

SURVIVORS OF SEA FIRE GOING TO LOS ANGELES

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—(L. N. S.)—Fire on board the City of Honolulu had died down to such an extent that two men from the freighter West Farrallone, standing by the burned hulk, were able to go aboard today for an inspection trip, said a wireless message from the West Farrallone to the Federal Telegraph company today.

What salvage operations can be undertaken will depend upon the report of the two men making the inspection. San Pedro, Cal., Oct. 14.—(U. P.)—The army transport Thomas, with 216 survivors of the burned steamer City of Honolulu, early today was diverted to San Pedro on orders from Washington. The message intercepted was dispatched to the Thomas from San Diego radio station and said: "Proceed immediately to Los Angeles and discharge passengers taken from City of Honolulu, then proceed to San Francisco to discharge regular passengers. PASSENGERS DANCE WHILE SHIP BURNS UNDER THEM

United States Army Transport Thomas en route to San Francisco, Oct. 13.—(Via Wireless.)—In high spirits and cheerful, despite the fact that the vessel to which their lives were entrusted was burning beneath them, the passengers of the City of Honolulu danced to the lively music of a jazz band during the trying hours which preceded abandonment of the ship.

The music and dancing were devices to keep up their morale and it succeeded admirably. There was not even the slightest semblance of confusion.

Friday night the 38 women and 35 men passengers of the City of Honolulu which burned Thursday slept in the comfortable state rooms of the army transport Thomas vacated by officers on board the transport to afford the unexpected passenger list every opportunity to recover from their thrilling experiences of the last two days. The officers who gave up their state rooms slept on the decks of the transport. The passengers who came aboard the Thomas from the freighter West Farrallone early Thursday gave a thrilling account of the last hours on board the City of Honolulu.

The fire was discovered at 5 a. m. Thursday in the second cabin section and is believed to have been started by a short circuit of electric wires.

The passengers were told soon thereafter that the fire was under control. The crew fought the work until the pumps gave out at 9 a. m. when the passengers were ordered to the boats.

The captain was the last man to leave, remaining aboard until 10 a. m. A heavy list of the burning ship to port made the lowering of the ship's 14 boats difficult but the work was accomplished without injury to anyone. There was no casualties either from the fire or from the six hours exposure during which the boats floated about the burning ship until picked up by the freighter West Farrallone.

The Thomas received the "S. O. S." of the City of Honolulu Thursday morning and arrived at the scene at midnight. The sea was calm and the weather fine.

The burning ship presented a wonderful sight at night. Friday as the Thomas steamed away with her passengers and crew, the steamer was still burning. She had a heavy list to port and one mast and one funnel were gone but there was still hope of salvaging the hulk.

INVESTIGATION OF SEA FIRE WILL BE THOROUGH

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—(L. N. S.)—The investigation of the burning of the liner City of Honolulu will be launched here upon the arrival of the officers and crew of the abandoned steamer aboard the transport Thomas.

Owing to the fact that the City of Honolulu—formerly the German liner Friedrich der Grosse—is the third of the former German liners assigned to the coast to figure in serious mishaps, it is believed the investigation will be unusually thorough.

Whether the City of Honolulu can be salvaged will not be known until the fire dies down sufficiently to permit her to be boarded. Meanwhile, the shipping board vessel West Farrallone will stand by. The hulk of the burned vessel is in her hands, it was stated.

HULL MAY BE SALVAGED; SUPERSTRUCTURE IS GONE

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—It may be possible to salvage the hull of the burned steamer City of Honolulu, a message from the freighter West Farrallone to the Federal Telegraph late Friday stated.

The message said the City of Honolulu was "fairly gutted and her superstructure gone."

It will not be possible to start the salvage operations until the fire, which is still burning, dies out, the message stated.

The West Farrallone under orders of the United States shipping board will stand by as long as there is any chance of salvage.

Prices Not High At Farrar Auction Sale in New York

New York, Oct. 14.—That luxurious canopy bed, done in cream colored silk in which handsome Lou Tellegen slept before he and Geraldine Farrar, divorced wife, abandoned their "love nest" was sold at auction Friday along with many other personal belongings of the great opera star.

