

GENERAL MORTON IN PORTLAND ON INSPECTION TOUR

Commanding General of Ninth Army Corps Says He Regards Army too Small for Nation.

Major General C. G. Morton, commanding general of the Ninth United States Army Corps area, comprising the eight Western states and Alaska, arrived in Portland, Saturday evening, for a four-day visit in the vicinity of Portland, on a tour of inspection.

General Morton, next in rank to General Pershing, is accompanied by Mrs. Morton, who, he says, is such an enthusiast for the Northwest that she made the trip north from San Francisco in spite of the fact that it is to be a strenuous one, with many side trips to make.

"First let me say that the I. W. W. situation in Portland has absolutely nothing to do with my presence here," said General Morton, smiling. "I regard it as very necessary and a pleasing part of my duties to keep in touch with the people of the Ninth Corps area, and I spend about half of my time visiting the posts and inspecting training schools and conferring on matters which have to do with army affairs in my territory."

ARMY SMALL BUT MIGHTY

The army now is down to a very small size for such a nation, and we feel the shortage keenly. We now have about 125,000 men. One end of the army is in China and the other in Germany and the part between is here. I hope that congress in its great wisdom will realize that we haven't enough troops or enough officers to keep up the posts in good order. There was a movement on foot to do away with Vancouver barracks and Camp Lewis for the present, but by strenuous effort the garrisons will both be kept as permanent posts.

LEWIS AT HALF STRENGTH

Lewis is kept at about half its strength before the reduction of the army began and Vancouver is about the same as at the beginning of the reduction process. We hope that congress in the near future will give us more men and more money for the army. We need them both."

General Morton declares that he finds that the west coast has suffered less from the effects of the war than any other part of the country.

IMPRESSED WITH NORTHWEST

"The Northwest looks solidly industrially," said the general. "In fact, the whole Pacific Coast seems to be. But Portland and Seattle seem especially active in a business way."

General Morton spent a year in France in command of the 98th division, which included troops from Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia. He is a West Point man and is now second highest ranking officer in the army. Following his service in France he was in command of the department of Hawaii.

WILL CALL ON GOVERNOR

While here General Morton will visit Salem and call upon the governor. He will visit the training camps at Oregon Agricultural college and at Eugene. He has been forced to cancel his engagement to visit the coast defenses on account of lack of time. He will spend some time at Vancouver barracks with General Blatchford, who, with Colonel Pegram Whitworth, was in conference with him at the Bonahotel Saturday evening. From Portland, General Morton will go to Camp Lewis, Seattle, Spokane, Missoula and Helena, Mont., and then return to San Francisco.

READY FOR INSPECTION

Vancouver, Wash., Oct. 21.—Vancouver barracks are ready for inspection by Major General Morton, commander of the ninth corps area, who arrived in Portland tonight from San Francisco. General Morton is expected to remain several days.

Menorah Society Convention to Be Held at Portland

A convention of the chapters west of the Rockies of the Menorah society, national organization of Jewish students, will be held in Portland from November 30 to December 4, under the auspices of the Jewish students of Reed college.

Conference meetings will be held at Reed college, Temple Beth Israel, Bnai Brith building and Concordia club. President R. F. Scholz of Reed college will make the first address. Other speakers during the convention will be Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, Miss Julietta Kahn, national secretary of the organization, Rabbi Martin Meyer and Dr. Samuel C. Kohn, professor of sociology at Reed college. Besides formal addresses, members will present debates on Jewish problems and symposiums will be held.

The Menorah society was organized at Harvard university in 1912. At present it has chapters in all the large colleges and universities where there are enough Jewish students to justify them.

NEW MEASURE ON WATER BONDS IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Report Shows Amendment Proposes to Place Water Bureau on Self-Sustaining Basis.

A special committee appointed by the board of governors of the city club, and composed of Sidney J. Graham, H. W. Hughes and John H. Lewis, to investigate the merits of the proposed charter amendment relative to water bonds, which will be submitted to the voters of Portland November 7, has filed its report recommending that the measure be approved by the voters.

The report thoroughly analyzes the proposed amendment which has two sections, the first relating to the issuance of bonds for additions to the property and the second authorizes refunding of the water bonds issued July 1, 1893, amounting to $2,200,000, and which become due July 1 of next year.

SELF-SUSTAINING

This report shows that the amendment has been prepared with the idea of placing the water bureau upon a self-sustaining basis, as it makes revenues from the sale of water primarily liable for payment of principal and interest on the bonds. It requires the council to make estimates of the probable cost of operation, maintenance and depreciation of the water works, together with interest and sinking fund required for all outstanding indebtedness during the ensuing year, and thereupon to fix the water rates for the year at figures which will insure a sufficient income to pay for such expense and cost. Other provisions pertain to the method by which the sinking fund shall be created, and on this subject the report says:

BETTER BOND PRICES

"This will protect the financial integrity of the city and should result in a better price being obtained for the bonds."

"The second section," says the report, "specifically authorizes the refunding of bonds becoming due July 1, 1923, which were issued for property that will be in use for many years. This authority must be granted, if the future development of the water system will be seriously handicapped, and the credit of the city of Portland impaired."

