

HARDING CANCELS TRIP BECAUSE OF WIFE'S HEALTH

By Clayton Whitehill (United News Staff Correspondent) (Copyright 1922 by United News.)

Washington, Oct. 21.—Because of Mrs. Harding's condition, the president's long deferred vacation trip, as well as his visit to Alaska, will be postponed indefinitely, "by doctor's orders."

Although the president needs a rest, and would like to get away from his desk for two weeks or so, Brigadier General C. E. Sawyer, the White House physician, believes Mrs. Harding's convalescence can best be assured by her staying in Washington.

Hence, the only restful prospects for the president this winter are the definite abandonment of the White House social season, and several afternoons on the golf links every week. Both of these are due to Dr. Sawyer, who leaves the president in "the most conscientious man I ever knew."

With two patients on his hands—Mrs. Harding, who requires curative treatment and the president, who requires preventive treatment to withstand the strain of heavy duties as winter approaches—Dr. Sawyer has been living at the executive mansion for the last six weeks, the duration of Mrs. Harding's illness.

These outstanding facts were developed, Friday, by the United News, in an exclusive interview with Dr. Sawyer, who has been the Harding family physician and close friend for the last 25 years.

"Quite naturally I would not want to be pessimistic regarding Mrs. Harding's condition," Dr. Sawyer said, "but I am convinced she could never stand the strain which a presidential social season entails. It would be advisable to take her away from Washington to a warmer climate."

"Therefore—and this is the last word on the subject to date—no plans for going away have been contemplated by the president, much less thought of which health resort might be visited."

"At this point I should like to inject a personal note: "So many people think the position of White House physician is one of ease, but I can easily refute that impression. I am convinced that a physician at the White House has to be more vigilant than practically any other practitioner. Not only must he anticipate symptoms, but when things look simple he must watch carefully lest they drift into something serious."

"While Mrs. Harding has been the patient requiring urgent corrective remedies during these last few weeks—and I have been living at the White House ever since her illness grew serious more than five weeks ago—President Harding himself requires preventive remedies."

"For this reason I have insisted that the president get out of doors every afternoon for a game of golf the last two weeks. I am working to restore his weakened resistance, so that he can meet the severe weather of coming winter with resistance restored."

"No other man in the whole administration has worked as hard as the president. During the hot summer he had no time off at all. Then, to cap the climax, Mrs. Harding's illness came along and the president with torn heels and aching feet, had to perform his duty to his country."

"It's a hard enough task to be a president's physician, but I know it's still harder task to be president, and I know of no man who is more conscientious and generous with his time and energy than President Harding."

Menefee Residents Want Chinaman to Quit Their District

Removal of a Chinese resident of Menefee's addition by means of a court order is sought by white residents of that district, who filed suit for this purpose in the circuit court Friday.

The complaint cites restrictions in deeds to property in the Menefee addition, which includes the statement declaring that the property shall not be used or occupied by Chinese in any manner or form, except such Chinese as may be employed by residents as their servants.

According to the complaint, Luck purchased lot 3 of block 4 in the Menefee addition, February 18, 1921, and moved into the house thereon October 1 of this year. It is charged that he has permitted other Chinese to occupy the premises. The court is asked to order him to vacate the premises, located just north of Laurelhurst.

Answering a call from the Haynes Automobile company salesrooms Friday afternoon, deputy sheriffs found Fred Lovgren trying to dick for three or four automobiles which he said he wanted to use in rum running from British Columbia. Taken to the county jail, Lovgren was lodged in the insane ward, where he called loudly for the police to take him back to business.

"Money is just rolling down the street," he said, "I can't afford to stay in here," he lamented. "This is the time of harvest for the bootlegger."

Money would be used in the coming year to know where he hangs from or who his connections are. He will be given an overhauling by alienists.

WOMAN SMILES AT MURDER CHARGE

(By United News.) Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—Maintaining her sphinx-like calm, Mrs. Clara Phillips, former business girl, sat through the first session of her trial on Friday for alleged murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows.

Mrs. Phillips did not give the slightest sign of uneasiness or dread at the terrible arraignment that is soon to be unfolded against her, charging she killed Mrs. Alberta Meadows, beating in her skull with a hammer, purchased for that purpose.