Several hundred saucer-eyed "Gerry flappers" looked on in rapture as the bedroom suite of Miss Farrar's actor husband, and many of her own intimate personal effects, were put up for sale. Every piece the auctioneer put up, even if it was only a foolish looking little metal dog, brought gasps of wonder from the "Gerry flappers," to whom anything which the hand of Farrar ever touched is sacred.

No fancy prices were recorded at the first day's sale. Even the magnificent bedroom suite which once adorned Lou Tellegen's room, brought only $1400, which is not large considering the richness of the pieces. The canopy bed is made of inlaid king-wood. A handsome wardrobe with gilded capitals and sliding trays, a large mirror, in which Tellegen once viewed his handsome reflection, and a marble topped dressing table were included in the set.

The first article put for sale was a small silver card tray. Bidding started at $5 and a minute later it was sold for $8. A door stop, a candlestick, a Japanese print and a porcelain bowl went quickly at prices ranging from $4 to $13. One small mahogany mantel clock and a tiny bronze table each brought $8. Miss Farrar's linens, and her huge wardrobe of stage costumes and jewelry are to be auctioned off later.

Three Accused of Robbing Railway Employe Convicted

Roy Thomas, railroad passenger brakeman, accused of robbing F. J. Adams, aided by three accomplices, for $240 last Sunday night, was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $100 by Municipal Judge Ekwall late Friday.

Mrs. Addell Scott, alias Tiny Booth, charged with being one of Thomas' helpers, was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $100. Lucie Schilt, also charged with being involved, was fined $100 and given a suspended jail sentence of 60 days.

According to the testimony, the plot to fleece Adams was worked out by Mrs. Scott and Thomas while they were enroute to Portland from The Dalles on the train of which Thomas was a member of the crew.

The affair ended in a drinking party in a downtown apartment house, it was stated, where Adams was robbed.

Genevieve Keeney, who admitted she was a member of the downtown booze party, was freed by Judge Ekwall as having no part in either the plot or the theft of the money. Her parents were in the court room at the trial and said they would take her back to their farm in Eastern Oregon.

M'MINNVILLE PLEDGES AID TO 1927 EXPOSITION

McMinnville, Oct. 14.—Friday the 13th pursued the 1927 Exposition caravanners from Monmouth to Independence, and someone in the caravan paid $2.40 as a result. "When the caravan reached Independence the constable of Monmouth caught up with it and swore out a John Doe warrant charging that members of the party exceeded the 15 mile speed limit of the town. Justice of the Peace Baker let the caravan proceed after the constable's fee had been paid.

The caravan was met here by a band and large crowd and escorted to the armory. Mayor Hock of McMinnville opened the meeting by introducing Thomas Luke as chairman. Strong appeals for the fair were made by George Rauch, Otto Hartwig, W. F. Richardson, Rev. Charles MacCaughy, Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, and H. L. Toney, president of the Commercial club here, the latter guaranteeing that this city would heartily support the fair. A supper followed the meeting.

Members of the caravan reported good meetings at Newberg, Sheridan, Dayton, Independence and Dallas, Carlton, Yamhill, Gaston and Forest Grove were on this morning's schedule. The caravan will return to Portland this evening, following afternoon meetings at Cornelius, Hillsboro and Beaverton.

SHERIDAN GREETES CARAVAN; BOOSTERS CLUB TURNS OUT

Sheridan, Oct. 14.—The 1927 caravan entered Sheridan Friday afternoon at 1:45 and after singing the exposition song, speeches were made by Mayor Baker of Portland and Rev. Charles MacCaughy. The Sheridan Boosters club treated the entire caravan crowd to fruits and drinks. Girls were placed in service to carry the baskets of goodies to the caravanners' cars for a lunch after they again took the road.

GET BIG RECEPTION

Yamhill, Oct. 14.—Urging that Yamhill substitute "for" in its slogan in place of "against," making it "Yamhill for the world," the 1927 exposition caravan arrived here on schedule time and was given a big reception. Mayor W. R. Buff welcomed the visitors and Mayor Baker and Rev. Charles MacCaughy pleaded for support of the fair. At Carlton, Harry Dence, editor of the Carlton Sentinel, assured the caravanners earlier that Carlton is 100 per cent for the fair. Sentiment in this district is most favorable.

