Franklin Hi Victor Over Benson Tech

DISPLAYING better teamwork and more fighting spirit than it did against the Washington High School team, the Franklin eleven came through its gridding battle with Benson Tech Friday afternoon with flying colors. The final score was 27 to 0.

The Quakers scored in the second, third and fourth quarters. Benson failed to play in the same style of game as it did last week.

Brown scored the first goal for the Quakers, after his mate had recovered a fumble on the 15 yard line. A series of bucks and end plays resulted in the score. Peake failed to convert. Holmes scored Franklin's second touchdown in the third quarter. Peake converted goal. Shortly after the opening of the final period, East grabbed a pass from Holmes behind Benson's line. East was lying flat on his back when he caught the ball, having slipped as he crossed the goal line.

The final touchdown was scored after a series of successful forward passes, Kropp scoring after a 15 yard run on a pass from Smith. Peake converted the last three goal tries. The lineup:

Jack Dempsey May Take Second Trip Overseas in Feb.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen Pecos? queried Sam Lewis and Joe Young in tuncful accents long ago.

The answer is, "It's pretty hard."

Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns is honin' for the bright lights and what goes with 'em of the boulevards over yonder.

It is that Jack Kearns means by "something turning up" is not clear. It seems a certainty the only opponent they have in sight is Harry Greb, who is to fight in the summer time and probably Jersey City.

Reports from Toronto, where they appeared in their present engagement, as well as from Hamilton, indicate that Dempsey has an offer from England to meet the winner of the Beckett-Siki battle, according to the letter and has also had several thousand theatrical offers in the city of that is perhaps Dempsey's personal desire to see the land where he had such a good time early this year.

White Knocks Out Sid Marks in 2nd Round of Battle

(By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Charlie White of Chicago, lightweight championship aspirant, knocked out Sid Marks in the second round of their scheduled 12 round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The veteran Windy City boy was far too clever for the Canadian, who held victory over Bobbie Barrett and other leaders in the lightweight class. The end came soon after the opening of the second round when Charlie landed a terrific left to Sid's jaw. Marks rolled over and over on the canvas several times and was counted out in the round lasting 1:50 seconds.

Third Baseman in Demand by Eight Of Major Clubs

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Eight major league clubs are on a still hunt today for a third baseman. The Washington, St. Louis, Boston and Cleveland Americans and the Chicago, St. Louis, Brooklyn and Philadelphia Nationals are all out to strengthen the hot corner. There has not been such a dearth of third basemen in years and it is one of the most difficult positions to fill on any team.

The Chicago Americans think they have beaten all rivals by obtaining Kamm from San Francisco. He, cost $100,000. If reports of his ability to field are justified he will be a Washington attribute part of its trouble last season to a bad start and claims the bad start was due to weakness at third.

Eliezer played a fair game for St. Louis at third but was out a lot because of injuries. The Browns believe that a little tighter infield at third last season would have meant the pennant for them. Cleveland has been weakening at third base for two years.

In the National league there are but two high-class third basemen. One of them is Groch who put himself in popular favor by his fine comeback in the world series. The other is Piffelli of Cincinnati, who played the best game of his life in 1921.

'Kill Few College Profs,' Make More Mechanics,' He Says

(By United News)
Chicago, Oct. 21.—Killing off of a few college professors, "beginning with the leading ones" to overcome a scarcity of plasterers, was advocated today by James A. Patten, one time editor of the Chicago wheat pit, and donor of Northwestern university's $500,000 Patten gymnasium.

The proposal to execute the professor was made at a sub-committee meeting of the citizens to enforce the Landis award, regulating building trades wages in Chicago, when it developed that plasterers are getting as high as $20 a day and are scarce at that.

Patten said he had talked it over with college professors. "There's something wrong when plasterers get more pay than university professors," Patten said. "There's too much education—boys go to school and acquire a desire for a white collar job and won't work at a trade. It's all a law, a supply and demand. Too many college professors—too few mechanics."

Chico Pastor Free After Nearly Seven Years in Prison

San Quentin, Cal., Oct. 21.—(L. N. S.)—The prison doors swung open today for the Rev. Madison Slaughter after being closed for six years and five months.

The former Chico pastor, whose trial six years ago for alleged betrayal of Gertrude Lamson was a nation-wide sensation, is free.

He was met at the prison gates by his wife, who throughout the trial was stout in maintaining his innocence. She has battled for his parole during the years of his imprisonment.

Quart of Booze Almost Sewed Up By Ladies' Aid

Redmond, Oct. 21.—"Bats" are often closely connected with bottles of old rye, but seldom are they of the cotton variety and not often at a meeting of a Ladies' Aid society.

While members of the local organization were tacking comforts for Mrs. J. F. Roberts, wife of a prominent Redmond merchant, they discovered in the center of a cotton batt a quart of the before the war variety. Cotton bats and Ladies' Aid have become popular with portions of Redmond's population.

