

DUNCAN OFFERS AN APOLOGY FOR EVANS' RECALL

Stating that he was "duped" to cover the actions of certain group of attorneys, Robert G. Duncan, who instituted a recall petition against Circuit Judge Walter H. Evans, apologized to the jurist in a letter made public this morning.

Several weeks ago a suit was brought by Duncan against the public service commission in an effort to lower telephone rates. The suit was taken before Judge Evans, who ruled that the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company could intervene as a defendant and Duncan immediately started the petition to have the jurist removed.

Duncan's letter of apology to Judge Evans follows:

"I am now confident that I was made the 'goat' and that I was used to bring out the recall petition as an alibi for attorneys who assured me there was not a chance of the telephone company being allowed to defend the suit directed against the public service commission.

"I have never maliciously assailed any man's character or official record. Therefore I wish to apologize to you for any trouble I have caused you in this matter, and at the same time I advise you that the recall petition have been withdrawn from circulation.

"I will further state that I will support you at the coming election."

Women Jurors Will Help Try Slayer of Bergin, Stunt Actor

Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 23.—Women are expected to be present on the jury that will hear the trial of George A. Cline, motion picture director, charged with the murder of handsome Jack Bergin, daredevil "stunt" actor, of Edgewater, N. J., last August.

Cline, who alleges that Bergin committed suicide, having been with Mrs. Cline, is expected to rely on the "unwritten law" defense, which was used in the famous Harry K. Thaw trial.

Charles Scullion, Cline's brother-in-law, and Alice Thornton, 19-year-old movie actress and former sweetheart of Bergin, will also be tried as accessories, the state accusing them of having assisted in luring Bergin into Cline's home to be shot.

Policeman Nabs Man Caught With Load of Bedding

John Morgan, 35, an iron worker, staggered bareheaded along at First and Alder streets in the wee hours this morning, weighted down by a great roll of bedding. Upon his face was a set and determined expression.

Sergeant Ennis, passing by, muttered "Aha," and collared Morgan.

"It was just getting even with the old man," said Morgan. "He's got my hat."

"The bundle slipped from Morgan's arm and he wrestled to pick it up. I just met the old man last night and we went down to his room at First and Pine streets to have a drink. We took off our shoes and hats to be comfortable. He says something and I says somethin' and we got to fightin'. He got a butcher knife from under the bed, and I says 'That's the way an I. W. W. fights, and I took it away from him.'

"He grabbed my hat and shoes and run out the room. He dropped the shoes but took the hat. So I took these things to get even."

"Examination of Morgan's possessions revealed a salt and pepper shaker, an old cracked pitcher, a light globe and the bedding. Morgan was booked at the police station for larceny. The landlady at First and Pine said the "old man" was August Olin, 60.

Woman Pastor and President of Board Of Church Missing

Newark, N. J., Oct. 23.—With the mystery of the disappearance of the Rev. Mrs. Olive Sedille, pastor of the First Spiritualist church here, still unsolved, the police tonight started a nationwide search both for her and Harry Levitt, 66, married and president of the church board, who is also missing.

Mrs. Sedille is an officer of the Newark Spiritualist society and police say that certain funds of that organization are missing. Mrs. Sedille, it is charged, sold most of her furniture, payments on which had not been completed.

Eugene Everett Sedille, husband of the preacher, left his wife several months ago and is living in Detroit. He was notified of her disappearance, but made no comment.

Mrs. Sedille, according to the police, took her four children, who range in age from 4 to 9, with her.

It was reported that Mrs. Sedille had gone to a spiritualist convention in Chicago, but reports from that city say she is not there. Levitt helped Mrs. Sedille pack her trunks before they disappeared.

Rector's Love Notes Sizzle 'Wonderheart' One Pet Name

(Copyright, 1922, by Universal Service and the New York American)

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 23.—Intense devotion of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills for the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, already revealed by letters and diary exclusively presented by Universal Service, is further displayed in a letter she wrote last March to her sister, Mrs. Elsie Barnhart of Paterson.

The batch of documents obtained today by Universal Service includes also a love poem by Hall and a prayer he wrote for Mrs. Mills when she underwent a major operation in a New Brunswick hospital last February.

It is for this operation that Mills is still repaying the church of St. John the Evangelist out of his wages of $5 a week he receives as assistant sexton.

Though Mr. Hall came from a sick bed to place the prayer in Mrs. Mills' hands. She read it aloud with him and clasped it as she went under the ether.

Later she remarked to a relative: "This is the prayer I carried to the brink of death."

Hall was present during the operation. The signature of the ardent love poem, "D. T. L., standing for the German 'deine treue liebe,' or 'thy true love,'" is the same as that attached to some of the remarkable letters of affection written by Hall.