Boy, 17, Driving Car, Kills Child of 12

Washington, Oct. 14.—(L. N. S.)—Granville Osborne, 12, returning from school yesterday, was struck and killed by an automobile driven by Richard B. Husband, 17-year-old son of W. W. Husband, United States commissioner of immigration, according to a report to the police.

Upholsterers on Strike; Battle Is Endurance Test

A protracted strike of upholsterers which has resolved itself into a test of endurance prevails in Portland. Just after January 1 the upholstery manufacturers made a final cut in wholesale prices which totaled almost 40 per cent from wartime prices. At this time they cut off a war bonus of $1 per day in upholsterers' pay, reduction being to $7 a day from $8. Nothing resulted at that time, but about nine months after the cut the men suddenly determined to force its restoration. The concerns affected by the strike are the United Mattress company, Kingfisher Mattress company and the Quality Bedding company. About 25 men are out. The mattress end of the business is not affected except in the instance of the Kingfisher company, where their workers walked out in sympathy with the upholsterers.

Creamery and Ice Plant on Big Dairy Ranch Are Burned

Scoops, Oct. 14.—A fire early Friday swept the creamery, bottling and ice plant of Ramey Brothers on their large dairy ranch here. Explosions of gas and ammonia tanks, used in the ice plant, were heard for miles. The explosions attracted a large crowd from far and near.

The large dairy barn, house and out-buildings were saved. The bottling plant had been completed only recently. The loss will reach almost $15,000 with small insurance. The Ramey brothers, purchased the dairy farm about a year ago from the G. A. and Charles Hegge estate.

Driver Supporting Mother-in-Law and 7 Tots Wins Judge

Albyn Wysocki's mother-in-law saved the day for him in municipal court late Friday. Wysocki was arrested at Williams' explosions and Russell street, charged with having defective lights. Wysocki pleaded for leniency saying he had "been supporting his mother-in-law and seven children, the former the last nine years."

"You win," Ekwall said. "Anybody under your handicap deserves freedom and a bonus in the bargain." James Mahoney and Charles Daventport, to whom police court is a familiar place, suffered from the Friday the 13th jinx. Heretofore they have been given freedom by the judge after their arrest, but Ekwall said the jinx had them this time and since it was the proper day for evil tidings, they would have to go to jail. Mahoney was given five days and Daventport ten.

FARMER, 63, KILLS GIRL, SHOOTS SELF

Centralia, Oct. 14.—Crazed with jealousy E. Stoltz, 63, a farmer living one mile north of here, shot and killed Margaret Parfit, 23, early Friday night and then killed himself with the same pistol. Miss Parfit had been employed at the Stoltz home for the last two years, since her graduation from the Centralia high school, and Stoltz, who was unmarried, became infatuated with her. Reflection of his advances made Stoltz extremely jealous of the girl and Friday night, when she rode up to the Stoltz home in an automobile accompanied by Albert Elmer, a former service man, Stoltz stopped the couple in the road, brandishing a pistol.

Before Elmer could offer resistance Stoltz fired five shots at Miss Parfit, all of which took effect in her body. She died in a few minutes before medical aid could be obtained. After firing at Miss Parfit Stoltz turned and pursued by Elmer, but before the latter could overtake him, Stoltz suddenly stopped and placed the pistol in his mouth and fired a shot through his head, dying instantly. Stoltz made no effort to attack Elmer who was not injured. Miss Parfit is survived by her mother and a brother, Floyd Parfit, who lives in Eastern Oregon.

Friday, 13th, Very Lucky Day for One; Woman Gets Million

Santa Ana, Cal., Oct. 14.—Nobody can ever make Mattie Fersud believe that Friday the 13th is unlucky. For 27 years she has been housekeeper for General Julian Royer, prominent mining man. Royer died recently in Los Angeles.

Friday his will was filed here for probate. It left Mrs. Fersud a stock worth approximately $1,000,000. The residue of the estate, valued at $22,000, was left to the widow and May Royer, a son. Any attempt to break the will on their part, if unsuccessful will result in the withdrawal of their share, according to the will.

SALVAGE ATTEMPT FAILS San Francisco, Oct. 14.—(U. P.)—Efforts of three tugs yesterday afternoon to pull the tank steamer Lyman Stearns from the rocks at the entrance to San Francisco harbor, failed.