Oregon Wins Grid Battle By One Goal

PENDLETON, Oct. 21.—Superior toe work on the part of Chapman, not superior football, gave Oregon university a 2-point edge in her game against Whitman here Friday. Twice, once in the first and again in the third quarter, Chapman lifted the oval over the crossbar. Once he failed. Tilton, Whitman's lengthy end, out of three trials successfully negotiated the distance once, tying the game in the second quarter. The game ended with Oregon at the best end of a 6 to 3 score and the ball in the center of the field.

Nearly four thousand people saw the game, almost filling the grand stand and thoroughly satisfied with the first inter-collegiate game played here in years, but probably, because of its success, an annual event for the future.

Oregon's first chance to score came after a hitup battle in midfield when a punt rebounded from the arms of a Whitman player on Whitman's 10-yard line, into the arms of successful punter immediately converted it into a field goal.

PLACE KICK FAILS

After an exchange of punts had left the ball again near Oregon's goal in the second quarter, Chapman again tried a kick from placement, but failed. From that point Whitman five times made her first down through a medley of line plunges by Morris, Hall and Tilton, and a couple of successful passes and an end run from a kick formation, developed to the tune of the staccato thump of Whitman's unique "deaf and dumb" signals. From the 25-yard line Tilton lifted the ball over the goal posts for Whitman's only score, tying the count at that period.

Oregon came back in the same quarter with a couple of varied kick balls, four times making first down, carrying the ball to within striking distance by means of straight line bucks and a couple of successful passes, only to be forced into a kick.

Tilton ran Gram's punt back 65 yards to Oregon's 15-yard line, only to see Whitman men and 15 yards on that play and 15 more on the next, wiping out a chance to score. Gram's punt, followed by a 10-yard off-side penalty, gave Oregon forced the ball on the 45-yard line, from where he essayed a Cleveland style failed.

CHAPMAN SCORES GOAL

An exchange of punts gave Oregon a chance to kick from the 47-yard line and Chapman delivered the winning score. The last quarter both teams showed the effect of the battle. The play slowed up and was confined principally to the center of the field, though Whitman made an attempt to get within striking distance of Oregon's goal, when Heritage blocked Gram's punt, but Tilton failed to deliver an attempted drop kick.

WASHINGTON STATE DEFEATS IDAHO AFTER BAD START

Moscow, Idaho, Oct. 21.—The Washington State college football team Friday defeated Idaho in the annual grid classic, 18 to 9. Idaho's lead was 9 to 5, until the last quarter, when Bray smashed through for the first Cougar touchdown, followed a few seconds later by a second. Stivers' pass on the 20-yard line and a scored with an open field ahead. Bray made the deciding factor on all touchdowns.

Idaho opened with a smashing offensive which worried the Cougars greatly. Kieffer slipped across for a touchdown in the first few minutes of play.

Hansen scooped a W. S. C. fumble in midfield and Idaho worked down to the 25-yard line where he kicked out a perfect place kick. In the second Brown was downed behind his line as he fumbled a ball from center for a safety. Idaho held held for downs on the one-yard line.

The Cougars loosened their heavy offensive work in the last period, and after a steady march down the field pushed Bray across for a touchdown. It was problematical, as the Idaho line had held for three downs within five yards of the goal. The Cougars kicked deep to Stivers and on the second play Hickey intercepted Stivers' pass on the 25-yard line and trotted through open field for another Cougar touchdown.

Idaho opened a powerful aerial attack which threatened to score another touchdown. Stivers, Vasser and Cobley featured in this drive, aided by two Cougar offside penalties moved within striking distance of the goal line, but Wheeler spoiled their chance when he grabbed a long pass to Cobley.

Twice did Stivers, Vandal quarter, save the game. Each time he nailed Zaeffel after he had broken through the Idaho secondary defense, and prevented a touchdown. Despite the damp field there was a minimum number of fouls.

ADAMSON'S ADVENTURES—Another Theory Goes Wrong

New York May Lose Its Little Show in '23

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—To whom it may concern, and all others, it may be mentioned that the chances of the all-New York nuisance being repeated for the world's championship in 1923 are about one in 20. For this Allah be praised.

The idea of a private little world series has about worn out its welcome, here and everywhere. No one, except the club owners and players concerned are for it. In two years the novelty of the thing has died a lingering death and even New York fans would be pleased to see some outsider break through.

Barring the mid-winter juggery of players, for which both New York entries are noted, the outsider in question should ride through on the following reasons, cited in the order of their importance:

CAUSES ENUNCIATED

1. The growing strength of the Tigers and White Sox and possible improvement of the Browns.
2. Few clubs have been able to win a pennant three years in succession.
3. The morale of the Yankees is at a low ebb as the result of the terrible manhandling given them by the Giants.
4. Having denuded the Boston Red Sox of everything worth their trouble, the Yankees cannot look to other clubs in the league for assistance next year.

