

INDIAN ADMITTING MURDER IS FREED

The Dalles, Oct. 4.—Following the verdict of the jury, acquitting William George and George Billy, Indians, of the murder of Jim Star on the beach below The Dalles of July 6 or 7, Judge Fred Wilson Tuesday suspended sentence on Columbia Dick, who pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter. From the bench Judge Wilson said: "William George and George Billy, being now at large as a result of the verdict of a jury in this court that they were not guilty, it would be a travesty on justice for me to send this man to the penitentiary with another man at large who is more responsible than he for the crime that was committed."

This was the first time in his judicial career that Judge Wilson has offered comment from the bench upon the verdict of a jury in his court.

While he realized that the man before him had pleaded guilty to the crime it would be most unjust to send him to prison when he had been made a scape goat of the whole affair, the judge said. It is generally recognized among those who heard the testimony in the case that Columbia Dick's plea was made after pressure had been brought to bear on the old Indian from the two who were arrested with him.

Columbia Dick was the most surprised man in the court room. He seemed unable to grasp the fact that he was not to be sent away as a result of his confession. Old, rheumatic and almost feeble, he was led from the court room back to the county jail, where he gathered his possessions, took his young daughter by the hand, and left the courthouse finding that the laws of the White man are not always without mercy and that justice does not always wear a blindfold.

The murder of Jim Star grew out of a drunken brawl in which, according to the evidence, Jim Star was hit over the head with a club and stabbed and then thrown into the river. Thirteen cans of "canned heat" was said to have been consumed by the Indians previous to the murder.

The woman that kissed him and pinched his nose was the lady that's known as— "Grace something." That's the only name Frank Lemon, fireman in a logging camp at Kerty, Or., knows her by. But, anyhow, Lemon came out of the woods yesterday morning and the Grace woman "did him for fair." The roll of $55 in bills is gone from his vest pocket and he's got to go back to camp and wait another month for his spree.

Lemon was picked up this morning at 6 o'clock, just as dawn was breaking, lying in a muddy gutter at 584 and East Couch street. He was shouting. His "best clothes" were a mass of mud and his face was hardly distinguishable. His breath had an old-time stench and he complained of injuries.

"Me and Grace were in the back seat, coming in from Tully's Homestead," Lemon said. "The men was in the front seat. Somehow I happened to reach up and I feels my money gone. I jumped up and accused them people of taking it. They pounded me up and threw me out of the car."

According to Lemon, a party had been suggested in the evening by Eugene Price, bellboy at the Clyde hotel. Price, he said, got two other men and the woman, Grace, and they hired A. W. Wright, a taxi driver, to take them to the Homestead, and it was on the way back he discovered his money was gone.

Wright was interviewed by police this morning. He said he brought the party back to the Ockley hotel, 10th and Morrison, from which it started, at 12:30. He declared he knew nothing of a fight.

Residents in the neighborhood of 584 and East Couch turned in the alarm when they heard Lemon shouting, but they did not go to investigate personally.

179 Candidates In Field to Fill 106 State Offices

Salem, Oct. 4.—A total of 106 state offices are to be filled by the voters at the November election, according to the official certification sent to the various county clerks this week by Secretary of State Kester. Four initiated measures and two referred measures will also appear on the November ballot. A total of 179 candidates seek the 106 offices, which include three representatives in congress, governor, state treasurer, three justices of the supreme court, superintendent of public instruction, state labor commissioner, public service commissioner, 16 circuit judges, 16 state senators, 60 members of the house of representatives and three district attorneys to fill vacancies.

W. C. Hawley, Republican, seeking reelection to congress from the first district, and the three justices asking reelection to the supreme bench, who have the endorsement of both parties, are the only aspirants for major offices unopposed.

The four initiated measures on the ballot are: Single tax amendment, 1925 exposition tax measure, permitting the city of Portland to raise $2,000,000 through a special tax for the support of the 1925 fair, income tax amendment sponsored by the State Taxpayers' league, and compulsory public school bill.

The two referred measures provide for special tax levies in Linn and Benton counties, with which to absorb outstanding warrants.

$5,000,000 Still Is Due on Second Tax Installment

More than $5,000,000 is still due on the second installment of Multnomah county taxes, with today and Thursday left for making payments without penalty. Sheriff Hurlburt announced the tax office would be kept open Thursday night as long as any persons were there to pay taxes.

During the last week the crowds in the sheriff's office have been growing larger steadily. Tuesday over $50,000 in cash and several hundred thousand dollars in checks were collected. After Thursday all delinquent taxpayers will be fined 12 per cent per annum and after November 5 a flat penalty of 3 per cent will be imposed for all delinquencies.

Plans and specifications for the Lake Cushman power site for Tacoma will be completed six months hence and negotiations for financing the project will begin.

There are a Dozen Good Reasons for SAVING

All of our modern day problems are solved by specialists—men who have been successful in some particular line.

To the lawyer we take our legal problems, to the architect our building problems. How about advice on business problems?

It is remarkable with what unanimity such men as Rockefeller, Carnegie, Hill, Wanamaker and Field say they got their start by saving money. Every one of them has advised young people to do likewise. Advice from such men should be heeded.

Warm Springs and Umatilla reservations are represented in the powwow. The Indians seek to have congress set aside 3000 acres at Celilo as a reservation. Treaty rights allow them to fish, but no provision is made for a camping ground. Delegation headed by Tommy Thompson, chief of the Celilo Indians, will be sent to Washington to lobby for this measure. An effort is being made through Andrew Barnhart, Indian interpreter, to bring the attention of Representative Sinsott, now here on a political vacation, to the plea of the Indians for congressional recognition. The big business of the council will be transacted today and Thursday.