Negotiations are Resumed Between Shopmen and Roads

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Negotiations broken off by the railroad shopmen's strike were resumed today between Bert M. Jewell and the United States labor board. Mr. Jewell, president of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the labor board today, giving formal notice that he would ask that the shopmen's case against the New York Central be reopened with in few days. Although the case is strictly a technical one, involving a dispute over piece work in the Elkhart, Ind., shops, it marked the formal renewal of negotiations between the two bodies.

PEGGY BEAL TRIAL SET FOR MONDAY

To Ask for Acquittal on Ground That She Killed Lover to Save Other Women.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 21.—(U. P.)—Pretty Peggy Beal, who killed her perfect lover, Frank Anderson, of Indianapolis, to save other women, will go on trial here Monday. Prosecuting Attorney Cameron Orr announced tonight.

The case, most unusual in Kansas City's history, will be called on docket in Judge Ralph S. Latschaw's court, although delays may postpone formal opening until Wednesday. Orr said: "Being on the twisted biblical admonition, 'I am my sister's keeper,' Mrs. Beal alone will take the stand to fight for freedom, according to plans of the defense tonight."

TO SAVE OTHERS

She plans to recite the story of her life—how she left Dayton, Ohio, to come to Kansas City on the promise of marriage from the man she loved, then found he had a wife and discovered a list of 50 women in many cities of the country with whom he claimed intimacies.

"I thought of those girls who were to suffer as I did, so I killed him," Peggy has said in explaining the shooting of Anderson in a hotel room here.

She will rely on this to free her from charges of second degree murder, S. George Birmingham, her attorney, said tonight.

BOOK AS EVIDENCE

The prosecution plans to try and show the shooting was premeditated. A copy of "Thuvia, Maid of Mars," will be introduced in the trial, Orr said. The book was found in a picture showing "Thuvia" bending over her slain lover.

After Anderson was shot, Mrs. Beal turned the gun on herself and fired. Powder burns ignited her filmy garments and she was severely burned when police broke into the room. Weeks of recuperation during which she was subjected to a skin grafting operation, followed. Since her release from the hospital she has been in the county jail.

MILLIONS BLOCK FRAUD INQUIRIES, DAUGHERTY SAYS

Every Means Resorted To to Interfere With Investigation of Irregularities, Prosecutor Says

Canton, Ohio, Oct. 21.—More than 400 war fraud cases, representing billions of dollars, are now undergoing liquidation, Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty declared here tonight in an address to Ohio Republicans.

"Recoveries," he said, "will be made. Many settlements will be and have been made."

"The unjustifiable financial loss to the American government, however, can never be fully recovered."

Every known method of interference and intrigue to block the war frauds investigation, said the attorney general, was attempted by those involved. He continued:

"There is no limit to their resources. They had more of their illegal gotten money for defense than the government had for investigation. They had no regard for the government and no regard for the character of any man in position, high or low."

"No name was sacred, and in fact, no life was safe if it stood in the way of their escape."

When available funds had been exhausted and congress was asked for a half million dollars appropriation to carry on the work, said the attorney general, the storm broke loose.

Lost Lake Road Is Progressing, Says U. S. Forest Ranger

Stanley C. Walters, forest ranger of Hood River, visited Portland Friday and reported that work on the road to Lost Lake is progressing favorably. The road which comes in from Dec and enters the national forest for some distance is now being surfaced, but the work will probably have to be discontinued for the winter by the end of this month. The road bed is being slashed along the east side of the lake. The property which will be opened by this road will include lots for 104 summer homes, but applications cannot be made valid as yet because a large part of the property is owned by the Oregon Lumber company, which has not yet completed transfer of titles to the government under the exchange law. The Lost Lake country promises to be one of the most scenic and popular of camp sites in Oregon, for the summer months.

HOOD RIVER PEOPLE WELCOME GOVERNOR

governor declared that at no time had he permitted any political influence to control or interfere with the work of this department. Every time any effort had been made to introduce politics into the highway commission he had used his power and vetoed such legislation, he said.

Governor Olcott asserted he favors continuation of the market road program and desires to see the Roosevelt highway completed. The program, he said, calls for laterals in all directions for the benefit of the farming communities.

The governor's talk, in which he did not refer to his opponent, was greeted with prolonged cheers by his large audience.

PIERCE IS ATTACKED

The other speaker was Thomas B. Kay and from the outset he settled down to dissect and refute statements made by Walter M. Pierce, Democratic candidate for governor, in his state-wide campaign. The program, he said, made a number of promises of an indirect nature, but has not attempted to show in concrete form what these promises amount to. He asserted that Pierce, as senator, had voted for measures which covered fully 95 per cent of the entire taxation for which the legislature is responsible.

Governor Olcott declared, he had had the tax problem under consideration for some time and in 1921 appointed a committee to investigate angles of the problem in all parts of the state. The result had been the formation of the tax investigation commission.

FIGURES ARE QUESTIONED

Kay declared that many of Pierce's tax statistics were false, especially that in which he stated that taxes for state government expenses had increased 300 per cent in three years. He analyzed figures given out by Pierce in an effort to show that many inaccuracies and wrong conclusions had been arrived at by the Democratic nominee.

Concluding, he said that Pierce had proved as reckless in figures as in promises regarding reduction of taxes and declared that Pierce himself knows as well as anybody that he could, even if elected, do little to check taxation unless her could persuade the people to vote against taxes.