They will be strictly on their own and that may not be enough. It is by no means young club.
The Tigers and White Sox, on the contrary, were just coming at the finish of the 1922 campaign. Cobb needed just one more reliable pitcher, and he may get the man he is seeking before next spring. In any case, the Tigers

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 21.—Ralph De Palma's malice is taking up at the little Calaboose at Chowilla—but Ralph is away from there.

He is supposed to be serving a 10-day jail sentence as the result of his losing a race with the speed cop of Madera county. Some of the letters are sympathetic. Others—take it from the officials—are less than that.

But Ralph was wise. He retained a good local firm to get him out of jail. They told the kindly justice that the noted automobile racer was under contract to design a racing car and that he would lose money if he had to stay in the calaboose right now. The judge agreed this would be tough, to say the least. He agreed execution of the sentence could be suspended until November 15.

They told the judge that Ralph had to compete in the Thanksgiving day races at Los Angeles. It would be too bad to prevent him from doing that.

So the judge fixed the date to commence working out the penalty as December 1.
"I'll have to be served, and the sooner the better," said his sonner.
"But there is time out it is time out."
And he will have hopes until December 1.

EASTERN FISTIC GOSSIP

By Fairplay
(Copyright, 1922, by The Journal)

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Notice was served today on Lew Tendler, Ever Hammer and many other lightweight who are trying to coax Benny Leonard into a prize ring to contest for his championship title that one Mr. C. White, left-hook artist, from Chicago, is among those present.

The Middle West veteran must be counted in the entries of the lightweight contenders. He showed Friday night that, instead of being an old boy, he is mighty up and coming. One socking left hook that did not travel farther than a foot of distance before landing flush on the button of Sid Mark's chin demonstrated that. White showed, furthermore, that he has gotten over the habit of not always following the lead of his opponent, and has advantage that his long ring experience and science gives him.

White has always been good. There has been nothing, however, in one fault that has heretofore kept him out of the outer rim of a title. This was seeming stage fright, or lack of that cold-blooded determination to put him in the ring, and get the best of him with a maze of hooks, jabs and swings.

On Friday night White took the first round to feel Marks out. Marks landed several jolting wallops in the mean time. But in the second White started right in and went through to the finish, which was one second less than a whole minute. It took him some time over the second round to do the work.

Mickey Walker has the chance of his fighting lifetime to carry home the bacon in the welterweight class on November 1. Next Friday night he battles Jack Britton, that crafty veteran, who has refused to give up the time over a rather mussy bunch of contenders. Jack is as clever as he ever was, but even his followers say he hasn't the punch and pep he used to have. Walker, however, has shown well in his last few bouts and looks like title timber.

Jack Johnson and those back of him at last have come out openly in an effort to put the ex-Chicago black back into the ring. In a long interview, Johnson said he thinks the country owes him another chance at a living. It is suggested that Jack get a job that would not bring him into such a strong light, the awakening memories less fragrant than certain brands of imported cheese. Johnson grandiloquently declared today that he thinks the public would like to see him in action again.

Floyd Johnson, who bumped off Bob Martin a fortnight back, and whose steps are leading toward Jack Dempsey, will fight Joe Vidias in New York Tuesday night. While Vidias isn't much of a job for Floyd to handle, it will be interesting to see Martin's victor in action again and to learn just how long it will take him to dispose of Vidias.

Oozing slowly and by degrees into the news column, like the first trickle of water into an irrigation ditch, preliminary propaganda to get Jack Johnson back into the prize ring with gloves on. It is all being very cleverly done. Jack Johnson did more to disgrace the fight game than any other man in several decades. His flaunting of himself and the title that he never did anything to enhance, crystallized the present attitude of the public toward mixed fights. Jack Johnson did liberally and without reason ditched Sam Fitzpatrick, who made him and who now lies at the point of death in the hospital. The Johnsons have to do with the glory of the title, finally landed in jail.

The boxing commission of any state that permits any man to fight Johnson will do more to disgrace the boxing than one act than anything else that could be done.

P. R. L. & P. Issued Power Permits in Clackamas County

Favorable action upon the application of the Portland company for the use of the water from these two Clackamas county streams for power development will be taken soon, it was indicated by Cupper, thus clearing the way to an immediate development of this proposed power project.

Centre and Harvard Vie For Honors

By Henry L. Farrell
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 21.—Filled with faith and fight, "the praysin' college" from Old Kaintuck's famous Centre college went against Harvard's finest here today in the first game of the 1922 football season.

Banged up by injuries earlier and with a bunch of cold and sore throats caused by the change from the Sunny South to the frigid eastern coast