This is the prayer:

"A prayer: 'Into thy fatherly keeping I commit my life completely with trust and confidence. 'Thou art my dwelling place and underneath are thy everlasting arms. 'To thee I give my body that thou mayest receive it. 'May I fall asleep peacefully in them. 'Guard me through the hours of unconsciousness guide the hands of the surgeon through the wound he must make, and may thy healing power restore me to health and strength. 'I ask this, O Father, in the name of my Savior and Redeemer, this son, Jesus Christ. Amen.'"

Following is the poem:

October, 1921.
Every cloud is radiant, golden,
And the evening calm and beauty
Brings the busy day to rest.

Oh, my heart is singing, glowing
With the glow of the heavens above—
For my love has made life golden,
With the radiance of her love.

Oh, my Father, what a beauty
What a calm, a sure repose,
For my life is filled with fragrance
Like the fragrance of a rose.

Oh, my darling, Oh, my sweetheart
My true love forever more—
Hear these golden verses, tell me
How I love you and adore.

Paper Story Offers Take Regular Rate

Washington, Oct. 23.—(I. N. S.)—Telegrams offering news stories and news services for sale to newspapers are not subject to the regular press rates, the interstate commerce commission decided today. Such messages, the commission held, are straight business messages and liable to the usual business rates. The commission refused to order telegraph companies to accept such messages at press rates, as requested by a commercial news organization.

probably the only thing that sustained her courage through that test.

ANOTHER WOMAN'S NAME IS LINKED WITH RECTOR'S
New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 23.—That the Rev. Edward W. Hall may have lavished a part of his affections on a woman other than Mrs. Eleanor Mills with whom he was slain, was indicated here today with the discovery of a telegram he sent the other woman in New York last August.

"Will meet you at your apartment this evening," the message read.

The name of the woman has not been revealed. At the same time Hall sent the telegram he also sent a message to his brother-in-law, Henry Stevens, reading:

"Sorry, I can't get down."

Significance is attached to the telegram by persons who hold that jealousy was the motive for the slaying. One theory was advanced that Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills may have had a meeting place in some woman's apartment in New York. Another theory was that Dr. Hall was friendly with the New York woman and called upon her at times.

The authorities this afternoon questioned three women about the murder mystery, but would not reveal their names.

BUREAU AIMS TO HOLD EXPENSES AT 3 BILLIONS

Washington, Oct. 23.—(U. P.)—An effort is being made by the federal budget bureau to cut governmental expenditures for the next fiscal year down to the $3,000,000,000 mark.

If the federal expenses can be cut to this figure, it will represent a reduction of about $750,000,000 below the expenditures for the current fiscal year. This saving, with receipts of about $200,000,000 expected from interest on the foreign debt, will make possible a further large reduction in taxes during the next year.

The budget of the next fiscal year, which begins July 1, 1923, will be submitted to congress when it meets in regular session early in December.

General H. M. Lord, successor to General Dawes, the first federal budget director, is forcing heads of many government bureaus to cut their financial requests.

Some officials are predicting that taxes within the next year can be slashed as much as they were by the present congress, which was approximately $800,000,000 a year.

These predictions exclude the possibility of passing a soldier bonus bill, which would cause expenditures of hundreds of millions from the treasury.

Even if expenditures are cut next year to $3,000,000,000, the cost of running the government still would be double the amount expended before the war. Much of the increase can be charged to the war, officials declare, pointing to the fact that the interest on the war debt and the sinking fund for its retirement amount to more than $1,000,000,000 a year.

There is certain to be a strong demand in congress for further reduction in army and navy expenditures.

Alice McNaught, House Candidate, Raps School Bill

Mrs. Alice McNaught, Democratic candidate for representative from Multnomah county, in a statement issued by her announces that she is opposed to the compulsory educational bill. She says:

"I have been repeatedly asked to state my views on the so-called compulsory public school bill. Inasmuch as the bill is an initiative measure, I have insisted that my individual opinion thereon should not be considered as of vital importance to the voter, and, in my campaign this far I have sought as far as possible to annul the violent animosities that have arisen on account of the proposed law. However, in order that I may not appear to be misleading my constituents, I wish it to be known at this time that, in my judgment, the bill is undemocratic in principle, and that its enactment into law would be a serious mistake for the people of Oregon, and therefore I cannot consistently support it."

FIREMAN IS KILLED
West Newton, Pa., Oct. 22.—(I. N. S.) One man, fireman of the train, was killed and a score of passengers injured when the Clarkburg-Pittsburg flyer of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was wrecked at Centerville, near here, just before noon today. The locomotive was derailed at a grade crossing by a piece of pipe that had dropped from an automobile truck a short time before.
