Hitchcock Faces Hard Campaign

Leader of Democrats in State of Nebraska Fight to Keep Seat in Senate; Germans Figure in Campaign

By David Lawrence
(Copyright, 1922, by The Journal)
Omaha, Neb., Oct. 21.—Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, venerable leader of the Democratic party, has a hard fight for reelection.

Just now he has the edge in the race, and is campaigning effectively. Defeat in a big issue here, Mr. Hitchcock is endeavoring to show that the low prices of agricultural products and the plight of the farmer is a direct result of the Republican administration.

Most of the business and professional men are planning to vote for Mr. Hitchcock on the ground that his liberalism is of a more conservative character than Howell's, which at times borders on the extreme.

William Jennings Bryan, whose brother is running for governor on the Democratic ticket, has buried the hatchet, and is fighting for Mr. Hitchcock. The senator's attitude has been that he would not vote to modify the Volstead act in any way which would make it inconsistent with the 15th amendment.

He has contended that even if the federal government changed its laws, the state of Nebraska would remain dry, so far as state legislation is concerned. Mr. Hitchcock has been indorsed, nevertheless, by the national association opposed to prohibition, on which organization, however, merely expressing its thanks for Mr. Hitchcock's earlier views, and unquestionably is endeavoring to commit him to a course of moderation.

That being the case, there was nothing left for him to do but to send word in effect that the indorsement meant no change in his position. Disaffection within the Republican party is no small factor in this campaign. Mr. Howell was one of the original Bull Mooseers in 1912, and was severely criticized by his own brethren for his failure to contribute to the regular Republican organization.

In the city of Omaha, where Mr. Howell's experiments in municipal ownership won a reputation as an aggressive citizen, he is esteemed, but there is more than one Republican who

CITY JUDGE TURNS I. W. W. BAND LOOSE

Court Experiences Change of Heart Regarding "Wobblers" Caught in Raid and Fails to Order New Bunch Out of City

GOVERNOR PROMISES AID IN DRIVE AGAINST I. W. W.
The executive office will go the limit. Governor Ben W. Olcott this morning proclaimed in answer to Mayor George L. Baker's appeal for cooperation in handling the problem of eradicating I. W. W. involved in Portland's waterfront labor trouble.

In contrast to his action on Thursday in banishing 18 members of the I. W. W. from the city, Municipal Judge Ekwall, this morning, after hearing the similar number of cases under charges of vagrancy, and released the entire lot of 18 men unconditionally.

The judge made no statement regarding his reversal in attitude after hearing the pleas of the 18 men, some of whom admitted membership in the I. W. W. The men had prepared themselves by engaging an attorney, and is said, threatened legal battle if they were convicted as were the men banished on Thursday.

As Judge Ekwall questioned the prisoners one by one, and then turned them loose, E. A. Green, attorney for the I. W. W. in Portland, addressed the bench. "The police are arresting these men as fast as you can free them, your honor," he said.

Many of the men faced the judge for the second time. These had been arrested Friday or the day before and after questioning had been given their liberty, only to be picked up again a few hours later. A considerable percentage readily admitted belonging to the I. W. W. "I was made one last night," several answered.

"Well," he was made somewhat of a radical myself yesterday," said the judge. Fred L. Gifford, grand dragon of the Klux Klan, today offered to Mayor Baker the services of the entire Klan to help in the "elimination of the present I. W. W. influx."

With the first burst of hysteria over the militant police campaign against the I. W. W. looked today much like a man firing a 10-gauge shotgun at a house fly. In short, the army appears to have been on the police blotter, but whether they are all affiliated with the I. W. W. has not been determined.

Offers Own Baby for One They Killed

San Francisco, Oct. 21.—(U. P.)—Francisco is striving in vain to restore a life they are accused of having taken, Charles Buckley and his wife today offered their fair haired, blue-eyed little girl of five to fill the vacant place in the home of Frederick Newton and wife.

Two days ago Buckley was arrested charged with having killed 4-year-old Marion Newton when he drove his automobile into a crowd at a safety station. For 36 hours he seemed forgetful of what he was accused of doing. Then, suddenly, both Buckley and his wife, seemed to sense the tragedy in the Newton home.

"We will give them our own child," Buckley said, calling an officer to his jail cell. "Yes, we will," slowly spoke Mrs. Buckley. "We'll do it if it kills me." "Would to God I could take Marion Newton's place in the grave and she could be raised by Buckley," said Mrs. Newton. But Marion's place will be vacant today and her dolls waited in vain for the touch of a tiny hand.

"No child can fill the place of my little Marion," sobbed Mrs. Newton. She expects the result of the congressional campaign in which 15 women are seeking office, to demonstrate to the women voters just how far they are subordinated in the men's parties.

When they realize their relative unimportance from the man politician's point of view, women will quickly move to the next phase of their political development. Mrs. Belmont believes, and will unite so as to impress "woman's political point of view on the men."

Sitting in the big bare drawing room of the old mansion which she gave the woman's party recently, Mrs. Belmont explained why the "separatist" movement by women is necessary. "It is not an act of hostility towards the men," she said. "That should be understood first. We do not wish to antagonize the men. We want to help them and to help ourselves."

Football players of the Multnomah club and the Gonzaga college are on edge for this afternoon's struggle on the "Winged Mt." field. The game will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock. The Gonzaga team, as the result of its showing against the Washington State college last Saturday, ranked it as one of the strongest teams in its history. The clubmen are on a par with any college team on the coast.

NEW PARTY FOR WOMEN IS PLANNED

Mrs. Belmont Urges Organization of Feminine Voters So They Can Impress Their Political Views on Men Leaders.

Washington, Oct. 21.—A campaign to bring all women voters of the country together in their own party will get under way shortly after the congressional elections next month. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, president of the National Woman's party, is here conferring with assistants to have women forsake the men's parties and belong to a party run for and by women.

As long as the voting women of America are content to remain in their husbands' and brothers' political parties, this condition will continue. That is why we will urge the women to affiliate with us."
