

J. B. YEON PLEADS FOR MONEY FOR GREELEY STREET

For the purpose of urging the inclusion of a $25,000 supplementary item in the county budget to allow for the completion of the Greeley street extension, John B. Yeon today went before the tax supervision and conservation commission. The tax commission received this morning from the county commissioners a letter containing several supplementary items which raise the total of the original budget $55,000. Commissioner Holman was allowed the privilege of filing later a minority report opposing the Greeley street item.

In the letter containing the supplementary items the county commissioners, with the exception of Holman, recommended the $25,000 item for the paving of Greeley street.

Other important items in the supplementary report were, $8000 for enforcement of prohibition, $5000 architects' fee for the designers of the county hospital, $10,000 for drainage in district No. 1 and $1200 for guarding county prisoners confined in local hospitals.

The county and city commissioners are allowed until December 10 for the filing of additional supplementary reports, which may contain any items overlooked or neglected in the original budgets.

Wednesday is the last day allowed for private defense or remonstrance against any items in either budget. Wednesday the tax commission will hear any citizens who wish to discuss items in the two budgets.

Rev. Edward Pence Makes Plea for Community Chest

"The Community Chest is your chance to befriend every suffering person and all in need in Portland," declared Dr. Edward H. Pence, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Chest, in an address before the Portland Rotary club at the Benson hotel this afternoon.

"It is a higher test than the banker applies to your financial resources or the doctor to the physical condition. A city without a soul is dead; the Chest is the redemption of Portland's soul," he said.

J. H. Joyce reported that the club has agreed to finance to the extent of $5000 the school dental clinic.

"A return to the primary virtues and a change in the method of individual thinking is the need of Europe's war-worn and distressed countries today," said Hopkin Jenkins, principal of Jefferson high school, summarizing the impressions derived from a trip to the war smitten countries.

Good News for Gift Buyers

In order to speed up the selling of the Quarter Million Dollar Stock of Jewelry, the F. Friedlander Company decided last night to bill all Jewelry purchased in November as of January 1st, nineteen twenty three. In an advertisement which appeared on Sunday, it was stated that "All sales were Cash." This was an error on the part of a too enthusiastic "ad man." The F. Friedlander Company does not expect all sales to be for cash. On the contrary, it is willing to open "Charge Accounts" for all who may desire the convenience, and who are, of course, responsible. This new "charge" policy, coupled with the sale prices now in effect, is expected to have a marked effect on the volume of business. Portland people can now buy at sale prices and take a reasonable time to pay.—Adv.

People Beth Israel will meet at the Ezra Frith building Wednesday at 4:15 p. m. to organize an athletic league under the direction of Professor Barr. This league will participate in regular athletic tournaments, basketball tournament and in the swimming tournament. All the members of the Sunday school are invited to be present at the building.

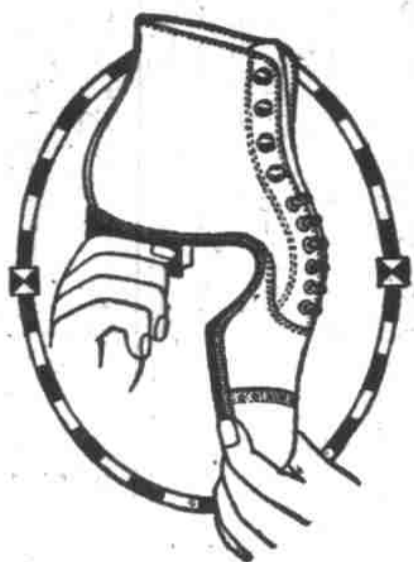

Policeman, Accused Of Family Neglect

Charged with failure to support his family properly and with associating with persons not up to the standard required of a policeman, Patrolman C. L. Chamberlain, a driver attached to the morals squad, was dismissed from the police force Monday by Chief Jenkins.

Chamberlain has been on the force but a short time and has not completed his probationary period. He is said to have permitted his wife and two small children go without proper support in spite of several requests by Chief Jenkins that he reform his conduct.

HEPPER MAN IS SUICIDE

Hepper, Nov. 21.—Elmer Beaman, 55, a bachelor, committed suicide here in his room in the Postoffice building by shooting himself in the head with a revolver.

Man's Foot Is Flexible

How many bones in a man's foot? Twenty-six, all forming three resilient arches in order to absorb the body shocks. The foot is flexible, not rigid.

What holds these small bones in their arched position? Muscles, tendons and ligaments. Keep them strong and well by wearing Cantilever Shoes—which are comfortable and serve a useful purpose. The Cantilever shank is flexible, permitting strengthening exercise of the foot muscles.
