speed concluded details of business to be transacted in the closing meeting of the women's Auxiliary Wednesday. A resolution was presented by Mrs. Leaning Clark of Tennessee to the effect that each woman's organization recognized by the national council of the church should have representation on the executive board of the Women's Auxiliary. When the matter came to a vote it required the vote cast by the presiding officer, Mrs. Wilson Johnston, to decide it, and the result was negative.

TALKS ON HOLY LAND
 An interesting talk on conditions among Christians, Jews and Moslems in the Holy Land was given at the close of the morning session by Rt. Rev. Rennie MacInnes, bishop of Jerusalem. The part played by western civilization in education in the Near East was of special interest to the women.

A report of Christian social service was given in the afternoon by Miss Eva Corey of Massachusetts and farewell messages were presented to the auxiliary by Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gallor, president of the national council; Lewis B. Franklin, vice president and treasurer of the council; Dr. John W. Wood, executive secretary of the department of missions; the Rev. W. E. Gardner, executive secretary of the department of religious education; the Rev. Charles N. Lathrop of the Christian social service department, and Miss Grace Lindley, executive secretary of the Women's Auxiliary.