Intimate friends of Mrs. Meadows, who was employed in a bank, declare that the charges were utterly untrue. Mrs. Meadows' diary revealed her with a tender sentiment for her deceased husband, and did not mention Phillips at all. Mrs. Meadows' murder was one of the most baffling crimes encountered by the police. Just at the time they had arrived at a complete standstill in the investigation without having the slightest clue, Armour Phillips came forward and confessed that his wife had committed the crime.

He declared she returned to him with the bloody machine and told him all the details without emotion. In a panic he had helped her to escape. She was immediately arrested in Arizona, and at first refused to admit her identity. Immediately following Phillips' confession, Mrs. Caffee came forward and told of the alleged murder scene.

Phillips declared he had informed his attorney of the crime, and had been advised by him to tell everything he knew to the police.

Mrs. Phillips has steadfastly refused to talk or to admit a single detail of the affair. Friday was given over to the reading of the indictment and the selection of a jury. The jury box was only tentatively filled at the close of the day's session. From the questions asked by the prosecution it is understood that the death penalty will be asked.

St. Vincents Given Clean Health Bill In Officer's Report St. Vincents hospital, against which charges of a serious nature have been made by "Sister" Lucretia, former nun, in addition to the state, was given a clean bill so far as sanitary conditions are concerned, in a report made to Mayor Baker and the city council Friday by Dr. George Parrish, city health officer.

Dr. Parrish reported that he had inspected the institution from basement to attic and found everything absolutely correct. He said the hospital meets all the high requirements of the American College of Surgeons, a committee of which had passed on St. Vincents as acceptable to its membership.

Concluding his report, Dr. Parrish says: "For five years intervals of every few days I have passed through this institution and during that time I have never made a suggestion which was not immediately complied with by the sisters. At no time have they ever placed the slightest obstacle in the way of the health bureau."

Portland Is Urged To Aid Starving In Smyrna Region

For the relief of the homeless, tortured, pitiful starving men, women and children of the Far East comes the appeal to the generous hearted American nation for funds. Half a million sufferers are struggling between life and death in the ashes of the indescribable inferno which was Smyrna.

When the appeal came to comfortable America in this great crisis, a sum of $176,000 was borrowed by the Literary Digest for the purchase of the entire food cargo of the Clontarf, which has since September 25 carried food to the hungry mouths of the afflicted. This money, borrowed on faith in America's generosity, must be repaid, and the Literary Digest has started the fund with a contribution of $10,000 to keep on feeding the starving.

Be it contended, money, or help generously, self denial or just plain human-kindness toward a brother in distress, the people of Portland are urged to send in their checks payable to the Near East Emergency Fund and mail them to Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer, Near East relief, 151 Fifth Avenue, New York, or to the American Red Cross, Elliot Wadsworth, treasurer, Washington, D. C.

President Harding has appointed a special committee with Will E. Hitt as chairman, with representatives of eight national organizations to cooperate in the relief work, including Dr. John R. Mott of the Y. M. C. A., Mrs. John French of the Y. W. C. A., James A. Flaherty of the Knights of Columbus, Felix Warburg of the Jewish Joint Distribution committee, Dr. Robert D. Spear of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, Dr. James L. Barton of the Near East relief, Herbert Hoover of the American Relief administration, Judge John Burton Payne of the American Red Cross and R. J. Cuddihy of the Literary Digest.

Public Schools Forever

A Principle laid down in Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1647

Public education, supported and supervised by the state, was the original American educational programme. It was inaugurated in 1647, when the Massachusetts Bay Colony ordained that every town of fifty householders should provide a public school for the use of ALL the people. This law providing for universal compulsory education was made national in 1787, when government recorded itself to the effect that public schools and the means of education shall be forever encouraged.

Thus our forefathers foresaw, with that rare wisdom which marked their deliberations generally, that education of American youth in the public schools was a necessary means to the end of moulding an enlightened citizenry and through it perpetuating the growth and development of American institutions.

What our forefathers saw: what was true then, is equally true today. By educating all our children in the public schools, so that they may become imbued with common ideas and ideals as to the things which make for patriotism and fealty to our institutions; by teaching them in English only and by teaching them history from the standpoint of an all-American patriotism and not that of the glorification of any one class or creed above another—by doing these things we shall build up a unified America and weld a united people.
